

Bog Spavin

Cure the lameness and remove the bunch without scarring the horse—have the part looking just as it did before the blemish came.

Fleming's Spavin Cure (Liquid) is a special remedy for soft and semi-solid blemishes—Bog Spavin, Thoroughpins, Splints, Curb, Capped Hock, etc. It is neither a liniment nor a simple blister, but a remedy unlike any other—doesn't irritate and can't be limited. Easy to use, only a little required, and your money back if it ever fails.

Fleming's Vest-Pocket Veterinary Adviser describes and illustrates all kinds of blemishes and gives you the information you ought to have before ordering or buying any kind of a remedy. Mailed free if you write.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS. Veterinary.

BRUISED TEAT.

Cow got her teat bruised in some way, and we cannot milk her without using a tube.

Ans.—Bathe teat often with hot water, and after bathing dress with an ointment made of 1 dram powdered opium mixed with 1 ounce vaseline. Use tube until she will allow you to milk by hand.

RINGWORM, ETC.

1. Bull has patches of rash on both sides, and cow has patches from the size of a 25c. piece to the size of a 50c. piece from neck to rump.

2. Can you tell me the age of the Standard-bred stallion Bane 16576, American Trotting Register?

Ans.—1. This is ringworm. It is due to a parasite, and is very contagious, hence the affected animals should be isolated, and great care taken not to carry the contagion on hands, pads, stable utensils, etc., to healthy animals. Get an ointment made of 2 drams white hebeore, mixed with 1 ounce vaseline. Dress the parts twice daily with this until cured.

2. Write "The Accountant," National Live-stock Register, Parliament Buildings, Ottawa, Ont., for information.

FATALITY IN COW.

One Friday in August cow refused food and gave little milk. She was dull for two days, and then improved. The next Friday she again refused food, and gave no milk. I purged her with Epsom salts and she got better, then worse. I sent for my veterinarian. He gave her a powder, and she was dead in four hours.

Ans.—It would require more definite ante-mortem symptoms and a careful post-mortem examination to enable a person to diagnose the trouble. You were too late in sending for your veterinarian. The cow was dying when he arrived, and it was not possible for him to either diagnose the disease or treat it successfully. If he had been sent for earlier, he would have at least had a chance to do something. It is probable she had a diseased liver, for which nothing could have been done.

To Buyers Looking for a GOOD STALLION

I HAVE imported Percheron Stallions for years, always bought them from the best breeders in France, and beg to call the attention of prospect buyers to the fact that I have at the present time a better lot of Percheron Stallions in my barn than any barn in Canada. I have the big kind, the right kind, the kind that good judges are looking for. I won, as usual, more prizes at the leading fairs than all the Percheron importers put together. My horses are beautiful dappled greys and blacks. Two to eight years old, weighing 1,700 to 2,200 lbs., with feet and legs that cannot be beat. Beautiful heads and necks. The kind that good buyers are looking for. I do not intend, and will not allow, if I can help it, anyone to give more quality and breeding for fixed price than I will. Come to the home of the Champion Prizewinners and judge for yourself.
