

- French poilus at Mürren, 236.
roads, superiority of, 44, 45.
soldier, the, as a cook, 5.
- French-Swiss newspapers and the war, 228.
- French Switzerland, good work of our French Allies in, 229.
pro-Ally, 230.
women capable managers of businesses, 29.
- Fry, Elizabeth, and social reform, 30.
- GATE to Italy barred, the, 217-222.
- Geneva, a changed town owing to the war, 251.
and British Red Cross Societies, the, 251, 252.
Red Cross, heartrending appeals to, from all countries, 250.
- German artillery, intensity of, at Verdun, 91.
atrocities, remonstrance by Spanish Government talked of, 263.
efforts to undermine Swiss belief in Allies' cohesion, 229.
exodus from France into Spain in 1914, 255.
lies, Spain flooded with, 267.
methods of propaganda in Spain, 263.
newspaper propaganda in Switzerland, 228.
propaganda in Geneva, 251, 252.
prisoners and their food, 23.
prisoners hidden in England, 20.
prisoners in France, 20.
secret wireless apparatus in Spain, Commendatore Marconi's views concerning, 267.
wounded not heroes at home, 44.
- German-Swiss puzzled about Verdun, 227.
- German-Swiss, anti-attitude of, to Allies, 227; afterwards appreciative, ibid.
- Switzerland and family ties with Germany, 228.
pro-German but fair, 230.
- Germanians in Spain, with the, 255-268.
not anxious to quit, 260.
are naturally cruel, 44.
- Germany, food for our men in, 243-248.
- Germany's 80,000 agents in Spain, 267.
- Gifford, Lady, manager of Princess Louise's home at Hardelot, 7.
- Gleichen, Countess Helen, and the 4th Section British Red Cross with the Italians, 220.
- Gorizia, the taking of, 193 seq.
- Government foresight in connexion with Red Cross, &c., societies, 6.
- HADFIELD, Lady, her hospital in France, 7.
- Haig, Sir Douglas, 20; his headquarters, 59; rarely absent from, ibid.; his Scottish atmosphere, 60, his dourness, ibid.; his dislike of secret reports, 61; his candour, ibid.; suggestions invited, ibid.; no preference for cavalry, ibid.; his wonderful system of communication, 62; devotion of his staff, ibid.; a soldier's appreciation of, ibid.; his nightly vigil, 63; his co-operation with the medical services, 90.
- Hauser, Colonel, Swiss P.M.O. at Mürren, 237, 240.
- Headquarters of a modern army, 40.
- Heat in the Trentino, 217.
- Hill, Octavia, and social reform, 30.