Obituary

Mr. Charles Lutes. A well known resident of Brantford passed to his last long rest yesterday in the person of Charles Lutes. Death took place at his home, 197 Park Ave. in the 62nd year of his age. For many years he was engaged in post office work and in that public capacity made hosts of friends, who will to-day mourn his loss. Always an ardent Baptist, he was a member of the Calvary Church, and he was identified with Court Brant C. O. F. and also with No. 408 A. C. O. O. F. Besides a widow, he leaves one son and one daughter, Mrs. J. L. Davison of Toronto, and Charles of Vienna. The funeral will take place tomorrow to Waterloo cemetery, from the late residence.

A Household Motto.

No longer do we gasp with admiration at the woman who tells us that the things she had in her house came from more than half the civilized countries in the world. It's all very well for the hunter to point to the heads on the walls of his den and tell you that he shot them in nine provinces or on three continents, in lands of almost eternal snow, and lands of tropical heat, on mountain, moor or plain, over a whole atlas of maps. It's very interesting to listen to the aged athlete tell you from how many sporting associations and under how many flags he gathered his great mugs and shields and illuminated addresses. But the man of woman who strikes a thrill into us nowadays is the man or woman who can take us over the house and demonstrate that from garret to cellar, from the front verandah to the steps at the back kitchen door, and even out into the woods, the things which make that house a home, were made in Canada, the land of homes, and under one flag, the Union Jack. There should be in every home a "made-in-Canada" society whose business it is to increase the number of things in that home made in Canada. Some may call it patriotism. It isn't. It's only common sense and the best kind of selfishness.

MUSICAL SERVICE. At the Wellington St. Methodist Church last night the choir of forty-five voices under the leadership of Mr. Thos. Darwin, gave a splendid rendition of Gounod's "Gallia" and "By Babylon's Wave." The choir was assisted by the Darwin orchestra and Miss Edith Whitaker of Hamilton. Miss Whitaker also sang "O Divine Redeemer" (Gounod) and her fine soprano voice was greatly appreciated by the audience, the beautiful tone quality being in keeping with the classic character of the compositions of Gounod. The pastor, Rev. R. Hamilton, gave a short address on the life and work of Gounod, which was instructive, and brought out the fact that Gounod's music is of the highest value in the church.

BISHOP IS DEAD.

QUEBEC, Nov. 15.—Bishop Andrew Hunter Dunn, who recently resigned from the bishopric at Quebec, died last night on the Steamer Hesperian, on his way to the Old Country. He had been suffering from paralysis for some time.

WINTER WEATHER

WINNIPEG, Nov. 16.—The first wave of wintry weather struck the prairie provinces over the week-end, and Calgary holds the records so far with ten below zero last night. Several points in Saskatchewan report zero temperature, while Minnedosa, Man., reports four below.

Breakdown of Civilization.

Philadelphia Evening Ledger: The beginning of hostilities by Turkey may bring the very gravest consequences. Undoubtedly the Balkan States will again be in flames. Italy is more likely than ever to be drawn in on the side of the Allies. While Greece and the fleets of the allies take care of what little there is of Turkey in Europe, Japan may become more active in Asia. The entire situation looks like the temporary breakdown of civilization, with America only standing firm.

The German Professorial Mind.

London Daily Mail: When the protagonists of German "culture" can hold up their hands, dripping with Belgian blood, and accuse Great Britain or any other land of seeking its own ends without regard to ethics, we realize, first, that their state of mind is irremediable, and, secondly, that what in this struggle we have to overcome is not merely the armed strength of Prussian militarism, but the whole order of poisonous and perverted ideas that spring from it and help to sustain it.

Germany's Real Object.

Providence (R.I.) Journal: A German war magazine flatly declares that "the object of the war is the overthrow of England." At last, very likely, we have the essential truth of the matter. All previous German explanations to the effect that Germany was forced into the war to resist the "slav" menace may now be discounted. England would have been justified in going to war, even without the excuse of the German violation of Belgian neutrality, for undoubtedly she had a strong suspicion of Germany's real "object" from the beginning.
