VARBELMAN V. THE PHOENIX BREWERY Co.—The trial of this action was concluded before Justice Crease and a specifi jury, at 2.30 yesterday afternoon, when the jury gave a verdict for the plaintiff with $4,000 damages. The case came up for trial originally before Mr. Justice Walkem and a special jury on the 31st July, 1893, when the learned judge was of opinion that the plaintiff had shown no evidence that he had been dismissed, and entered a nonsuit. The plaintiff appealed to the Divisional court, which in January last set aside the nonsuit and ordered a new trial, costs of the first trial to abide the result of the second. Mr. E. V. The plaintiff appealed to the Divisional court, which in January last set aside the nonsuit and ordered a new trial. Hon. Mr. Davie submitted that the plaintiff had been very badly treated, the defendants having denied their liability and the fact of a dismissal until just before the second trial when they paid the $1,000 into court. The proper damages to be allowed, would, he contended, be the whole amount of the wages under the contract to the end of the agreed term, subject to diminution if the plaintiff had obtained employment in the meantime, which he had been unable to do, or by the probability of his being hereafter table to scoure such employment, which was unlikely. The plaintiff had been obliged to remain in Victoris owing to the conrect taken by the defendants for over a year before hein, able to smant his case to a jury. Hon. T. Davie, Q.C., and Toronto Telegram: Parliament is being asked, through the efforts mainly of Col. Prior, M.P., to inaugurate a soheme of pensions for the permanent corps of the Dominion. One of the chief sources of detriment to the force as present is that cansed by the short service, by desertions and by men purchasing their disclarage before the great penularly loss to the Government His kit, when left behind, is sold at auction among his late comrades, and by mutnal agreement brings little or nothing, while the new recruit who takes his place must be fitted out at a considerable expense. This would, to a large extent, be obviated by offacing some inducement to the soldiers to remain in the service. This, it is urged the pension would accomplish. These men, it must be remembered, are more than or dinary soldiers, for they form the resit and fle of the schools of instruction, and as such, become more valuable every year.
