

Manuel's Bride-to-Be A Relative of Kaiser

Her Grandfather Was the Innocent Cause of Franco-Prussian War.

Ex-King Manuel who is to be married to Princess Augustine Victoria of Hohenzollern, has been provided by news-mongers and others with many potential brides, and in February, 1909, when he was still on the throne of Portugal, it was even officially announced in Lisbon that he was betrothed to Princess Beatrice of Saxe-Coburg, a cousin of King George, but this fell thru, because the princess was a Protestant. Since his deposition it has been announced that he was to marry the daughter of Don Miguel, pretender to the Portuguese throne, and thus unite the rival royal claims.

The princess whom he is actually to marry is a distant relative of the Kaiser, and is a second cousin of her prospective husband. Her grandfather, Prince Leopold, of Hohenzollern, was the innocent cause of the Franco-Prussian war of 1870. He was chosen by the Spanish government to be King of Spain in the expulsion of Queen Isabella. The Emperor Napoleon III insisted on the withdrawal of the Prince, and his highness, with the assent of King William of Prussia, withdrew his acceptance of the throne. Not satisfied with this, Napoleon demanded guarantees against any future candidature, which the King of Prussia refused to give, and war followed. A lively controversy has been started on the question whether the Princess Augustine Victoria is to be called queen. Some of the German experts on court questions declare that she will rank only as a duchess, with the title of royal highness, while others assert that as Manuel has not recognized his deposition from the throne of Portugal and retains the titles of king and majesty, even at those courts whose governments have officially recognized the Republic of Portugal, his consort will share this courtesy title. Many are inclined to the belief that the latter view is probably correct.

Little is known in Berlin of the bride, as her entire life has been spent in South Germany, but it is understood that she will bring to Manuel a plump dowry, as this branch of the Hohenzollern family is wealthy. Its members financed the Roumanian throne, whose present occupant, King Charles, is a prince of Hohenzollern; and in 1870 were prepared to finance the candidature of a prince of Hohenzollern for the Spanish throne.

WHICH?

Which shall it be, which would be true, The city queen with eyes of blue, Or the little maid from the country town, With the simple style and eyes of brown? Tell me, if you were choosing a wife, To make you happy all your life, Would you choose the one with the fancy curl, Or, rather, the little country girl?

Auction Sale of Cubist Paintings

Job Hedges Defines Average Voter at Sale of Misapplied Art in New York.

NEW YORK, April 26.—Job Hedges defined the average voter at the sale of misapplied art for the benefit of the Lighthouse for the Blind on East 59th street. The sale was held at the light-house. Leo Melzner, who painted Gov. Sulzer's portrait, had just had his greatest success in knocking down a work called "A Cubist Painting," "a cubist painting, a cubist painting!" for $12. This work consisted of lineolium and brass tacks. It had taken second prize at the hands of the committee. The committee consisted of the policeman from the corner, the janitor and a blind man.

Then Mr. Melzner introduced Mr. Hedges as one who, from being once a Democrat and later a Progressivist, had found it easy to become a Cubist. Mr. Hedges seemed somewhat dashed at the presentation. He said: "That introduction seems to be about as uncertain as what I received at the polls last winter. I now know that the average voter is a Cubist." The assistants handed up a cube portrait of President Wilson, which seemed to affect Mr. Hedges deeply, so deeply that he pushed it aside and refused to sell it. He asked for bids instead upon

BIDS TO BE OPENED FOR OLD LIBRARY.

Tenders for the purchase of the Church street branch of the public library will be opened on Monday afternoon by the board of control.

a work called "A Simple Siren Soul," which, he declared, was "not subject to attachment, could not be willed to any one and would be invaluable as a gift for some one you didn't like," and he finally secured $8 for it. Irvin Cobb made his greatest hit as a picture dealer in selling "On With the Dance or On With Everything Else." For this an impetuous bidder paid $7, but he was cautioned that it would have to be wrapped before it could be carried thru the streets.

W. I. Scandlin, a blind man and president of the Blind Man's Club, did better yet. He went into such ecstasies over the workmanship in Heinrich Meyn's "Cubist Weeping at His Own Work" that he easily secured $20 for it. This work had received first prize at the hands of the committee. The much admired and almost famous "Spinster of 63 on Roller Skates" only fetched $3.50. It was one of the bargains of the sale. The sale attracted a "capacity" house and no doubt the mortgage upon the Institute for the Blind is considerably lighter this morning.

Sunday Car Test Fails. WINNIPEG, April 26.—The test case against one of the seventeen moving picture theatres for giving Sunday performances at which a collection was taken in aid of the Dayton food sufferers has been dismissed in the police court.

Kaiser Beaten by Farmer Opponent

German Emperor Pays His Tenant Thirty Thousand Dollars to Give up Farm.

BERLIN, April 26.—After having beaten the German Emperor in the Law Courts, Herr Sohst, the Kaiser's farmer tenant, has now agreed to settle with his royal landlord—presumably on his own terms.

He has consented to give up his farm, the lease of which had still five years to run, on payment of $30,000 from the Kaiser's agent. Herr Sohst has also received a letter from the Kaiser's Civil Cabinet, the contents of which are not divulged, but in which, presumably, regret is expressed that his majesty had been misinformed. Finally, and this has made a deep impression in Berlin, Herr Sohst has had conferred on him the Fourth Class of the Order of the Crown, probably as a sort of salve for his wounded feelings.

It will be remembered that last February, at a meeting of the German Agricultural Association, the Kaiser addressed this body, giving his experience on his estate at Cadlron. In the course of his observations he remarked that one of his tenants, whom he described as "no good," had been "thrown out" by him. This tenant was Herr Sohst, who is regarded in the neighborhood as a most capable farmer. The courts declared that his eviction was illegal.

Drugless Treatment for Disease

Oxygen Transmitted by the Farador Brings Relief to Toronto Sufferers After Other Remedies Failed.

There is no disputing the fact that the induction of oxygen attains wonderful results in the correction of human ailments. The letters and testimonials arriving daily are conclusive evidence. Below is an indication of what Toronto people say about the Farador machine:

One gentleman who was suffering from nervous debility for a number of years decided, out of sheer desperation, to give the Farador a trial. The results were so apparent that he purchased another machine, and the family have used it for constipation, quinsy, catarrh and lumbago, with highly satisfactory and beneficial results. (Name and address on request).

Another lady in the city, who was a martyr to sciatica and nervousness, and had been treated by doctors for some considerable time, was advised to try our oxygen cure. She was skeptical at first, but finally decided to get a Farador. The results were so satisfactory that she says: "I would not part with my Farador at any price." (Name and address on request).

We have still another lady who suffered untold agony from rheumatic gout. Medicines had been prescribed, but failed to bring permanent relief. Out of curiosity she decided to try the Farador, never anticipating any results, but to her surprise the pain gradually diminished, and now she is enjoying good health. This lady is loud in her praise of the Farador. (Name and address on request).

We have also treated a little girl (aged 7), suffering from diabetes. For a long time she was the despair of her parents, but, thanks to the Farador, she is now running about as lively as a cricket. Her parents are extremely well pleased with the results. (Name and address on request).

We could quote many more if space would permit. A booklet is now in the press to illustrate the growing popularity of the Farador machine by those who have proved it out. The Farador is assuredly a blessing to those suffering from disease. It offers a permanent cure for all human ailments. No drugs, no doctors, just natural treatment. Oxygen, the life-giver, is the remedy. Bacteria and other disease germs become oxidized or burnt up, and the body becomes healthy and active.

The Farador is several times more powerful than any other similar device on the market. If you have another machine, bring it to us. We will test it on the Northern Detector, an instrument which registers the energy of any di-magnetic device. You will then appreciate the superiority of the Farador.

Write or call for our little booklet, "The Natural Way." It tells all about Oxygen Therapy, and how to apply the Farador. An edition costs nothing. Our advice is free to all.

Life of Tyrone Power By William Winter

Dean of American Critics Writes Dealing With the Career of One of the Foremost Actors.

Mr. William Winter, dean of American critics, has just issued the first of a series of delightful books in which intimate and most interesting personalia is blended with illuminating criticism and comment relative to the labors and lives of living actors of America. The first book of the series is of Tyrone Power. America's foremost actor, and who undoubtedly is the greatest actor in the world today. In the preface of his book Mr. Winter states: "I have chosen Tyrone Power as the subject of the first of my projected biographies because his life has been one of exceptionally interesting adventure, in some respects as romantic as even that of Edmund Keen—and for the still more persuasive reason that the example provided by his resolute perseverance against many and stalwart obstacles, and his patient endurance of much and grievous hardships and disappointment has enlisted my sympathy as one of the worthy to be commended to respect and emulation. Inquiry and observation relative to his career have shown me that he has continually cherished a high ideal of the actor's art, and scudulously wished and labored to do fine things, to merit a high rank, to dignify the theatre, and to benefit society, and therefore I believe him to be one of the actors of this transitional period who especially deserve to be cheered, encouraged, and celebrated."

There are few actors on the stage at this time who occupy a more conspicuous position than Tyrone Power has yet attained, but there is no contemporary actor who, by integrity of purpose, steadfast devotion to a noble ideal, self-sacrifice for the sake of being right and doing right in the pursuit of his vocation, and furthermore by splendid acting, has shown himself better entitled to sympathetic recognition and practical public acclaim. He has yet to prove his incontestable right to be enrolled with the great tragedians of an earlier generation, not yet forgotten, but who has already accomplished enough to prove that he is an actor of the artistic lineage of Forrest, Dion, Edwin Booth, Barrett, and John McCullough, possessing, indeed, an individuality distinct from that of either of those leaders, but endowed with faculties and animated by a spirit much the same as theirs, and naturally qualified for conquest in the same field in which they gained their great renown. In suitability to heroic characters, in vital humanity, and in robust style, his acting has shown him to be closely akin to McCullough, and no indication of nature could be more auspicious than that.

"I believe that Tyrone Power will justify my conviction of his worth and my confident expectation of his triumph. If my belief is well founded, this book may perhaps help to smooth a thorny path. If not, at least it is a slight contribution to the history of our stage."

DANCERS FALL FROM OLD CITY HALL STEPS

Weak Railing Breaks and Two Are Badly Injured.

GALT, April 26.—(Special.)—While attending a dance in the city hall last night two young men, Harry Secord, and Wilbur Uptogrove, shopmates, employed at the Getty and Scott Co., withdrew to the steps of the building to enjoy a smoke. Leaning against the top rail of the stairs, it loosened the old guard and it collapsed. The men tumbled to the pavement twenty feet below. Secord sustained a fractured skull, and is at the hospital in a critical condition. Uptogrove had his collar bones broken and his shin hurt.
