CANADA: HISTORICAL AND DESCRIPTIVE, FROM SEA TO SEA.

Fully Illustrates our Country from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Unique Remembrance to send to friends at home and abroad.

"CANADA: FROM SEA TO SEA," (Toronto: W. Bryce), is a pretty little volume with illustrated cover, and gives in concise form historical and descriptive sketches. The illustrations, which are 60 in number, include well-executed photographs of the principal Canadian cities, handsome edifices and picturesque bits of scenery. Few books are so well calculated to give the stranger, at short notice, a fairly correct idea of this country, and Canadians will find it a useful and interesting travelling companion.—Telegraph, St. John, N.B.

"CANADA ILLUSTRATED" is a handsome album of Canadian scenery extending from the Atlantic to the Pacific, lately issued by Mr. Wm. Bryce, publisher, Toronto. The engravings are splendidly executed and printed, and the entire work is very creditable. As a Christmas present to friends abroad this little work will be most acceptable. A number scattered through Europe would do more good than a dozen immigration agents.—Port Hope Times.

We have received from Mr. Wm. Bryce, Toronto, a copy of a very fine and interesting book, which we can heartily commend to the people of Canada. It is entitled "Canada: from Sea to Sea," by Mr. G. Mercer Adam, which itself is sufficient to guarantee its excellence. The writer gives a free and easy running comment on the thousand and one objects of interest to the traveller as they are found between Halifax and Vancouver. The descriptions are graphic and interesting, and comprise city, town, lake, river, island, mountain, and almost everything else you can meet with in travelling from the Atlantic to the Pacific.—Weekly News, Berlin.

MR. WM. BRYCE, the popular publisher of Toronto, has issued a new and valuable book entitled "Canada: from Sea to Sea." It comprises fifty-seven pages of reading matter interspersed with sixty-one photographic illustrations of the cities, towns, and more striking and picturesque places by the way. The historical and descriptive matter is by a well-known and popular author and litterateur, and will repay perusal. A fine miniature map of the Dominion goes with the book.—Petrolia Advertiser.

"CANADA: FROM SEA TO SEA."—Mr. William Bryce, Toronto, publishes a neat volume of travel entitled, "Canada: from Sea to Sea," by G. Mercer Adam. It is sketchy in character, and full of information of a trustworthy nature about the Dominion from Halifax to Victoria. The work is both historical and descriptive, and the illustrations, some sixty in number, are valuable and striking. To the traveller it supplies all the elements of the concise guide book.—Chronicle, Quebec.

"CANADA: FROM SEA TO SEA," is a beautiful book from the press of William Bryce, the enterprising Toronto publisher. It forms within itself a history and a guide book, within the compass of sixty finely printed pages giving the reader a capital survey of the Dominion, historically and geographically. When it is said that the descriptive matter is from the pen of G. Mercer Adam, readers may be sure that the subject is treated crisply, interestingly and completely. Canada to him is certainly "a well-kenn'd land." The publisher has determined to second the efforts of the author, and he has succeeded beyond praise. Almost every place mentioned—certainly every district is finely illustrated—there are altogether sixty-one illustrations. The method of treatment is very pleasing. Beginning on the Atlantic coast at Halifax the author takes his reader numerous excursions, steadily pursuing his course westward until he lands them by the Fraser Canyons on the Pacific Slope. If any part of the book is better done than another, perhaps it is the sections dealing with Manitoba and its chief city, and the trip over the Rockies. The views in this latter section are noteworthy—The Second Mountain, Beaverfoot and Fraser Canyon, are two pictures specially deserving attention. Altogether this is a book that will commend itself to every candid judgment, and certainly deserves the attention of all who think well of this "Canada of ours."—The Eastern Chronicle, New Glasgow, Nova Scotia.

"CANADA: FROM SEA TO SEA."—Wm. Bryce, Toronto, has just published a magnificent work entitled Canada: Historical and Descriptive, from Sea to Sea. It is written by G. Mercer Adam, and is illustrated with views of the principal places and the finest scenery that can be found between the two oceans. The new book will please Canadians mightily, and no inhabitant of the great country it describes should be without it.—Spectator, Hamilton.
