Native African Kept Eyes On Watch for Hour.

France has many black fighting men from Senegal in the field; nor are they the only troops recruited from savage or semisavage races engaged in the great conflict. A young British officer found himself one night, by a mischance to his motorcycle, stranded by the wayside, and with only a little group of negro stragglers anywhere in sight. He was very tired, having had no sleep for many hours. One of the Africans talkthe pidgin English of a coast town and this man informed him that some motorlorries would be coming along soon, upon which it would be possible to get a lift.

"Soon," in the mouth of an African, is an elastic term, but the captain thought he could afford to wait an hour before setting forward on foot in search of some other means of transportation. he wanted a nap wanted it desperately-but he could not trust himself to wake at the end of an hour. The African could not tell time, but the captain determined to depend upon him, nevertheless. Showing him the dial of his wrist watch, he exulained that he wished to be awakened when the long hand reached there and the short hand where. Then he lay down, with arm extended, and the negro crouched beaide hom. with his eyes on the dial.

Exactly at the right moment the sleeper was called; and as he opened his eyes they fell upon the African, ip precisely the same position, with

But a fairly large proportion of the workers of Ca. a-those engaged in ranway service are putting in long strenuous days, taese times of demobilization, to get the fighting men back to their homes with

Just how stupendous that work of rail transport is, may be surmised from the fact that from March 17 to April 23, both dates inclusive, this year, from the port of Halifax there have been handled over the rails of Canadian National Railways to interior points, 49,009 military passenger This colescal movement required This colossal movement required utilization of 107 special trains as enumerated in this newspaper from time to time, and it speaks volumes for the self sacrificing zeal of the rank and file of the roads that total of almost fifty thousand men have been moved as swiftly and silently as if the total had been a tenth of those

Probably never again will Haligonians see such a procession of great ships loaded with soldiers in that magnificent harbour. The list, day and three-quarters. Then come the giant Olympic with 4,846 aboard. High winds prevented her immediate docking, and the troops or most of them, had to be brought off by tenders. This proved a labor-ious job for all concerned, but by dint of hard work, special after special was sent forward until the great liner was cleared. This consumed deal of time, and, before there was much time to think about it, the much time to think about it, the Cedric with 3,520 men, and the Min-nekhada, with 2,451 reached dock, both on March 27th. Eight special trains were utilized to handle the complement from the Cedric, while six were necessary to take care of forwarding of thise from aboard the Minnikhada. On March 30th, at 5.30 p.m., the Regina docked with 1,981 officers and men from practically every province in Canada. Within three hours and 20 minutes, 5 special trains had been zv minutes, 5 special trains had been despatched and the local units had been ticketed for the regular trains. On April 1st, the Canada docked at 9 o'clock. She carried 1,351 soldiers. Three special trains had been despatched within 3 hours and 35 minutes after disembarkation; the actual utes after disembarkation; the actual time between departure of the first and that of the last, being threequarters of an hour.

On April 6 the Northland docked at 4.40 p.m. She carried 1,227 soldier passengers. Two hours later her compassengers. We note that the complement had been forwarded, only 13 minutes passing between the departure of the trains. It is at this point in the records that the first prominent mention is made of the large amount of military baggage to be amount of initial baggage to be handled. After that I would glide gently to the ground, and immediately I touched I was to be sure and operate the quick release, otherwise I should be dragged helplessly along. ## An Official Flycatcher.

Redlands, a town in California, some time ago established the office of municipal flycatcher. That official acts on a single observed fact—that flies instinctively fly upward and toward light. He constructed a large trap, a screened frame, 12 inches square and more than two feet in height. He relead this two inches neight. He raised this two inches from the ground, and attached to the bottom a cone-shaped screen, with the large end down. He nailed the contrivance to a post on a street corner and the files did the rest. In the first month, from the 100 traps that he scattered throughout the business section of Radlands the offibusiness section of Regiands the offi-cial fly-catcher had emptied and burn-ed 50 gallons of flies. That means not far from 4,000,000 flies. There are now many hundreds of the flytraps in Redlands, and, accord-ing to the residents, as the flies in Redlands were in those traps last summer.

The Toad.

The toad is useful because of its diet. No less than 83 specimens of insect, mostly injurious, have been insect proved to enter into his dietary. George W. Hunter says: A toad has been observed to snap at 128 flies been observed to snap at 128 flies in half an hour. Thus at a low esti-mate it could easily destroy 1,000 insects during a day, and do an im-mense service to the garden during the summer. It has been estimated that a single toad may, on account of the cutworms which it kills, be worth $19.88 each season that it lives.

Compulsory Change of Name.

A notable instance of compulsory change of name occurred in Scotland in the seventeenth century, when the clan Macgregor was ordered to abandon and forget its ancient patgonymic. The English government thought by this means to stamp out the spirit of Rob Roy's redoubtable kinsmen, and so sternly was the decree enforced that the use of the old name was treated as a capital offense. For the time the clansmen submitted and took other names: but, so far from forgetting the old designation, later generations proudly reverted to it, and to-day there are more Macgregors in the world—to the world's gain—than ever before.—London Standard.
