

a tempting bit of cold roast pork, which was not very well taken care of by my unreasoning stomach, because not accustomed to it, I soon began to feel that abnormal conditions were present and suggested to my friend that we take a walk out in the woods to what was known as "the old camp-meeting ground of the old-time spiritualists," and see and hear what was going on there; and I would show him the stump of a great forest tree, which formed the platform for speakers from all points of the compass, including the Canadian then speaking to him. To this proposal he at once agreed, and we started without delay. As we were approaching the place, I suffered more and more severely from what is generally termed "acute indigestion," and with some difficulty soon reached a seat in the circle of people who were interested in a Pennsylvania farmer, who, under the control of an Indian, was healing the sick. This farmer, and non-professional psychic, approached the group where my friend and I were seated; and while in his normal condition, I asked him, "Can a Canadian Indian control you?" He replied, "Yes." I at once called to my aid Chief Tecumseh, who led the Indian forces as an ally of the British army in the war with the Americans, and who fell in an action near Chatham, Ontario, where, to honor his services, a monument stands today in that city. His spirit I have talked with, he using a trumpet more than once, during which time he informed me that he was one of several who composed my Indian band of aiders. I also summoned Gray Feather, control of J. B. Jonson of Toledo, who in the past had frequently conversed with me, and had controlled a trumpet medium on two occasions for me. The first to arrive and control the farmer psychic was Tecumseh, who shook hands with me first, and then placed them over my epigastric region, and soon I felt improvement. I introduced him to my friend. Immediately after Gray Feather arrived and controlled the farmer psychic. He went at once to my friend, whose hands he shook heartily, for he was already acquainted with him. He then said in his own way of speaking English, "Me so glad to see you here with my friend the doctor," and then came direct to me,
