ADDRESS IN ANSWER TO HIS EXCELLENCY'S SPEECH.

House resumed adjourned debate on the proposed motion of Mr. Grant for an address to His Excellency the Governor General, in reply to his speech at the opening of the session.

Mr. JOHN W. DANIEL (St. John City).
Mr. Speaker, in rising to address this House in connection with the motion at present before it, I may say that I do so with a very large amount of that diffidence which naturally clings to a member when he first has an opportunity of addressing this House. If anything further were necessary to render me the more diffident, the eloquent speeches which I have listened to for the last two days from members on both sides of the House must certainly have produced that result. Having been elected so recently to this parliament, which has not now a long course to run, I cannot be expected to have that grasp of the subjects debated and dealt with here, which older members of the House possess. But, Sir, having but recently come from the electorate, I have perhaps some advantages which gentlemen who have sat here since 1900 cannot lay claim to. I have had a very recent opportunity of feeling very closely the opinions of the people, and of finding out what their views are on the policy of this government, and more especially that policy of theirs which they have crystallized into the Grand Trunk Pacific scheme. I believe, Sir, that it is usually the rule, that members in addressing this House should
