Account of the ACTION between the STATES OF AMERICA and the CONFEDERATE INDIANS, on the 4th November 1791.

THE account of the action which took place between the troops of the States of America, commanded by General St Clair, and the confederate Indians, in the Miami territories, on the 4th November 1791, which has been slightly mentioned (page 202,) is, by the best information I could procure from Indians and white people that were in the action on each side of the question as follows, viz.

GENERAL ST CLAIR's whole army consisted but of 2500 men. In this number were included two or three hundred Kentucky militia, who, after having gone a considerable way with the army into the Indian country, became restive, and would go no farther. At the time of their departure from the army on their return home, there happened to be a considerable store of provisions, with a small convoy, coming forward for the troops, and for fear the Kentucky militia should seize on it, the General detached the first regiment of
