

material? Why or why not?

A SPECIAL BRUNS OPINION SURVEY

Lennox Pieast, Qualifying year for Masters in History.

I don't see why not. It is a University and we are all supposed to be adults in some ways. We are responsible for whatever we buy. If we don't want it we just don't buy it - we don't look. It's just like TV I guess. If you don't want to watch what is on TV, you don't turn the dial.

is exploitation. I'm material with women,
men — it's exploiting objects rather than

Aurelius Gordon, BA I

From a strictly business perspective, nothing is wrong with it. It is not an offense under the law to sell material that is pornographic. But from a strictly moral perspective it is disgraceful. The very content of the material dehumanizes the whole essence of our dignity. It turns the human body into a product in the market place. My view is that it is an indication in fact that the society is going to threads.

If laws are kept restricted for people over 19 and kept out of the hands of the kids, sure why not?

Yolanda Thornley, BA III

I don't think you can start censoring what people read. It's hard to draw the line on what people can see and what they can't see. In regards to selling it in the Smokeshoppe, the University is a small community, if you can have it in the general community store, I don't see why it can not be sold in the Smokeshoppe.

all it because it is people's want to buy it. If they don't f they do buy it then they
