> BARCKLONA, Spain, Dec. 20. - The police ave traced the connection between the BARCKLONA, Spain, Dec. 20.— The police have traced the connection between the attempt of the Anarchist Pallas to assassinate Gen. Martinez de Campos and the dynamite outrage at the Lyceum Theater. Pallas, who was shot to death on Mont Juich prophesied that his memory would be avenged, and it has now been established that a number of his comrades attempted to make his words come true. Pallas claimed that he alone was responsible for the attempt on the life of Gen. De Campos, but the police havereasen to believe that the attempted assassination was the outcome of a widespread conspiracy. It is stated that five of the six Pollas confederates are now under arrest, Folias confederates are now under arrest, and every effort is being made to capture the sixth man. Jose Codina, the Anarchiat who, subsequent to his arrest, confessed that he had thrown the

The police have definetely ascertained that the bomb thrown in the Lyceum Theater was hurled from the top gallery. On the night of the outrage a second bomb, which had not exploded, was found beneath one of the seats in the lower part of the theater. It has been ascertained that the bomb was placed there by an Anarchist, who left the theater before the bomb thrown by Codina exploded. All the prisoners will be tried by court martial. The alarm caused by the Lyceum explosion has resulted disastronsly to the theatrical business. A majority of theaters have been compelled to close. Never before have the Anarchists succeeded in inaugurating such a reign of terror as now prevails here, and trade and industry are paralyzed, and it is feared a number of houses will fail.

The "Hired Man" Puts in an Appear ance-Di covery of the Rig in Which the Murderers Probably Esthe Su pocts.

TORONTO, Dec. 20.—Word comes to the city that Jack Hardy, the bired man of the Williams', and upon whom first rested suspicion of killing Farmer Williams and his wife, arrived on the scene of the mirder this morning and boldly declared himself. He says he is able to prove an alibi, and claims he does not fear the fullest investigation.

A MORE IMPORTANT FACT

A MORE IMPORTANT FACT

is the discovery of the horse and cutter in which it is presumed the murderer or murderers drove away from Williams' house after the tragedy. On Saturday morning about 11 o'clock the two young men drove up to George Butcher's house in Little York and asked if they could leave the horse and rig there for a few days until they found a purchaser. They also asked him if he knew anybody who would keep the horse for the anybody who would keep the horse for the winter for its feed. Butcher agreed to keep it till morning for them. Sunday the weep it till morning for them. Sunday the young men returned and groomed the horse.

Sold the Rig.

Monday they took the rig away and sold it to a butcher named Lawry, on Parliament street. Before they left they made an appointment to meet Butcher at the Ontario brewery, King street, where they would remunerate him for his services. He went to this place and met one of them, who told him where to get the cutter and harness. Butcher was to have the use of it until it was disposed of. Butcher got the sleigh and harness, and as the former was slightly damaged he took it to a blacksmith shop at Little York. Brotherson had read the description of the missing cutter, and was struck by the appearance of it. His suspicions were partially confirmed by finding.

DESCRIPTION OF THE SUSPECTS.

Butcher describes one of the young men as between 20 and 21 years, about 5 feet 6 inches in height, black mustache, ruddy complexion and apparently English. He wore an imitation Persian lamb cap, a black or bluish single-breasted peajacket, a white linen collar, turned at the corners, and a polka dot tie.
