Acadia Collegiate and Business Academy.

BUSINESS EDUCATION.

There is a special demand for young men and women with a business education. Commercial expansion since the opening of the war has emphasized this demand. For a number of years Acadia Academy has provided instruction by competent and experienced teachers in all the subjects of business education, including book-keeping, Rapid Calculation, English Correspondence, Penmanship, Commercial Geography, Commercial Law, Business Arithmetic, Spelling, Dictation, Business Forms, Practice, Stenography and Typewriting. The standard of Scholarship is that of the Business Educators' Association of Canada. Both young men and women are admitted to the courses of the Business Department, the former finding boarding accommodation in the Academy Students' Residence, and the latter in Acadia Ladies' Seminary.

To the boy or girl desiring a business training, Acadia Collegiate and Business Academy offers special advantages. The class-room instruction is of the highest type, the teachers being long and very successful experience. The study hour is supervised as well as the class work. The system of a good residential school requires that study periods shall be observed and the welfare of a boy or girl shall be a matter of personal concern to the teaching staff at all times after the pupil enters the school. The health of the pupils is maintained by a well regulated program of school life, providing proper food, ventilation of rooms, regular exercise and variety of interests. The months spent in the school community teach the boy or girl how to properly regard the rights of others and so be prepared to give helpful cooperation in later life in a larger sphere. The institution has many applications from business firms for book-keepers and stenographers, and will assist worthy students to procure good positions. The cost of such a course of study is very moderate considering the many advantages offered. The following copy of a letter received from a father who is pleased with the progress of his son may be of interest, as it is a specimen of many such unsolicited testimonials: 'The Manss'. Red Bank, N. B. 15 h June, 1917. The Rev. Dr. Archibald, Wolfville, N. S. DEAR MR. ARCHIBALD: Your letter of the 31st ult. awaited me on my return yesterday from Montreal. I am glad to hear that you are so well in your year at A. C. A. I owe the institution, and you, sincere thanks, which I have not been able to express. You that my 16 h son improved in more directions than one. I shall have real satisfaction in recommending your Academy to such as are seeking a suitable school to which they may send their boys. With best respects, I am Very sincerely yours, J. F. McCurdy Presbyterian Minister.

Engineering Triumphs at Halifax. Halifax is going to give a royal welcome to the thousands of people who will visit the city exhibition week this fall, Sept. 12th to 20th, and rightly she is going to take the opportunity of inviting everyone to see the magnificent work which is now being carried on in the development of her Harbor resources. Halifax is going to have a terminal plant second to none in America and she wants everyone to know about it. There is nothing more fascinating than modern engineering triumphs, the building of huge tunnels, removing of mountains, building of bridges, railroads and docks. Much has been made of the giant task that engineers faced in surmounting the Canadian Rockies, but experts declare that the excavation of the new Halifax Terminal has proven the heaviest ever done in Canada for a similar length of railroad. A huge trench has been dug through almost solid rock from Rockingham on Bedford Basin to the entrance of the harbor. Thousands of tons of dynamite, the daddies of all steam shovels, scores of sturdy little engines, and an army of men have taken millions of tons of rock and earth from along the railroad and transported it to reclaim acres of ground from the sea for broad shunting yards. And a vast, too, will be paid the huge concrete docks, costing millions of dollars, where the largest ships in the world find comfortable berths. Bigger, brighter, better and busier than ever, the Nova Scotia Exhibition at Halifax this year, September 12th to 20th, will provide an opportunity to see and realize the tremendous future of Halifax. It is believed that conditions are especially propitious this year for a record Exhibition in every way. Money to loan on Real Estate security. Apply to Owen & Owen Barristers, Annapolis Royal.
