EXCITED SCOT CAUSED TROUBLE

The policeman managed to arrest nine men on Saturday and one on Sunday. All but one were on the police bench this morning facing Magistrate Ritchie and the missing one forfeited a deposit of eight dollars. The remaining eight were a repentant looking lot and in their turn were handed out some words of advice in a plain-spoken way.

One of the eight on the bench was arrested by Sergeant Campbell on Canterbury street Saturday afternoon on the charge of shouting. He was described by the officer as a dark man, but the evidence pointed out that Gordon, as his name is, although hard of hearing and unwilling to speak in court this morning, had little trouble in declaring out his thoughts on Canterbury street Saturday.

Mr. McCready explained to the court that the prisoner had entered the telephone office and was very much excited over an item which he claimed referred to him. He used profane language. Mr. McCready said he did not wish to prosecute but thought that the man should be looked after. Gordon had a letter from the Ottawa St. Andrews Society and was solicited aid in the fee but on Saturday the defendant had been drinking and was acting badly.

Gordon wrote a message to the court and stated that he had a wife and two children in Ottawa, all dead and dumb, and he had to support them. He presented a marked copy of the Telegraph which had a local about a man leaving a table in a King square hotel, scratching his name from the register and leaving the hotel on the margin of the paper was written "Life. Want what I order or nothing at all." The local was marked and the prisoner produced the paper to the magistrate who said that he did not wish to see it. There was also presented by the prisoner a paper from the Ottawa St. Andrews Society stating that Gordon was a good man and worthy of support.

C. K. Cameron of the local society informed the court that the man was well recommended from the Ottawa society. He sold lead pencils for a living. The prisoner then wrote another message to the court, which said that he had worked on a railway, but a man in his predicament could not get along in Ottawa. The magistrate said it seemed that a number of this class of persons were dumped in on St. John, and he does not want them and has a hard time to get clear of them. Only a short time ago a Frenchman gave considerable trouble. He remained Gordon to jail, saying that it would get the run out of him, and requested that he be sent to see if something could not be done to have the man sent out of the city, as he was not wanted here. The eight drunks were fined the usual amount, after which the magistrate took a look over the nine prisoners and said: "Well, there isn't a Jew among you, and if asked you would all

YOUNG MAN ON TRIAL FOR KILLING HIS SWEETHEART

Chester Gillette Accused of the Murder of Grace Brown, So He Might Marry Another Girl.

MERKIMER, N. Y., Nov. 12.—Chester Gillette, a young man of good family, will be placed on trial here for his life today. He is charged with the murder of his sweetheart Grace Brown, whose body was found in a lake in the Adirondacks on June 12 last. The girl had gone to Big Moose, near where her body was found, with Gillette. After they had registered at a hotel, the couple went for a boat ride on the lake and that was the last time she was seen alive. It was supposed at first that both Gillette and the girl had been drowned, as their boat was found floating on the lake. The girl's coat was found, but Gillette could not be located. Later Gillette was arrested on this charge at the Arrowhead Hotel at Inlet. An extraordinary term of the Supreme Court was convened by order of Governor Higgins so that the case might be given to a grand jury. The grand jury indicted Gillette for murder, and his trial was set for today. The prosecution, it is said, will contend that Gillette killed Miss Brown for the purpose of getting rid of her that he might be free to devote his attention to another woman.

GEO. W. MULLIN ENTHUSIASTIC OVER WESTERN SCENERY.

He Describes at Some Length the Magnificent Sights Between Calgary and the Coast as Seen from the Window of a Train.

George W. Mullin, formerly of St. John, in a letter to the Star, gives the following trip from Calgary to the coast. Leaving Calgary the road follows the Bow River valley, and the scenery is well within the foot hills, and a little further, at Kananaskis, the mountains suddenly appear, close at hand, with their snow peaks. At one point seem to offer an impenetrable barrier. The Kananaskis River is crossed by a high iron bridge, and the road of the falls may be heard from the train. The water of these streams, or rivers, is always of a milky green with the sediment of the ice over the rocks. The mountains now rise abruptly in great masses, a hand in the road brings us between two almost vertical walls or dizzy heights. This is the gap by which the Rocky mountains are entered. On the right are fantastically broken heights, on the left massive snow clad promontories, rising thousands of feet. The scenery from here, past Canmore and Anthorrite to Banff, is beautiful.

A stop of a couple of days at the latter place was well repaid. Banff is a charming place of about 500 population, at an altitude of about 4,500 feet, in the midst of impressive mountains, where nature has made a beautiful beginning at our feet is Cascade, about 10,000 feet. At the left is Sulphur Mountain, along the top of which are the hot springs, and on the summit of which an observatory has been installed. To describe the scenery of this latter took two and one half hours, and gave a splendid view. The little town of Banff and the C. P. R. hotel, an immense structure, look like children's toys from the dizzy height, and from here can be seen about 6,000 square miles of the hot springs, so impregnated with sulphur, that one can smell it long after leaving the place. The hot springs, previously spoken of, are at different elevations, the highest being 900 feet above sea level. The hot springs have been improved by the government, and bath houses have been erected, in which one can plunge in the hot springs, so impregnated with sulphur, that one can smell it long after leaving the place. A few St. John boys met with here are doing well and like the city as much for its climate, which is always mild, as for the prosperity found there. Stanley Park is a magnificent pleasure resort, with its immense trees, some of them 12 or 15 feet in diameter. It gives one an impression of what the forests in these parts must be like. A day spent in Westminster and the fair was very paid. Here is the headquarters of the salmon canning industry and here as well as at Vancouver are many large saw mills and it was an interesting sight to watch the manufacture of these immense logs into lumber. After one of the most delightful sails I ever enjoyed, the same steamer, Seattle is reached. It is a typical American city of 185,000 population, and is a beautiful sight, and in the city, where are several buffalo, is also very interesting. Biggest Combine of the Kind in the World Has Been Formed With a Capital of Over $50,000,000

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—The Tribune today will say: "The most gigantic theatrical combination in the world, or which the biggest syndicate now in existence will be but a part is in process of formation in Chicago. The new combine is to include $50,000,000 of the most important theatres in the United States, will be represented in every city from New York to San Francisco and from Portland to New Orleans, will dictate matters of bookings, tours of all big companies and in word to the theatrical business of the United States, if not the world. Although the combination still is in the process of formation still in the process of formation, the following interests are slated as those to go into it: Klav & Erlanger, Daniel Frohman, Karl S. Frohman, Al Hayman, Nixon & Seymour, Rich & Harris, Orpheum Circuit.

"It is estimated by those who are managers who expect to go into the new combination that the properties controlled by the corporation are worth at least $50,000,000. "According to present plans a new corporation will be formed, probably under the laws of Illinois. Its capital stock will be placed somewhere between $50,000,000 and $100,000,000."

GENERAL SHAFER IS SERIOUSLY ILL

BAKERSFIELD, Cal., Nov. 12.—Dr. J. H. Shaw gave out to the Associated Press the following information regarding General Shafter's condition at 2 o'clock. General Shafter passed a very restless night, but while his condition is very low it cannot be said that he is sinking. His temperature at 3 a. m. was 101.6, pulse 68, respiration, 20.

MODJESKA'S LAST APPEARANCE HERE

The local Modjeska testimonial will bring together an unusually brilliant social gathering. This great actress, especially to those who have travelled, who have read, who have observed, and, above all, to those who have seen the majority of the celebrated players of the day. Appreciation of such talent as Modjeska's depends largely upon comparison. In truth, it is after one has seen all the foremost actors and actresses of the current time that he realizes the true quality of this great woman's gifts. When she appears at the Opera House on Friday evening, the 16th, the certainty is that the majority of those present will be playgoers of the most refined critical tastes and capable of the most minute discrimination.

The W. S. Harkins Company, which is to appear at the Opera House next week is practically the same as last year. Mr. English and Miss Van Duser still head the company, the new members being Miss McNellie, Mr. Newcomb, and Mr. Griffin, the latter gentleman being the possessor of a beautiful singing voice. The repertoire of the company comprises the latest English and American successes. Mr. Harkins states that his company met with great success in the West Indies, and will again take his company south, opening in Bermuda in February.

TWO MEN ARE KILLED BY THE SIMPLE LIFE.

Habits of Primitive Man Too Hard for Reformers of Our Day.

BERLIN, Nov. 10.—An attempt made by a group of German authors, painters and philosophers to found a "simple life" colony in the Island of Kaban, one of the German possessions in the Bismarck Archipelago, has terminated in disastrous failure. The leaders of this enterprise were a musician, Herr Lutzwitz, an author, Herr Engelhardt, a philosopher, Herr Bettmann, and a painter, Herr Robins, who were accompanied by other enthusiasts burning with zeal to start life afresh under conditions approximating most closely to nature. The colony named themselves the "Sun Brothers," in token of their desire to enjoy permanent sunbathing and to live on the simple life. The philosophers intended to resume the diet of primitive men by eating exclusively nuts, fruits, and so forth. Their labor was to consist of tilling the land and tending herds. Briefly, they resolved to lead the simple life on virgin soil.

The enterprise collapsed after a comparatively short period. Herr Lutzwitz and Herr Engelhardt died of disease brought on by the lack of results of exposure resulting from inadequate clothing and exhaustion caused by inadequate diet. The philosopher, Herr Bettmann, was murdered by natives. Herr Robins and the remaining colonists then abandoned their task and fled back in despair to civilization.

NUN SENT TO PRISON ON CHARGES OF LIAR.

Accused of Attempt to Poison Servant, Doubts of Her Guilt Are Strong.

BERLIN, Nov. 10.—Frau von Heuser, a Bavarian noble family, who was last convicted of the murder of St. Maximilian, near Munich, was brought up this morning for a second time on trial on a charge of attempting to murder her servant, Minna Wagner. The first trial concluded on March 8, 1903, when Heuser was found guilty of attempting to murder Wagner by poison, and condemned to eight years' penal servitude. After serving more than half year of this term, grave doubts have arisen regarding the woman's guilt. Fresh evidence which has been collected shows that Minna Wagner, who was herself the principal witness at the last trial, was hysterical, mentally deficient, a habitual liar and altogether a weak witness, whose testimony ought never to condemn the prisoner.

Fraulein von Heuser has changed terribly during her incarceration. At the last trial she was cool and self-possessed. Today she is a broken-down, gray-headed, despondent wreck. She frequently broke into tears during the proceedings today, and collapsed altogether from time to time. Wagner is dead, so that her cross-examination, which might have yielded surprising results, is impossible. The case is proceeding.
