This was the situation throughout the afternoon of Tuesday, when all the revolutionists were anxiously awaiting for orders from Amador. General Tovar and General Amaya, who arrived here with the former from Colon, the Governor of Panama and others were aware of the situation and they went to the headquarters of the battalion of Colombia, in garrison here, believing they could prevail on the soldiers not to take part in the movement.

The revolutionists finally decided upon for their own flesh and blood. 5 p. m. as the hour to proclaim the independence of the isthmus, but a change hours, in the main repeating his former occurred in their plans and word was sent to Santa Ana, where over 2,000 men had congregated, for the revolutionists to disperse until 7 p. m., but they were already marching toward the Piaza Chiriqui, cheering enthusiastically for the in-dependence of the isthmus. Increupon a signal was given to General Hueetas, of the revolutionary forces, who, in the name of the Republic of Panama, arrested General Tovar and his staff and escorted them to police headquarters amidst wild cheering for the new repub-lic, for Dr. Amador and for the other leaders of the revolution.

The flag of the Republic of Panama was then formally hoisted.
