

MANY MINISTERS OF CALGARY MAKE ADVERSE COMMENT ON SATURDAY'S TRAGIC EVENT

"CANNOT help but feel that this is murder!"

Rev. J. C. Sycamore made this pronouncement on the tragedy of Saturday in the pulpit of First Baptist church last night.

Comment on the tragic results of the prize fight on Saturday was made by many other ministers from Protestant pulpits all over the city yesterday.

The consensus of criticism was directed against the provincial and Dominion governments for allowing prize fights, just outside the city borders, which the city itself prohibits. One or two clergymen also criticized the civic authorities for allowing the display of prize fight advertisements on the municipally-owned street cars, and for running a special service to the scene of the fight.

Rev. Mr. Mahaffy, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church; Rev. Mr. Tuttle, of Wesley Methodist church; Rev. S. E. Marshall, of Central Methodist church; and Rev. Mr. Torrie, of Westbourne Baptist church, all referred in the same manner to the fight in the course of their evening sermons. About ten minutes at the conclusion of the sermon was devoted to comment or criticism of the tragedy.

Rev. Mr. Sycamore, whose criticisms were very emphatic, expressed the opinion that the men in the city who are continually promoting prize fights should be deported as undesirable. He had been preaching a patriotic sermon on "The Empire's Greatest Need," which he defined as true men, pure men and loving men.

One of the saddest things about the tragedy with which the prize fight of Saturday terminated was the realization that men who engaged in that kind of thing fall utterly in tenderness and regard for the lives of their fellow-men, he said.

"One needs to speak carefully lest in the heat of indignation one say more than is well," he continued. "It has already been reported that death was due to heart failure, but I cannot help but feel that this was murder. I have spoken to those who saw the blow given. It is absurd to talk about heart failure. The death was no more due to heart failure than is any man's death. Surely it is time this thing was stopped."

"One paper had on its sporting page, 'Big Four Booms Calgary's Sport Centre.' Is that the kind of boom we want? Is that sport? Sport means enjoyment, pastime, diversion; that is not what is called sport in the best sense." While there are legitimate forms of boxing and wrestling, in the opinion of Mr. Sycamore, these should be sacrificed if they lead to the extreme form of prize fighting, and any man who attached the name of Christian to himself should consider the advisability of giving up these sports. The appearance of prominent men at these fights was an example to young men which discredited the arguments of mothers.

ALMOST LAST WORDS HEARD BY McCARTY WERE THOSE OF PREACHER EXHORTING CROWD

ALMOST the last words that fell from McCarty's ears were, strangely enough, those from a minister of the gospel. Unusually enough was the spectacle of a preacher in the ring at the prize fight, talking to the thousands of spectators of a fight of more consequence in daily life. But that his words should have come to one of the contestants who, within a couple of minutes, was fallen, net merely vanquished, but in the sleep that knows no waking, bears with it all the elements of tragedy.

"We have seen nothing that can be called brutal," said the preacher, speaking of the three preliminaries that had been witnessed in the ring, and within a few moments death, not indeed brutal in its appearance, but far more appalling and tragic in its suddenness, had made its appearance. There was something almost preternatural in the event, and to many it will appear as the handiwork of a power that is more than human.

Preacher Climbed Over Ropes.

There was a great stir after Tommy Burns had made the customary announcements of the coming battle centre of the ring. All were eager for the fray, but suddenly a minister in regular dress, with hat in hand, stepped into the ring, invited by Mr. Burns. His stick in one hand and his hat in the other, he stepped to the centre and, introduced by the famous fighter, he proceeded to speak. He was the Rev. Walker from Ogden, Utah, yet firm-

While exhorting the superintendent of the street railway from personal blame, Mr. Sycamore criticized the city authorities for allowing special cars to be chartered for the fight. "It is a disgrace that we should share such profits—we the Christian people of this city to boast of such a dividend! We should make it clear to the commissioners and the city council that we are behind them and the street railway superintendent in refusing to grant special service for that which is not in the best interest of the city."

Mr. Sycamore also asked the women of his congregation to use their influence against the attendance of women at theatrical exhibitions of boxing, to which they might be guided by the idea that they were encouraging cleanliness in athletics.

"After all, in the last analysis, no one is to blame but ourselves," concluded Mr. Sycamore. "The Christian people and the Christian church could make their influence felt for higher things if they realized their responsibility and power. Not only prize fights, but pool rooms and places of vice are conducive to suicides and murders."

Rev. Mr. Torrie and Rev. Mr. Tuttle both emphasized the fact that the responsibility for the permission of the fight rested with the province and not on the city.

A good deal has been said as to the sporting advertising medium that this bout would be for Calgary; and as no doubt that the city has been made known far and wide, but whether the advertising is good for the city is a debatable question. In all the history of the prize fight, a fairer trial than this was never given to justify the existence of this form of sport. According to the promoters, every means available was used to eliminate the objectionable features. Every effort was made to bring the medium of the sporting columns of the press, public benefit shows, and public utterances on the part of professional men including one or two clergymen, to bring this form of sport into favor with the citizens. In spite of all this the tragedy of yesterday, was the outcome. I hope that the occasion will be taken advantage of in such a way as to lead the provincial or the Dominion authorities to act in harmony with the will of the citizens of Calgary expressed in the bylaw prohibiting prize fights in this city."

Both Rev. Mr. Torrie and Rev. Mr. Tuttle referred disparagingly to the practice of allowing the street railway to be used for the advertisement and promotion of the fights.

Rev. Peter Walker, of Hillhurst Presbyterian church, took occasion to announce that the pastor who had attended the fight, was not their clergyman of the same name as himself, but belonging to a different denomination.

TO STOP THE FIGHTING GAME GRACE CHURCH MEN ORGANIZE; ASK CO-OPERATION IN WORK

THE Brotherhood of Grace Presbyterian church, a strong men's organization, at a meeting yesterday passed a resolution calling upon the Dominion authorities to take immediate action to have the criminal code so amended as to prohibit prize fighting in any part of Canada.

The men's brotherhood will appeal to all other men's organizations in the city to support their resolution, and will probably reinforce this with resolutions of support from other cities.

The club aims to prevent the promotion of such events in any part of Canada, and to prevent the reputation of the prize fights of the past in or about Calgary, at once.

The Hon. C. R. Mitchell acting premier was expressed that the name of Calgary should be held up as one of the cities where brutal exhibitions are permitted. It was also stated that while the city did not permit prize fighting within the city limits, it should not allow its street cars to be used for the purpose of advertising the very thing which it has made illegal. It was further stated that in all probability an effort would be made to make it appear that the death of McCarty at the hands of his opponent was due to a weak heart or to the excitement of the occasion, but the great fact remains that a life has been sacrificed because the people make it possible to have such brutal and demoralizing exhibitions, and in the minds of the men of Grace church, the people who promote such events take upon themselves a great responsibility.

The Albertan was commended for its attitude on the question and the hope expressed that all the men's organizations in the city would band themselves together and insist on the statute being so amended that it would be a crime not only for men to participate in prize fighting, but also that any person to promote such events.

Half a dozen men from Medicine Hat who came up here especially for the fight, were among the first to approach Hon. Mr. Mitchell, although they have been in the habit of attending the bouts in Calgary, and will probably continue to patronize the sport while it is allowed, they unhesitatingly declared that it was time time steps were taken to prevent a repetition of Saturday's happening.

Hundreds of men from the Hat, Lethbridge, Wetaskinaw, Red Deer and other towns north and south were in Calgary for the event. The true conclusion seems to be against the patrons of the sport, profoundly.

The result of the prize fight on Saturday night and the effect of rousing public opinion all over the province, to such an extent that the provincial authorities may be asked to take prohibitive action immediately.

The Hon. C. R. Mitchell acting premier in the absence of Premier Sifton, who was in this city for the week-end, was approached with frank expressions of opinion by people from various cities and towns who had flocked here for the event. In every case, says Hon. Mr. Mitchell, public opinion seems to be against the patrons of the sport, profoundly.

BLACK, MIXED & GREEN.

There was a Referee who was both willing and ready to aid each and every man in his hard struggle.

His last words were an appeal for the men present to help the causes for good in the churches in Calgary. Would not the men there go to the church on the morrow? There would they find the great messages of peace and comfort preached. There would be no prize there to pay for a seat and he hoped that each and every man, seeing typified in that contest the picture of his own struggle in life, would take that struggle with fervor and strenuous endeavor for the good and the right, and ever be found at the side.

alarmed them, and panic spread from end to end of the beach, while women began to shriek. Then occurred a desperate rush for the stairways as the floor within gave way, and the victims slid into the gaping hole as into a huge funnel.

Soon the huge pile of wreckage marking the spot where the dead and wounded lay was surrounded by a dense throng, which overwhelmed the comparatively few policemen on the strand, and for some time rendered futile every effort at rescue.

Los Angeles Police Called.

The police could not get through the crowds, even when Chief of Police Austin gathered his entire force on the scene. An appeal was sent to Los Angeles, 24 miles away, for reinforcements. These came in automobiles, and after having driven back the thousands of anxious and over-wrought people, they assisted in securing the injured and removing the dead.

The tide was out when the crash occurred, else the collapse would have thrown hundreds of persons into the sea. The crowd massed about the auditorium doors was composed mostly of women and children, who had gathered there before the Empire Day parade ended. When the section about the doors sank, they went in with it, and a half dozen policemen, who had been vainly striving to hold the throng in check went with them. Only comparatively small number of men were caught in the trap, as most of the male spectators were taking part in the parade. Many who were not standing on or pushed into the vortex, and those who escaped crowded panic-stricken toward the outer rail of the pier, starting a wild scramble for safety.

Scrambled Over Entangled Bodies.

Those who fell into the hole last were able to scramble over the entangled bodies to the broken ends of the floor, so deep was it massed with struggling bodies. Fallen timbers and flooring were jammed among the limbs of those caught in the trap, and ropes were required to pull back the jagged edges of the sunken flooring and broken joists before the dead and injured could be taken out. It was fully an hour before the yawning hole in the floor of the pier could be emptied of its mass of humanity, the dead separated from the injured and the dying extricated from broken timbers.

Dead and seriously injured alike were laid in rows on the beach, while scores who had sustained less serious injuries wandered in a dazed way seeking missing relatives or friends. A number of those taken to hospitals were found mangled by suffering from nervous shock. Many of the women and men collapsed on the pier when the search for missing ones ended at a long row of the dead and injured.

The work of removing the bodies to Long Beach morgues did not begin until well into the afternoon. Long rows of saddened spectators, most of them still of the day, watched in silence as the dead were taken from the temporary morgue in the armory to the waiting undertakers' wagons.

Although most of the victims were from Los Angeles and Long Beach, nearly every town in southern California was represented among the dead and injured.

The Dominion railway commission which meets in the council chambers of the city hall today, will consider the recent action of the C.P.R. in removing Maharg station from East Calgary.

A petition signed by over 150 residents of the east district has already been presented to the commissioners. Maharg station had been located in East Calgary for about seven years, and was a stopping place for all local trains as well as a receiving station for telegrams and express parcels. When the C.P.R. gave notice early in the year that the station would be removed, a very strong deputation was presented, and the station was moved to its present location on the corner of 17th and Broadway, one of the horses attached to the carriage carrying the petition, was killed.

Walter Macdonald, a hit on Westminster road, near Broadway, one of the horses attached to the carriage carrying the petition, was killed. He was returning from the cemetery, where he had officiated at the funeral of John Whitty, deputy harbor master, who was passing a street car on Thursday, was struck by a runaway team and killed.

The volume of business in the east end is steadily increasing and the business men of the locality feel it a hardship to have the station privileges taken away. The express company charges double for delivery across the city. The city has laid a request before the commissioners to have the boundaries of the free delivery area extended to include East Calgary.

A Human Match Factory

The body contains phosphorus sufficient to make 483,000 matches. Phosphorus is one of fourteen elements composing the body—divided among bones, flesh, nervous system and other organs. The perfect health of the body requires a perfect balance of the elements. These elements come from the food we eat—the stomach extracts and distributes them.

But if stomach is deranged—the balance of health is destroyed and the blood does not carry the proper elements to the different organs, and there is blood trouble—nerve trouble—heart trouble. Pain is the hungry cry of starved organs. Put the liver, stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition into a condition of health. That is just what is done by

STEAMER BLOWN UP BY MINES AT SMYRNA ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY LIVES ARE LOST

Smyrna, May 24.—The steamer Nevada, with 200 passengers on board, struck three mines in succession today in the Gulf of Smyrna and sank. Only 80 of the passengers and crew are reported saved.

The mines were strewn on the coast waters of Asia Minor by the Turks to prevent an attack by the Greek fleet on the coast towns during the Balkan war.

The Nevada was owned by the Badji Daout company and ran in the eastern Mediterranean. The Nevada was leaving the Gulf of Smyrna, when a Russian steamer was coming in and in order to avoid a collision the first mined vessel left the channel and entered a mine field.

The Nevada struck three mines and each exploded in quick succession. The last was followed by an explosion on the ship which immediately sank her.

Of the 200 passengers on the steamer, 80 were rescued by the British cruiser Bruix, which was anchored in the harbor.

The Nevada, though owned by the Turkish company, was flying the American flag. She belonged to a fleet of eight steamers of which seven were re-named in 1910 and were transferred to the American flag.

President Campbell recommended that as many members of the board be present as possible at the session of the commission, as there will not appear to be any split among the business men of Calgary at the matter.

A letter was read from the Reform association of Vancouver forwarded a petition to ask the government to take over the bus of Canada. The board was urged to get signatures and send the petition to the member-parliament was referred to the board section.

Those who are interested in the passing of the bylaw for the erection of the industrial building will be asked to attend the meeting of the board this afternoon and speak at the matter.
