

A variety of Statements illustrative of the confusion and disorder that prevail in all the departments of government, in making up the National Accounts, may be had at the Publisher's.—The Statement, No. 3, herunto prefixed, will be found to contain the substance of the whole Volume of Finance Accounts laid annually before Parliament, with all the detail that is necessary to give the enquirer a fair idea of both Income and Expenditure. If the final exposition was to be made up in such form, a correct conclusion might be immediately drawn; whilst the order of arrangement adopted by His Majesty's present ministers, preclude the possibility of any satisfactory inference being drawn from their Statements.
