L. BLACK & CO'S
Spheroidal Spectacles
AND EYE GLASSES

ARE the best for the preservation of the sight, and took the medal at the Centennial Exhibition.

The lenses are made of the best material, uniform in density, and of high refractive power, their perfect polish and spheroidal shape adapt them to ease and improve the sight of the wearer.

The eye being the most delicate organ great care should be exercised in selecting spectacles; it is not enough that the glass be of the right focus, but the lenses must be perfectly centered and in many cases perfect relief is only given by having each eye fitted separately. To affect this the lenses are made interchangeable, and having an Optometer to measure the sight, a perfect fit is guaranteed.

What a doit I, answered poor Wamba, 'and for hanging up by the feet, my brain has been topsyturvy, they say, ever since the biggan was bound first round my head; so turning me upside down may peradventure restore me.'
'Saint Genevieve!' cried Front-de-Boeuf, 'what have we here?'
And with the back of his hand he struck Cedric's cap from the head of the Jester, and throwing open the collar, discovered the fatal badge of servitude, the silver collar around his neck.
'Giles—Clement—varlets and dogs!' exclaimed the furious Norman, 'what have you brought me here?'
'I think I can tell you,' said De Bracy, who just entered the apartment. 'This is Cedric's clown, who fought so manful a skirmish with Isaac of York about a question of precedence.'
'I shall settle it for them both,' replied Front-de-Boeuf; 'they shall hang on the same tree, unless his master and this bear of Coningsburgh will pay well for their lives. Their wealth is the least they can surrender; they must also carry off with them the swarms that are besetting the castle, subscribe a surrender of their pretended rights, and live under us as vassals and serfs: too happy if, in the new world that is about to begin, we leave the breath in their nostrils. Go,' said he, 'to two of his attendants, fetch me the right Cedric hither, and I pardon your error for once, the rather that you but mistook a fool for a Saxon franklin.'
'Aye, but,' said Wamba, 'your chivalrous excellency will find that there are more fools than franklins among us.'
'What means the knave?' said Front-de-Boeuf, looking towards his followers, who, lingering and loath, filtered forth their belief, that if this was not Cedric who was in his presence, they knew not what was become of him.
'Saints of Heaven!' exclaimed De Bracy, 'he must have escaped in the monk's garments!'
'Fiends of Hell!' echoed Front-de-Boeuf, 'it was then the boar of Rotherwood whom I ushered to the postern, and dismissed with my own hands! And thou,' he said, turning to Wamba, 'whose folly could overreach the wisdom of idiots yet more gross than thyself—I will give thee holy orders—I will shave thy crown for thee! Here, let them tear the scalp from his head, and then pitch him headlong from the battlements. Thy trade is to jest, canst thou jest now?'
'You deal with me better than your word, noble knight,' whimpered forth poor Wamba, whose habits of buffoonery were not to be overcome even by the immediate prospect of death; 'if you give me the red cap you propose, out of a simple monk you will make a cardinal.'
'The poor wretch,' said De Bracy, 'is resolved to die in his vocation. Front-de-Boeuf you shall not slay him. Give him to me to make sport for my Free Companions. How sayest thou, knave? Wilt thou take heart of grace, and go to the wars with me?'
'Ay, with my master's leave,' said Wamba; 'for, look you, I must not slip-collar (as he touched that which he wore) without his permission.'
'Oh, a Norman saw will soon cut a Saxon collar,' said De Bracy. 'To the battlements then,' said De Bracy; 'where didst thou ever see me the graver for the thoughts of battle? Call the Templar yonder, and let him fight but half as well for his life as he has done for his Order. Make thou to the walls thyself with thy huge body. Let me do my endeavor in my own way, and I tell thee the Saxon outlaws may as well attempt to scale the clouds, as the castle of Torquilstone; or, if you will treat with the banditti, why not employ the mediation of this worthy franklin, who seems in such deep contemplation of the wine-lagon? Here, Saxon,' he continued, addressing Athelstane, and handing the cup to him, 'rinse thy throat with that noble liquor, and rouse up thy soul to say what thou wilt do for thy liberty.'
'What a may of moud may,' answered Athelstane, 'providing it be what a manhood ought. Do, miss me free, with my companions, and I will pay a ransom of a thousand marks.'
'And wilt moreover assure us the retreat of that sum of mankind, who are swarming around the castle, contrary to God's peace and the king's?' said Front-de-Boeuf.
'In so far as I can,' answered Athelstane, 'I will withdraw them; and I fear not that my father Cedric will do his best to assist me.'
