HUMBERTON'S BURY BUILDING NEAR THE LAKE.

The Bolt and Iron Company's Establishment. A Thriving Industry. Enterprise, Perseverance and Pluck.

From the time of the first introduction in this city of the Canada Bolt company works with a capital of $100,000 and Sir Hugh Allan as president of the company until the close of the workshops of that concern considerable interest was centered in the affairs of the works on account not only of the strong financial name of the president but that it was the only establishment of its kind in the Dominion engaged in the manufacture of spikes, bolts and nuts of many descriptions.

Upon the closing of this establishment a severe blow was given to the industries of Toronto and the works for several years as a monument of bad management in some direction. In 1879 Canada had not a single iron concern which could manufacture the class of goods made by the defunct company.

About this time Mr. Livingston, conversant with the history of the defunct Canada Bolt company and who was the manager of one of the most extensive paper-manufacturing concerns in the Dominion began to examine the advantages offered by purchasing the plant of the abandoned factory and finally forming a large business connection could be secured by purchasing the entire plant, machinery and good will of the Canada Bolt company and changing its name to the Dominion Bolt works, the name remaining until the formation of the present Bolt and Iron company.

After the completion of the purchase of the plant, machinery and good will of the abandoned factory and finally forming a large business connection could be secured by purchasing the entire plant, machinery and good will of the Canada Bolt company and changing its name to the Dominion Bolt works, the name remaining until the formation of the present Bolt and Iron company.

BEING CALLED FOR.

A large field in South America is now open, and why the company should not compete with other concerns in that kind of a mystery which can soon be solved.

At this place, and now that the Hercules has been removed all the machinery to the Humber is nearly completed, an immense saving of expense must be the result. Freight charges and other expenses, and from this source, as well as water saving, etc., it is calculated that $18,000 per year will go considerable distance in helping the declaration of dividends. The company are now offering through its brokers, Messrs. Cox & Worts, 26 Toronto street, $50,000 worth of its stock at par, and for an investment permanent and safe the Bolt and Iron company stock is one of the most solid in the market.

Millions of packages of the Diamond Dyes have been sold without a single complaint. Everywhere they are the favorite dyes.

James Carey's Reward. From the Cork Examiner. Notwithstanding the seeming paralysis and cleverness of James Carey, and his violently expressed determination to remain in Ireland, he was at the last moment completely baffled by the action of the authorities and was obliged to leave the country without receiving one farthing reward for his services.

Not only this, but the fact that he was removed from his company, and that he was entirely outwitted, and he took his departure from Dublin a dejected and disappointed man. As it turns out, his threats to resume his place in the corporation and to continue his occupation as a bricklayer in Dublin were but empty boasts, for when the time came he demonstrated that he was glad to procure safety on any terms. He believed that he got the government in a difficulty; that they would not keep him in prison, and that they would induce him to go away. But, deep conspirator as he was, he was entirely outwitted, and he was removed from his company, and he took his departure from Dublin a dejected and disappointed man.
