Blanks of King's County.

John McIntosh & Martin McInnis, have on behalf of the Inhabitants of King's Reply. I now proceed to fulfil that the first place states "on approaching it, is necessary to premise that labor and the support of all Governments, Government, it looks to the Government against the designs of inidious men who try to possess themselves of the rule of the protection of Government, especially those men, and it is the duty of the Ga-vernment to remove the machiney of those other men's labor, often exercised, to mislead their less educated by holding out promises and hopes to what cannot be realized, in order to obtain them thereby creating discontent, and exciting the attention of the Legislature from remedying the real grievances of the laborious population, and place, is an often-told tale, furnishing way in which the Land Tenures were colonies, and how they had been bought per acre, and were afterwards let at an etc., etc.

A separate map of Prince Edward Island has long been a desideratum. All those hillbills given to the public having been inately copies of the class, published many years since by Des Barres, with the county, township, and parish lines inserted, if not exactly at random, yet without actual surveys having been consulted.
By the advertisement in this day's paper it will be seen, that a new Map of the Island is about to be published here. A copy of which—received by the last mail from England—is now before us.
It is upwards of three feet in length, and is from the graver of Lizars, the first artist to engrave it. Its greatest advantage consists in its having been compiled from the most authentic charts and plans, the most reliable and practical maps. The former in former maps were mostly fictitious or erroneous, as in this one, with critical accuracy, enabling any person at a glance to ascertain for himself as well the proper route, as the distance from one place to another. It will be found to be no trifling improvement, as the real names of the different places have been inserted in this map instead of the fancy ones (given before any actual settlement) which are to be offered on the former.

The work reflects great credit on Mr. H. J. Cundall, the compiler, a native of the island, and resident of Charlottetown; and will, we trust, repay the publisher—Mr. G. H. Harewood—what has been at expense to have it executed in a style worthy of the Island and of the distinguished patronage under which it is sent forth.

For several reasons we have been induced to change the name of our Paper, which in future will be issued under the title of HAROLD'S GAZETTE.

H. Found, Tailor, Habit & Robe-maker.

The Subscriber having removed his Establishment to the property lately occupied by Mr. William Smiley, situated on the North side of Queen's Square, a favorable opportunity presents itself, of thanking the public for their extensive patronage and support, for nearly 12 years; and he is more desirous than ever of its continuance, as nothing shall be wanted on his part, to give entire satisfaction.

Punctuality in business is a desideratum, which can only be supplied by a mutual desire to reciprocate, on the part of the employers and the employed. That "punctuality begets punctuality" is an adage which the author of the Trade, would be adopted.

H. F. Found, adorned, with his present facilities, that he will be able to meet the wishes of all, who may be disposed to employ him; and having engaged the best workmen to make up garments of his
