Hanover Plans New Annexation When Council Refuses Paving Money.

Special to The Advertiser. Hanover, July 19.-The town of Hanover is on the verge of secession from Grey county, and is planning annexation with the county of Bruce. This action is being taken as a protest against the action of Grey county council in refusing to vote Hanover money for paving.

Early last spring the town council passed a motion to have Main street, which is a connecting link in the provincial highway, paved from end to end. The province was to assume 40 per cent of the cost of the same, the county 40 per cent and the town 20 per cent.

The contract was let, but when Hanover applied for the usual grant at the June session of the county council, it was refused. At a special meeting it was again refused. Members of the council declared that steps will be taken immediately, regarding the matter.
