

Uncle Philip is a popular American writer for children; and he has written an amusing and instructive book for them on the Forest Trees of America.

14. The Forest Trees of Great Britain.—By the Rev. C. A. JOHNS, B.A. In two vols. 12mo, cloth, pp. 373+452=825. (London: Christian Knowledge Society.) Price $1.60.

The object of these interesting volumes is to furnish the lover of nature with a popular account of the trees which are either natives of Great Britain, or naturalized in it. The illustrations are numerous and beautiful, and the descriptions animated and graphic—preceded by an Introduction, containing a sketch of the anatomical structure of a tree belonging to the class in which all British trees are comprised.

15. The Life of a Tree.—Being a History of the Phenomena of Vegetation from the Seed to the Death of the Plant. 16mo, square, cloth, pp. 240. (London: Christian Knowledge Society.) Price 50 cts.

Under the form of the biography of a tree—its infancy, youth, adult age, old age, and death—many facts of botanical science are detailed, and much entertaining and useful instruction is given. The engravings are beautiful.

16. The Book of Trees.—Descriptive of the principal Trees and the larger species of Palms. 16mo, cloth, pp. 216. (London: Christian Knowledge Society.) Price 50 cts.

This little work follows out in the vegetable kingdom the plan of popular instruction so successfully adopted in the Book of Animals, of Birds, of Fishes, of Reptiles, and of Shells, which have been noticed under the head of Zoology. Every youthful reader must be charmed with the illustrations of this little work, while he is entertained and instructed by the facts and explanations given.

17. Vegetable Substances used for the Food of Man.—12mo, half sheep, pp. 271. (American Edition.) Price 38 cts.

This work is one of the series of books prepared under the direction of the British Society for the Diffusion of Useful Knowledge, is illustrated with numerous engravings, and contains much useful and entertaining knowledge.

PHENOMENA AND CURIOSITIES OF NATURE.

1. Aspects of Nature.—In different lands and different climates, with scientific elucidations. By ALEXANDER VON HUMBOLDT. Translated by Mrs. SABINE. 8vo, cloth, pp. 475. (American Edition.) Price $1.

This work consists of a series of papers, which took their origin, as the learned author says, "in the presence of the natural scenes of grandeur and beauty—on the Ocean, in the forests of Orinoco, in the steppes of Venezuela, and in the mountain wildernesses of Peru and Mexico. The view of Nature on an enlarged scale, the display of the concurrent action of various forces and powers, and the renewal of the enjoyment which the immediate prospect of tropical scenery affords to sensitive minds, are the objects which I have proposed to myself." A book on such subjects, from such an author, cannot fail to be instructive and interesting.

2. The Six Days' Wonder.—Or the world as it was and is. 16mo, boards, pp. 229. (American Sunday School Union.) Price 30 cts.

This little work treats in a pleasing and instructive manner of the six days of the Creation, and the special object of it, is to present "the perfectness of God's works from the beginning." The two concluding sentences of the Preface deserves general attention. "We think it important to preserve and impress, especially on the minds of the young, the association of God's CREATIVE WORK with the period of six DAYS. It is a suggestive idea; for it leaves the SEVENTH for the holy purposes to which it has ever been consecrated, and teaches us that a reverence for it is no less requisite to the physical health and happiness of the world, than to the immortal nature and spiritual necessities of man."

3. The World of Waters.—Or Recreations in Hydrology. By ROSINA M. ZORNLI. Illustrated, 12mo, cloth, pp. 346. (English Edition.) Price 75 cts.

This is the third of a series of amusing and instructive books similar in kind, the former two being entitled "Recreations in physical Geography, and recreations in Geology." The phenomena and mechanical powers of waters are the subjects of this volume. The author says, "in this undertaking our attention has not been limited to the consideration of the laws of Hydrostatics and Hydraulics, nor yet to the more remarkable hydrographical features displayed in the natural world, but it has been our endeavour so to combine the two subjects, that their connexion may be clearly exhibited, and that they may thus tend to illustrate each other."

4. The Ocean.—By P. H. GOSSE. (London Christian Knowledge Society.) Illustrated, 8vo, cloth, pp. 360. Price $1.00.

This is quite a different work from the one just noticed. It is limited to describe a few of the many objects of interest more or less directly connected with the Sea, and to lead youthful readers to associate with the phenomena of nature habitual thoughts of God. The writer has explored all the great seas for materials, and has wrought them with much skill. The illustrations are beautiful.

5. Scenes in Nature.—Or conversations for children on land and water. 12mo., cloth, pp. 324. (American Edition.) Price 30 cts.

A book designed and well adapted to amuse and instruct children.

6. Recreations in Physical Geography.—Or the Earth as it is. With maps and engravings. 12mo., cloth, pp. 424. (English Edition.) Price 95 cts.

A book of a great deal of information, including not merely the natural features and phenomena of the earth, but the geographical distribution of plants, animals and man.

7. Natural Phenomena.—12mo., cloth, pp. 128. (London: Christian Knowledge Society.) Price 50 cts.

This little book presents thirty of the most remarkable phenomena of our globe, each beautifully illustrated and clearly explained.
