NEW ORLEANS, March 7 .- Mr. Pat Sheedy, who was seen to-day in Canal street, said: "The big glove fight that was to have taken place here between Sullivan and Ryan is off. I came here intending to and Ryan is off. I came here intending to erect a big amphitheatre, such as they have for bull fights in Spain, and capable of seating 8000 or 10,000 people. It was to have been a flimay structure, designed only for the rush of the crowds during the exponents of the seat founds. for the rush of the crowds during the exposition, and the men were to have fought with half-hard gloves. The whole thing, however, has fallen through on account of a letter I received from Sullivan this morning. He says he can't fight till he's out of this trouble with his wife. He wants his boy, and his heart will be broken if he don't get him. John's a rough man, but he loves his child. While his wife's suit is pending he wants to be released from his contract with me. to be released from his contract with me and, of course. I shall let him go. "Christianity was all based upon hearsay evidence, and contained much that was unpresented by the word of command he was unpresented by the word of command he was conquered. SUBDUING AN ELEPHANT.

winging Him in the Air to Bring Him to Reason.
From the Philadelphia Times. It took a dozen men five days of last eek to break the spirit of a vicious elephant in the winter quarters of Adam Forepaugh's menagerie. Early in February one of Mr. Forepaugh's European agents bought four elephants and shipped them to this country. The huge beasts reached bridge the lagoon at the west point until New York two weeks ago, and were at once transferred to Philadelphia. Three were docile, but the other, Ajax, is tusker, eight feet high and vicious. On reaching this city he became sullen but Jack Forepaugh, who has charge of the winter quarters, believing that the brute would become good natured in a day or two, hitched him to a post and locked him up for the night. A few hours late Ajax broke his chains, butted down the iron-bound door of his room, and rushed into an apartment in which a dozen of the nore peaceable elephants live. He attacked a performing elephant named Bazie and a desperate fight began. Five or six of the small elephants broke loose, Their rightened cries soon excited every anima in the buildings, and the air was filled with roars that aroused the neighborhood The night keepers were afraid to attempt to separate Ajax and Bazie, who were trumpeting and charging at each other with great fury. When their huge bodies came together at the end of every rush the shock could be felt throughout the place,

Jack Forepaugh was sent for, but before he arrived the watchman discovered that Ajax and Bazie were so engaged with each other that they did not heed what was going on about them. The doors were opened, and all the elephants except the fighters were driven out. By the time this was accomplished Mr. Forepaugh arrived.
He has had thirty years' experience with wild animals and stands no more in fear of an elephant than an ordinary perso does of a dog. Grasping an elephant hoo— a spike and a hook on a stout handle-—a spike and a hook on a stout handle—he ran between the furious beasts and ordered Bazie back. Bazie ebeyed, but the blood of the new elephant was up and he charged on the man, who eluded him and fastened the hook in the beast's ear. Ajax turned and bore down upon him. The trainer stabbed him with the spike and dodged behind a post. Ajax butted the post down as though it were a reed. The other men ran to Mr. Forepaugh's assistance and assailed the elephant from so many points that he paused irresolute. During the pause a chain was passed about one of his hind legs and fastened to an anchored ring. This rendered him almost helpless. His other legs were hobbled and he was left alone until daylight, Bazie being driven off to another part of the quarters.

On Tuesday morning Ajax was as sullen and vicious as ever. Bad elephants sometimes remain in this mood for days, and no man can approach them with safety. Until man can approach them with safety. Until such an elephant's spirit is broken, he is worse than useless. Steps were at once taken to convince Ajax that he must obey mad elephant. It only renders him more stubborn and wicked. The breaker's only hope is to convince such an animal that h hope is to convince such an animal that he is powerless against man. That accomplished the beast becomes as docile as elephants ever are. On Tuesday morning four hawsers were passed through immense pulleys attached to beams under the roof. Then a set of harness, shaped something like a monstrous shawl strap, was fastened about Ajax's defiant body. The leather straps, which were three-ply thick, covered small chains. All the leather plates were copper riveted and a foot wide. Ajax locked as though he were in armor after being en-riveted and a foot wide. Ajax looked as though he were in armor after being encased. Three hours were spent in getting the harness on him, and during the job he slightly injured two of the keepers.

Through iron rings, supported by great chains, were passed the hawsers. Then a dozen men grasped two of the lines of rope that passed through pulleys, and before Ajax knew it his hind feet were six feet above the ground, and he stood on his front ones in the most approved performing elephant style. For a moment, he was paralyzed with astonishment, but surprise paralyzed with astonishment, but surprise gave place to fury when he appreciated the ridiculous posture he was in. He surged and trumpeted and flapped his ears, but all to no purpose.

When his struggles subsided some of the men ran off with the front ropes, and in a jiffy Ajax's body was suspended in the air. He made the most frantic efforts to tear the belting off with his trunk, but the chairs between his fore legs and around his chains between his fore legs and around his shoulders prevented it. There the monster brute hung as helpless as an infant. He was free to kick and plunge and butt the air as much as he pleased. From time to time he was lowered, so that he might rest his legs, but none of the men were allowed to approach or work. lowed to approach or worry him. In the evening he was lowered and fed, and allowed to spend the night on the ground, thinking over the indignities that had een put upon him.

After his breakfast on the following morning he was trussed up as before. He resisted, but his efforts were unavailing. He was a stout-spirited brute, however, and the second day's punishment only seemed to increase his rage. When he came seemed to increase his rage. When he came down to supper he was the maddest elegiphant that ever trumpeted in Forepaugh's winter quarters. At the sight of the harness on Wednesday he became greatly excited. Mr. Forepaugh said he was "coming to his eense." This, however, did not prevent him from being hoisted up again. He surged about less in his comfortable swing on Thursday, but his comfortable swing on Thursday, but otherwise he was as stubborn and danger-cus as ever. An anchor was sunk five feet in the ground and covered with earth in another part of the quarters. Only a ring was exposed.

Ajax's forelegs were hitched to the ring on Friday morning. Ropes were attached to his hind legs, which were then drawn out, leaving him

THE CENUINE PIANO, Manufactured by Rainer & Co., Guelph, Ont

Manufactured by Rainer & Co., Guelph, Ont.

The undersigned respectfully announce that on the 9th day of April, 1884, Joseph F. Rainer dissolved partnership with Frank Sweetnam and John Hazelton. as plano manufacturers, and that said Joseph F. Rainer, with his son, will continue to manu.acture the original cross-scale Planos, of which the said Joseph F. Rainer is the sole inventor.

Since the above dissolution, Mr. Rainer, sr., has greatly improved the small Cross-scale Plano by adding one string more to each note throughout the middle, making three strings to each note instead of two, thus giving the Plano a third more power of 'tone throughout the middle. There will be fifty-three notes from the treble down that will have three strings instead of twenty-four notes from the treble down as formerly. The undersigned will give to wholesale and retail customers the benefit of this improvement by letting them have these Planos for the same price as the ones formerly made with two strings.

These Planos have now been before the public for 25 years, and have always ranked among the very best, and are celebrated for quality of tone, great power and durability of action, prompt elastic touch, fine finish and elegant style of case, combined with every known improvement. Themost complete and unbroken list on record, embracing a period of 30 years, and made up of 28 first prizes, medals and diplomes received at the principal exhibitions in Canada—Montreal, Kingston, Toronto, Hamilton and London. At the Centennial Exhibition in Philadelphia, in 1876, we secured a medal and diploma for our plano. The great favor with which the cross-scale planos have been received for so long a period, and the reputation they bear, has induced others to similate them. We therefore caution intending purchasers and dealers wishing to obtain the original cross-scale piano to see that the name of "Rainer & Co." is on each instrument. We make the Upright and Square Grand Pianos. For further particulars. Price List, &c., address EAINER & CO. . Gu

SIXTH YEAR.

AN AGREEMENT REACHED

AN UNDERSTANDING.

The Czar Denounces as Wild Dreame These Who Talk of War-Explana-LONDON, March 13 .- In the house of commons this afternoon Mr. Gladstone announced that an agreement had been arrived at between Russia and England by which neither the Russians nor the Afghans would advance any further on either side of the frontier.

Sir Stafford Northcote asked whether the agreement was permanent? Mr Gladstone replied that the agreement was to last as long as there was occasion for it. (Laughter). The agreement, he said, pro vides against the rupture of friendly relations between the two governments in the event of a collision between the Afghan and Russian outposts. Mr. Forster asked whether the agreement was a new one or one which had been supposed to be in force for some time. Mr. Gladstone replied that it was a new agreement, one that had grown out of recent correspondence and the new circum stances. He said he was unable to answe questions regarding the positions assumed by the Afghans.

Mr. Onslow (conservative) asked whether the ameer of Afghanistan had

The Marquis of Hartington stated that there was still cause for great anxiety regarding the relations between Great Britain and Russia.

A Sense of Relief. LONDON, March 13.—Sir Peter Lumsden has been ordered to impart to the ameer and to the commander at Herat the terms of agreement between Russia and England to maintain the military statu quo. The members of the commons heard Mr. Gladstone's announcement of an agreement between England and Russia with a general sense of relief, the agreement affording reason to hope that war would yet be averied by diplomatic means. It is be-lieved Sir Peter Lumsden has the Afghans lision between the outposts. Prominent conservatives assert that the agreement will not prevent Russia from massing troops on the border of the debateable will not prevent Russia from massing troops on the border of the debateable territory and object to Russians being allowed to remain even temporarily on the territory claimed as belonging to Afghanistan. Sir Peter Lumsden has received certain discretionary powers touching his course in the event of a dangerous Russian dvance. He is nearly six days' march rom the nearest telegraph station. It is selieved he will send officers to Herat to organize the Afgean troops while he assumes a position not necessarily warlike

A Protest from Russia. LONDON, March 13 .- The arrangemen between England and Russia announced by Mr. Gladstone this afternoon resulted the decision of the cabinet not to insist upon the withdrawal of Russian troops from the outposts during the deliberations of the joint commission. Baron de Staal yesterday protested against the preparations for war now being made in England and the demonstrations upon the Indian frontier, which, he said, were calculated to lessen the observes of an amiguida settle. to lessen the chances of an amicable settle ment. De Staal to-day informed Earl Granville that he was ready to sign the

The Czar Denounces the War Party. ST. PETERSBURG, March 13.-The czar during an informal talk with several diplomats at an imperial leves to-night said: "I cannot conceive that any but the wildest dreamers could think that I would declare war against England. Our ends can and will be attained, but it will be by the gradual power of civilization and not by force."

ST. PETERSBURG, March 13.—The tone of the Russian press is exceedingly beli. cose. It is openly declared that Russia intends to have Herat. The Nova Vremya calls the approaching meeting of Lord Dufferin and the ameer a military demonstration on the Russian frontiers. "Russia and England," it says, "will soon meet on dry land, and the result will see that the isolated security hitherto en-joyed by the British empire will be de-stroyed."

The Opposing Outposts. LONDON, March 13 .- It is believed the delay in the withdrawal of the Russian outposts on the Afghan frontier is possibly due to their distance from the terminus of the telegrah line. Supporters of the government still consider peace probable. Sir Peter Lumsden is encamped in Persian territory near Herat. It is expected he will enter Herat if the Russians advance farther.

Russia Will Not Withdraw. PARIS, March 13 .- Baron Mohrenheim the Russian ambassador, has been interviewed on the Anglo-Russian situation Emperor William, he said, would exert his influence to avert war, and would endeavor to induce England to make some concessions. He scoated the idea that Russia would withdraw from the position now occupied. Such action would reflect dishonor upon the Russian arms. If Eng. disnonor upon the Russian arms. It England did not declare war, it was certain, in his opinion, that Russia would not do so. He thought it extremely unlikely that England would declare war, as she has her hands full already.

With a View to the Possible. LONDON. March 13 .- The war depart. ment is making preparations with a view to the possible occurrence of serious trouble in Afghanistan. Orders have been sent to in Afghamstan. Orders have been sent to the arasas at Bombay and Bengal to prepare all kinds of ammunition. The details for two army corps have been completed. Each will number 1500 officers, 35,300 men and 11,800 horses. The admiralty is arranging for a fleet of transports.

Pullic Feeling in Persia. TEHERAN, March 13 .- Public feeling here is favor of Russia. The shah has telegr had to the governor of Khorassan to d'all that iles in his power to assist Sir Per Lumaden. This telegram was drawn it by the complaints made by Lumaden that the governor had refused to aid him and had interfered with his couriers.

The significance of the latest Russian move is given in the following, taken from recent issue of the London Daily Tele
