Cabinet will be governed. This is fair and proper enough.

CONTINENTAL. Affairs on the Continent had undergone no important thange during the week preceding the departure of the America, though the events had been neither few nor triding. In France a new Cabinet has been formed by the coalition of Odillon Barrot and Dufaure. The new Ministry is the same as the old, except Dufaure takes the department as Minister of the Interior—M. Languinais of Commerce. Both Bedeau and Remusat refused to accept the department of Foreign Affairs, in consequence of the complicated difficulties of the Italian question. Much surprise was excited by the omission of Marshal Bugeaud from the list. The Paris papers gene rally express disapproval of the compromise, and predict its failure. The Red Republicaus are especially violent in de-

The message of the President of the French Republic, to the Legislative Assembly, was published in the Paris papers of Tuesday. It is composed upon the American and not upon the European model, and fills four columns of the European.

The representatives of Prussia, Saxony, and Hanover, had promulgated a new Constitution. The war in Hungary presents no new features. The bomhardment of Venice was momentarily threatened. Radetzkey commanded the Austrians. Hostilities were commenced between the Danes and Prussians, and the Danish blockade was rigidly enforced. Lessey's idea of conquering the Romans into affection for, France, has not yet been realized, and he has returned to Paris further instructions. Some accounts say that he was recalled, and that the same messenger carried positive instruc tions to Gen, Oudinot to reduce the Eternal City to subjection at all hazards, and that, having moved his army close to the city, he would commence the attack with an army of 25,000 men, on the 30th May. The Frankfort parliament has transferred its sessions to Its influence will be exercised to form a Republic after the French model, to be composed of Baden, Wurtumburg, Rhenish Bavaria, &c.

The war in Hungary presents no new features, and since the fall of Buda into the hands of the Hungarians, no event has occurred calculated to have a permanent influence on the result of the struggle, though the Hungarians have achieved further and in some respects important victories. There is an evidence that the contestants are concentrating their forces, and accounts of a tremendous battle are every day looked for.

The latest intelligence from Venice left the Austrians, under Marshal Radetzky, on the eve of bombarding that city, which was closely invested on all sides.

It is reported that the King of Sardinia has placed his equadron at the disposal of the Hungarians; but the report-requires confirmation.

The reports are constantly repeated that the war between e Danes and Prussians is at an end; but we can see no ble evidence of the fact. Hostilities still continue in the purhood of Aarhaus, and the Danish blockade is rigidly

HOUSE OF LORDS. June 4 .- The house met for the first time after the Whit of the whole building. Suntide recess, the Earl of Shaftsbury, Deputy Speaker, pre-

In answer to an inquiry of Lord Brougham, Earl Grey said the whole of the information which he had received from the Governor-General was already on their lordships' table. Any other information which he possessed on the subject had been derived from the reports of the debates published in the local journals, and which were of course equally accessible to the noble and learned lord as to him. He must decline giving any answer under these circumstances, as it would be impossible for him to give an explanation that might not be open to misconception hereafter.

The internal arrangements include a large public hall for meetings, concerts, &c., and apartments adjoining. It was suggested that the story immediately over the entrance, be appropriated for a public library, news-room, and merchants exchange; there is very little doubt that these very necessary and desirable additions to our public buildings, would be so far supported, at least, as to produce a profitable relatal; at all events, the attempt is worth making.

The entrance to the market will be in the form of an areade, divided into two commodious shops, and from its advantage for business, will doubtless add materially to the civic revenue.—

Lord Brougham - Am I to understand the noble earl, that he has received no official or private desgatch on this subject?

Earl Grey—The information which I have on the subject is derived from the Canadian newspapers. Lord Elgin, in a private letter, referred to the reports that appeared in various newspapers of the debates, and said that I would derive information from them.

HOUSE OF COMMONS. JUNE 4.—The Speaker took the chair at 4 o'clock.

Mr. Herrics wished to ask a question in reference to the papers moved for on this subject by his right honourable friend the member for the University of Oxford (Mr. Gladstone.) In Sac of those papers, in a side note, it was stated that an appendix, containing a list of the claimants under the commission, to the containing a list of the claimants under the commission. to the extent of 2,176 names, and demanding a total amount of £241,965, was in existence, and then it was added that as these returns were very voluminous, they were omitted. What he wanted to know was, whether it was omitted to be sent from Canada, or whether it was omitted to be furnished to the House by the colonial office in Downing street.

Lord John Russell hoped that the right honourable gentleman an would repeat his question when the honourable gentleman le Under Secretary of State for the Colonies, was present. Hume said, that as the right honourable gentleman for Oxford had given notice of a motion on the subject, it was of Reat importance that government should lay upon the table of the House all the previous proceedings connected with the Rebellion Losses bill.

Lord John Russell—All the documents in the possession of the Colonial Office have been already laid upon the table. Mr. Gladstone had understood the honourable gentleman, the Under Secretary for the Colonies, to have stated to him that day, that the Colonial Office was in possession of the list question. (Hear, hear.) Lord John Russel wished to state, that he proposed to go committee on the Irish poor-law, the first thing on Frida.

He might add, as the right honourable gentleman th member for the University of Oxford had given notice of his intention to bring the subject of the Canadian Rebellion Losses bill before the house, on the reception of the report on the vote in the question, as we understand, on Thursday Wash.

Mr. Gladstone replied that that arrangement would suit him perfectly. He hoped, however, that nothing would be done in the meantime to prejudice the present position of the question. Lord John Russell answered that no step should be taken b nment, until after the discussion of the right honourab gentleman's motion (hear, hear).

ORANGEISM. We understand that the Grand Orange Lodge of Britis North America, has been in session in this city for some day and that the attendance from all parts of the country has been very numerous and highly respectable. A desire was, we be lieve, expressed to have Mr. Gowan of Brockville appointed to of Grand Master, but without the sanction a against the wishes of the gentleman himself; and Mr. Benjami of Belleville has been re-elected by an unanimous vote. great deal of business was transacted, and the Society was lever in a more flourishing condition. Amongst other matter an Address to the Queen was adopted, and the following resotions passed :-

Resolved,-That averse as this Society has ever been to interfere as a body in matters purely of a party and political Interfere as a body in matters purely of a party and political nature; and recognizing in all its members, in their various capacities, as Representatives in the Provincial Legislature, as members of Municipal Corporations, as Magistrates, Jurors and Frecholders, the full right of exercising the franchise with which they may be severally invested, as in their judgment and discretion they may deem best for the public interests, still, on a matter in which not merely political party, but the most solemn obligations of DUTY and ALLEGIANCE are concerned, the Grand Lodge feel that they would be basely shripking from Grand Lodge feel that they would be basely shrinking from Derformance of a sacred duty, did they hesitate, openly and ore the world, to declare their views and opinions. That under this conviction, they feel it imperative on them sustain British supremacy, and to maintain inviolate British connexion; and that, in the present case, they feel the obligation as binding and the duty as imperative, to resist taxation for losses sustained by those who were in arms against the Constitution, as in former days they were ready to peril property and life, to resist open, but more honourable attempts then made to overturn British supremacy. That the duty is as solemn and as binding now as it was then; what has been won by past courage, must not be lost by present cowardice what we then dared to gain, we must now dare to defend.

Third,—That we hold that the man who does anything to eliminate the effective of the result from that locally which alienate the affections of the people from that loyalty which they should ever hold for the Sovereign, and the due attachment which they should at all times maintain for the peace and welfare of the country, is worse than a PUBLIC INCENDIARY—the one only destroys houses and property, at all times liable to accidents and decay—but the other saps the foundations of the Throne, supplies living springs to the floods of civil commotion and brings in its train, not only the desolation of dwellings and the destruction of property, but also the ruin of families, the verturning of nations, and even the loss of human life. That, while this Grand Lodge condemn (as they most unreservedly and most unequivocally do), the incendiaries who committed the recent outrages in the city of Montreal, they feel bound to state, that they hold Lord Elgin and his advisers as responsible for the acts then committed; and, if possible, as even mor guilty than the parties who committed them.

Fourth,- That we hold the organization and arming of the French Canadian party in Lower Canada, and the taxing of the people of the Province to arm, equip, and pay the said French party, to be unauthorized by the constitution, and dangerous alike to the peace of the Province and the liberties of the people; and that we consider such armament to be a sufficient use and justification for the immediate and efficient organiza-

Fifth,-That the present advisers of Lord Elgin, having, in their places in the Provincial Parliament, declared that the rebellions in 1837, and 1838 were justifiable, and that those who were engaged in suppressing them were the true rebels, we declare that we can only view such men as rebels, or at least as the abettors and apologists of rebels; and that Lord Elgin, as the abettors and apologists of recess; and that Lord Eight, by retaining them in his confidence, after such declarations, has deeply insulted every loyal man, and has afforded just grounds to believe that other motives than those of patriotism, are the life springs of the disastrous policy and the violent partizanship which he has since so openly displayed.

CANADIAN PERIODICALS.—We have to acknowledge receipt of the Literary Garland for the present month, which is a fair average number. Inter alia it contains the commencement of a poem in blank verse by the Rev. A. H. Burwell, entitled "Events and End of Times," some portions of which display no small degree of general power. There is also lying before us the eleventh number of Punch in Canada, which is written and illustrated with its usual spirit and ability

There was a large muster of spectators to witness the proceedings, and the company appeared to take a lively interest in the gratifying compliment thus paid to the club.—Abridged from the Patriot.

"One of our subscribers," writing to us from Niagara Falls, under date 13th inst., says:—

"The little steamer Maid of the Mist, which plies from the Suspension Bridge up to the Falls and thence to the Canada shore while coming down this afternoon about 4 o'clock, broke some of her machinery so that the engine could not be worked. Left to the mercy of the current, we drifted down stream with the greatest velocity. The consternation was very great, and many fears were felt for the lives of those on board, but just before we got down to the bridge, the boat drifted into an eddy and the crew got ropes out and worked her on shore. and every one on board were glad, I can assure you, to find themselves once more on terra firma .- New York Sun

DEATH OF JAMES JOHNSTON, Esq.—It is with feelings of deep sadness, that we have this moment heard of the death of James Johnston, Esq., formerly member of the Provincial legislature, for the County of Carleton. Remarkable for those clever eccentricities, which obtained for him notoriety, wherever he went, from the Halls of Legislature, down to the humble (armstead, he was possessed of many estimable qualities which ensured for him a reputation, that will prove even still more enduring, that of an honest man, and an independent and fearless politician. Jemmy Johnston, as he was familiarly termed, was ever the poor man's friend, and his memory will long be preserved by many, to whom in the hour of need, he proved himself a true friend. Peace to his ashes!—Bytown

LAKE SUPERIOR COPPER MINES.—The mining operations of Lake Superior are going on prosperously. MELANCHOLY OCCURRENCE AT THE FALLS!-We have just been informed by a gentleman from the Niagara Falls of a fatal casualty that occurred there on Thusday evening, a few minutes before 8 o'clock.

A party of ladies and gentlemen were visiting the Falls on the American side. Among the visitors were Mrs. DeForrest, a little daughter of that lady, and Mr. C. C. Addington, all of Buffalo. Mr. A. playfully laid his hand upon the child's shoulder, and said he would throw her into the rapids. The shoulder, and said he would throw her into the rapide. The party stood on the margin of Lunar Island, some twenty feet above the falls, and the child thoughtlessly sprang forward to avoid Mr. A., and fell into the water. Mr. Addington immediately rushed after her, succeeded in catching her, and attempted to throw her upon the shore. In this, however, he failed, and losing his own footing, himself and the child were hurried over the fatal precipice. Another gentleman attempthurried over the fatal precipice. Another gentleman attempting the rescue of the little girl, nearly shared the same fate. Who can describe the feelings of the agonized mother, as she saw her beloved daughter hurried over the dreadful cataract!

The Age of Improvement. The Age of Improvement.

One of the most important discoveries of the age, in ameliorating the condition of this large class of suffering humanity, consumptives, is Dr. Wister's Balsam of Wild Cherry. What time establishes and consecrates, what experience adopts and confirms, what all men in all places unite in saying is good and valuable, is so no donbt. A popularity of this sort fixes in society its roots so deep and strong, that time cannot destroy it. The success which has attended this medicine for several years past, has overcome the prejudices of all respectable and sensible men, and the article has taken a stand among the first class of discoveries and blessings of the age; and when resorted to in season, eradicates the diseases for which it is recommended.

We cut the following from the Bellows Falls Gazette, of January, 1846:—

Wistaria & Malaria & Malar

Notwithstanding our aversion to puffing, as many do, everything that comes along in the shape of Patent Medicines, and the fact that we scarcely ever take medicine of any kind, yet we feel that we should be doing injustice to the community by withholding longer the favourable opinion we have of Wistar's Balsam, in cases of colds and pulmonary complaints. Having witnessed its good effects in several instances, we believe it to be an excellent article.

Boole's Hyrerion Fluir.—We have repeatedly spoken in favour of this celebiated article for the hair, and from the praise of those who have used it, we believe were fully justified in doing so; we therefore cheerfully give place to the following from the agent in Worcester:—

"The sale of the Hyperion increases, and we are confident, will supersede all the other preparations in use. We herewith enelose you a certificate, as one of the many proofs of its entire success:

"This may certify, that nearly eight months since I lost all my hair and for six months my head was entirely hald; at the end of that time, I purchased a bottle of Bogle's Hyperion Fluid of D. Scott, Jr. & Co. the agents in Worcester. Since then, I have used it regularly and strictly according to directions, in consequence of which the hair has started all over my head. It is now about an inch long, and growing rapidly. rom the Boston Post. ing rapidly.

purpose of paying a friendly visit to an adjacent neighbour, but scatcely had she reached her place of destination, when she felt so seriously indisposed that she had to be conveyed home on a vehicle. It would seem that, from this period, she had a presentiment of her death being near, as she selected the hymn that was sing at her funeral, beginning with the very appropriate words, "when blooming youth is snatched away" and accordingly availed herself of the blessed consolations which Christianity so eminently holds forth to all true believers, through the heavenly medium of the ordinances of the Church. As she lived respected, so she died regretted, by all her acquaintances, and her mortal remains were accompanied to the Church-ances, and her mortal remains were accompanied to the Church-yard by a very large concourse of people. The Rev. George Graham, officiating minister, preached the funeral sermon from St. James 4th, and 14th, last clause. "For what is your life?" it is even a vapour that appeareth for a little time and then vanisheth away? From this very appropriate text, the Rev. gentleman delivered a very eloquent and impressive discourse, it came from the heart, and went to the heart, as there were but few dry eyes in the audience, and tended powerfully to enforce the all important truth, that, our life is but a vapour that appeareth for a little time and then vanisheth away, and that godliness is profitable unto all things having the promise both of this life and that which is to come. — Communicated,

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

With every desire to comply with the wishes of Presbyter, we regret that we cannot insert his last communication. A large portion of our very limited space has been already devoted to the subject, and were we to permit rejoinder upon re joinder, the discussion would be interminable. Several of our readers, some of them agreeing in opinion with our correspondent, have signified to us their strong desire that the matter be brought to a close. If Presbyter could condense his remarks into two pages of his manuscript, we would endeavour to find room for them as a final communication, but more than this we-
