The aldermen got tangled up over the street signs contract. A sub-committee recommended that the contract be given to the Beaver Falls, Pa., company at 34 cents a sign. Patriotic feelings prompted Ald. Kingdon to move that it be given to the Ningara Falls Metallic Company at 21 cents a sign. Then it was found that that company was located on the wrong side of the boundary line, and it was moved that the McClary Company of London be given the order at 33%c a sign. Ald. The board decided to add to the letter to be forwarded to the Kramer-Irwin Asphalt Company a resolution to the effect that if the company did not comply at once with the terms of the notice sent it by the Engineer, the city would proceed to make the repairs at the company's expense, and that the sureties would be notified that they would be held liable for the costs and damages.

Population About 54,000.

All of the enumerators of the census in the west section of Hamilton have completed their work, and those in the cast will finish to-morrow, three-fourths of them having already got thru. It is pretty safe to say that the talk about a population of them were English, the balance, about 60, were French/Canadians. But The city assessors' figures for 1900 were 52,665. The Dominion census of 1891 gave Hamilton a population of between 47,000 and 48,000, but the city assessors' figures only refched 47,000 in the fall of 1893, and 1000 people or so had been taken in by an nexation in the meantime.

Minor Matters.

Mr. Tarte complained of being misrepresented continually in the English Tory press. He said that a few days ago he discharged 75 men from the public works, and those in the cause they were not wanted. Fifteen or 16 of them were English, the balance, about 60, were French/Canadians. But The Citizen, the very morning after those dismissals, called attention to the fact that 15 Englishmen had been dismissed from the mechanical branch, not mentioning, of course, the fact that 60 French-Canadians had been dismissed from the mechanical branch, not mentioning, of course, the fact that 60 French-Canadians had been dismissed from the mechanical branch, not mentioning on the mechanical branch, not mentioning of the mechanical branch, not mentioning, of course, the fact that 60 French-Canadians had been dismissed from the mechanical branch, not mentioning of the mechanical branch Population About 54,000.

The Premier Takes Part.

Sir Wilfrid went on to explain that for a long time the French-Canadians were suspicious of the census, and that altho they were gradually coming to a more correct view prejudices were not all re-moved. The cures had always done their best for the census, and as they took a careful annual count of their parishes they were appealed to in this instance to help the census again. There was not the same necessity for this as regards the English-

Mayor Howland replied to "Canada and the Empire" in an eloquent address. Other toasts were "Our Alma Mater," "Sister Associations," "The Old School" and "The Ladies." Messrs. J. Yes, he said, to Mr. Clarke, the "proof" could be had from the bureau to show this. Then he took it back, and said the circular had been printed at Le Temps office.

Mr. Borden's Criticism.
Mr. Borden said his criticism of the circular was that unfortunately that informa-on which it was proper and desirable to recure had been attempted to be pro-ared in such a way as to create suspiclons. If "confidential" circulars had been sent out to the English-speaking Cana-dians, it would have provoked criticism in other quarters. He didn't attach much in other quarters. He didn't attach much importance to the circular sent out assing for the origin of the people. It certainly became a very nonsensical matter to talk about the origin of people in Nova Scotia, who are named Martin or Blanchard or Pazzant, and who, because their ancestors 10 our 150 years ago were Frenchmen, to enter them as of French

Frenchmen, to enter them as of Frenchmen, in the census. And, similarly as the Scotch origin of the Frasers and Mac have no useful place in the life of this country. [Hear, hear.] While he had no objection to the services of the cures being enlisted to secure the returns of temporary absentees, because of the migratory character of the French-Canadians, he thought similar precautions might well have been taken in regard to the people of Nova Scotia, many of whom went for a while every year to the United States to work in the fisheries, or factories, or in domestic service. It was not desirable, that such impressions as had been aroused by this census circular should prevail in this country—that anything should be done, even with the utmost good faith, which would lead to any impression of that kind.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier: Hear, hear.

Mr. Borden replied: "If he should ask me as to whether anyone has attempted to raise the race cry here, I would almost be inclined to consider his own remarks to-day. I thought that the right hon, gentleman who sits in front of him dealt very fairly and nicely, indeed, with these questions, and I could well have hoped that Mr. Tarte would follow his example, because, if any person in the position of the cause, if any person in the position of the Minister of Public Works will persist in flaunting words such as he has used to-day in the face of hon. gentlemen on this side of the House—a course which he has pursued more than once this session—he cannot be converted to the sext of the converted to the converted t
