There can be no doubt about it. Sixty-two years experience has proved this sterling remedy to be the best for Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Colic, Cramps, Cholera Infantum, Cholera Morbus, Summer Complaint, and all bowel troubles in both children and adults.

Many of the imitations sold are positively dangerous, as they often check the diarrhoea too suddenly and cause inflammation.

Mrs. A. B. De Marchand, Bath, N.B., writes: "My baby was troubled with Diarrhoea for nearly seven weeks. I tried three different doctors, but none of them could do her any good. I was advised to try Dr. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY, and less than half a bottle cured her."

Arctic Steamer Lost.

London, Sept. 7.—It is reported from Mount Athabasca Landing, in the Canadian Northwest, that the steamer Arctic, which was on the Mikikelsen Arctic expedition was working its way into the polar regions, has been lost.

All the reports agree on this, but there is uncertainty as to whether Capt. Mikikelsen was with the ship when she went down.

The news was brought to Athabasca Landing by a steamer in the service of the Hudson Bay Co.

I will mail you free, to prove merit, examples of my Dr. Shoop's Restorative, and my Book on either Dyspepsia, The Heart or the Kidneys. Troubles of the Stomach, Heart or Kidneys, are merely symptoms of a deeper ailment. Do not make the common error of treating symptoms only. Symptom treatment is treating the result of your ailment, and not the cause. Weak Stomach nerves—the inside nerves—mean Stomach weakness, always. And the Heart, and Kidneys as well, have their controlling or inside nerves. Weaken these nerves, and you inevitably have weak vital organs. Here is where Dr. Shoop's Restorative has made its fame. No other remedy even claims to treat the "inside nerves." Also for bloating, biliousness, bad breath or complexion, use Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Write me to-day for sample and free Book. ## BORDEN MEETING

Quebec had accused him—Mr. Borden—of making rash proposals and catering to the farmers. He did not, however, think it was a rash proposal to cater to the agriculturists of this country. They are the backbone of the nation. In Great Britain and in many parts of the States free rural postal delivery has proven a success, and there is no reason why it should not in Canada. This was part of the more advanced Conservative platform planks. The speaker also believed that the control of railways by a commission should prove a good thing for this country. This would do much towards safeguarding the people's interests. The Halifax platform, if properly carried out, is in the interests of the people, which statement will be amply proven when the Conservative party resume power at Ottawa. The Conservative party is one of great traditions, and Conservatives can look back with pride on the administration of the great Conservative leaders of the past, the great Sir John A. Macdonald had not failed in any of his promises to the electorate.

Mr. Borden wished to compliment the people of West Kent on the live wide-awake and honest member they have in Mr. Clements. He said, he had been indefatigable, patriotic, and earnest in his work in the House, and he was continually working for the interests of the agriculturists, especially. He worked for every portion of his constituency, and he earnestly hoped that Mr. Kent would not fail to send him back to represent them at Ottawa in the new Conservative Government that is to be.

At the conclusion of the meeting three hearty cheers were given for the King, Mr. R. L. Borden, and Mr. Clements.

THE EVENING MEETING

The evening meeting was a very large one. In the afternoon the meeting was held for the benefit of the farmers especially, and many of these having gone to the house, their places were taken by people from the city. It was a most successful gathering from every standpoint. The most rapid attention was given throughout, and the applause, which was freely distributed through the audience, showed that the meeting was a most successful one. The approval and support of the people generally.

The meeting was opened by Mr. Matthew Wilson, K. C., who acted as chairman of the evening. Mr. Wilson made a particularly brilliant address. He is one of the city's most polished orators, and his remarks were listened to with interest and pleasure. He mentioned the hold that Mr. Borden had on the people of the Dominion, and after listening to his speech in the afternoon, he did not wonder at the position of Minister of Railways and Minister of Public Works.

Mr. Mulock, who was Postmaster General, resigned his position, and the reason given was that his health was giving out. He seemed to be in the prime of health at the time. Shortly afterwards he was given the position of Chief Justice, which position requires a man of indomitable energy and strength. Mr. Aylesworth was found from the outside. One would think, if he were allowed to think things other than he knows to be positive facts, that the position was made vacant for him. Who was the man to fill it? Aylesworth, the former counsel for the Ross-Stratton-Graham combination of Ontario, which has since been condemned by the electors, and turned out of power. In the meantime, when the political corruption pot had for a time ceased to boil, Mr. Ross himself was transferred to the Upper House to lead the Liberal party for Laurier there.

When the Minister of Railways, owing to certain well-known reasons, was obliged to resign his position to clear his character, for a couple of months, the position left vacant was not filled from the alleged able men who were sitting behind Laurier. Mr. Graham, who stood by Ross, and who defended him in his regime of corruption, was chosen to fill this high position to-day.

While we are spending money in improving our school systems, we maintain a government which our children see around them as they grow up, with such men as Preston, Jackson and the like held as favorites, and who by their example give to the growing generation lessons showing that the way to political favor is not the highway of many men, but rather the dark alleyways and bypaths of political corruption.—Applause.

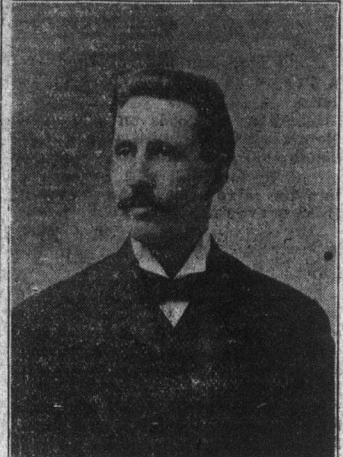

When Mr. Wilson had concluded he was given a burst of applause. He then introduced to the audience a man who, he said, would soon be their representative in the best government that Ontario ever had, and a man who had already been given positions of public trust, which he had always filled to the satisfaction of everyone, and with honor to himself.

MR. SULLMAN.

When Geo. W. Sullman, the Conservative nominee for the Legislature, stood up he was greeted with round upon round of applause. Mr. Sullman is deservedly popular in the Maple City and adjoining country. He is a Chatham boy, and has shown during his career as a business man and public servant that he is a man of energy and ability, not afraid of work, and is capable of doing a wonderful amount of it.

It was a great pleasure to him, he said, of having the privilege of addressing such a large audience, and a greater pleasure to find gathering.

J. M. PIKE.

The Energetic President of West Kent Liberal-Conservative Association.

ered in the Opera House such a large and enthusiastic throng of people who had ventured out to hear Mr. Borden, in spite of the inclemency of the weather. He felt that it was a great honor to be asked to speak as they did when he ran for Mayor, that there would be no doubt about him being a representative in the Government spoken of by Mr. Wilson. He had no fears for the result, and he felt that the people would support him in the next election.

Some might say that there was no politics in his election for Mayor, but he saw no real reason why there should be too much politics in the coming Provincial campaign. What is to encourage the next election is on, and the Government is providing excellent government for the people, if the people do not send them back into power and show their approval. The Whitney Government has provided good legislation, which is generally admitted. They have given good school book legislation, the speaker humorously pointed out that he was not trying to advertise himself or his business, and went on to say that under the Ross regime he was in his private life forced to charge people $1 for books worth 20 cents. The latter part of the Government, Laurier, the Government he supported has inaugurated an act to charge 15 cents, for books which formerly sold for 40 cents; 13 cents for those which sold for 35 cents; 9 cents for those which sold for 25 cents; 7 cents for those which sold for 15 cents; and 5 cents for those which under Ross were offered for sale for 10 cents. They would have reduced more of these prices if it were not for the fact that there are certain contracts made by Ross which would not be broken.

Mr. Sullman closed with the assurance that the people would have plenty of opportunity to hear him when the next election is on, and graciously gave way for Mr. Borden, whom the people were all assembled to hear.

When Mr. Sullman resumed his seat the house was filled with spirited applause for several minutes, which showed that the audience were in sympathy, but also with what he had said, but also with his candidature, and the record of the splendid Government he represents. There is no doubt that the prophecy made by Mr. Wilson about Mr. Sullman being a sure representative after the election will come true in a most convincing manner.

MR. BORDEN.

When Mr. Wilson arose to introduce Mr. Borden, he first paid a glowing tribute to Mr. Sullman and the speech he had just made. He said that Mr. Sullman should not offer any apology for appearing, even when he was to be succeeded by the man whom the audience were on this occasion most anxious to hear. At the rate he was going, and judging from the intelligence of his remarks, the audience would no doubt be pleased to hear him speak for a much longer time.—Applause.

Mr. Borden was then introduced, and the enthusiasm felt by everyone in the hall was let loose, and Mr. Borden took up the first few minutes of his time in acknowledging the greetings and the applause which he had received. He then spoke in the afternoon had struck a responsive chord in the hearts of the audience, and many of those who had the privilege of hearing him in the afternoon were on hand again in the evening.

Mr. Borden, however, lost no time in getting down to his speech. He is in earnest over his work, and he had a message of vital importance to deliver, and he gave it in a manner which impressed everyone in the hall with his sterling worth, and his conscientiousness in advocating the platform he supported. He impressed the listener as a man of honor and truth—a straightforward, honest man—the type of a man most needed in Canada to-day.

In opening his remarks Mr. Borden referred to the presence of so many ladies of the fair city of Chatham. During his tour, which has been in progress now for two weeks, Mr. Borden and his party have been honored by the presence of large numbers of ladies at their meetings. This, he thought, was a good omen. He felt sure that Mr. Clements will be assured of not only being returned, but with a big majority if the ladies of the city and county will support him, for he humorously remarked, those will vote the way the ladies tell them to.

During his tour, he said, he had met from the start with every possible encouragement. He began at Halifax, then went to Cape Breton, Middleton, where he addressed an audience of 4,000 people, the crowd being so large that he had to adjourn to the open air; St. John, N. B., Quebec, where he had an audience of 8,000 people, who listened to him with attention and evident approval; Three Rivers, Valley Field and Montreal; and now he came to Chatham, and Kent County, the people of Ontario, where he was more than pleased with the reception tendered to him.

He would endeavor to give his opinions of the record of his Opponents as well as give some account of the faith that is in him and the party he represents.

TRIBUTE TO CLEMENTS.

In opening his remarks he paid a glowing tribute to Mr. H. S. Clements, M. P.

"I have nothing but good words to say of him," said Mr. Borden. "He has been a faithful and energetic member of Parliament on all occasions. He has been constant in the care of his duties both in and out of the House, and has been zealous in the performance of his duties as a public man. He has always had the interests of his constituency at heart, and is also a broad-minded man with an eye to the best interests of the whole country. His course should commend itself to your approval and you should return him with an increased majority."

In proceeding with his address, he said that he had found the chief argument of his Liberal friends, who thought that the Laurier Government should be kept in power, to be that the country was prosperous. They thought that the prosperity which Canada in common with the rest of the world is enjoying to-day, is an argument that their government is good. We recognize this prosperity and are thankful and glad for it. But our Liberal friends seem to think that it is a most fitting thing that when the world is prosperous that their party should be in power.

He had from time to time challenged his Liberal friends to point to one piece of legislation enacted by them which had contributed to this prosperity, but they have as yet failed to do so. When Laurier came to power he had a certain platform. They have not carried out that platform, and in many cases the reason has been that they could not carry it out, because it was inconsistent. If they had carried out Free Trade as it is in England, and the rest of their platform which got them into power, would we have the prosperity we enjoy to-day? No. They claim credit for this prosperity. It reminded the speaker of a story, which he related.

A young man was warned not to cross a certain field where there was a vicious bull. The young man was courageous. He entered the field, and was a few moments after picked up in an unconscious condition. Twenty-four hours afterwards he regained consciousness. He was in a hospital, and when he opened his eyes, the first thing he said was, "How far did I throw the bull?" Laughter and applause. The young man was a great believer in his strength, and the Liberal party at Ottawa is also a great believer in their policy. They are too modest, however. They should claim credit also for the general prosperity which the whole world is enjoying to-day. The true foundation for the prosperity which is so much talked of about is the policy inaugurated by Sir John A. Macdonald in '78. The fiscal policy which the Liberals denounced until '96, they did not dare to set aside when they came to power. It is the true foundation for the prosperity which the country has enjoyed for the last six, eight or ten years.—Applause. Their own policy they were afraid to carry out, and, as a result, they have not given to the people of this country a fulfillment of their promises.

The people generally did not realize how few of the promises made by the Liberals have been carried out since they first came into power. The speaker hoped that he was addressing many Liberals and men of independent views. During the eighteen years that the Liberals were in Opposition they made many promises, and not a single one of them did they perform with the exception of the appeal of the franchisees.

They were going to reform the Senate. They have done so by making that House a sort of hospital for men who have been defeated at the polls and who have to be looked after. They were going to give prohibition, if a plebiscite would warrant it. They failed. They were going to give Free Trade as it is in England. They have not done so. They were going to reduce the expenditures, and instead of that they have more than doubled them. The speaker would not object to some increase in the expenditures, but the most of the increase has been due to money spent for unworthy purposes, gifts to the candidates, and the contributions largely to the campaign funds, and who have to be reimbursed in some way. If the people of Canada could only get in the galleries of the House, or in at the meetings of the Public Accounts committee, they

Britishers to Blame.

London, Sept. 7.—(C. A. It adds, the people of Britain are only themselves to blame.
