AMALGAMATION FOR FOXFARMERS

Big Ranches cut down operating expenses and help to increase the dividends.

It is very apparent that the silver black fox industry of Prince Edward Island is undergoing a process of amalgamation. All authorities agree that it is in the best interests of the industry as a whole for large companies should be larger and that they should create a reserve fund and conservation of foxes from year to year, thus increasing the value of stock to the investor. By doing this it insures the stock being negotiable at all times, even at a premium.

Perhaps one of the strongest articles on the subject of large companies was written by Mr. Anderson in the Charlottetown Guardian, an extract from which is reprinted herewith:

"In certain parts of Prince Edward Island there are as many as thirty small ranches with 'class A' foxes within a radius of five miles. These ranches have thirty keepers living in thirty houses, thirty night watchmen, thirty boards of directors and so on. This is an extravagant waste when one keeper, one night watchman, and one board of directors could do the work equally well at a tithe of the cost. Just imagine a keeper, night watchman and board of directors for three pairs of foxes when they could just as well look after fifty. The cost of food purchased in wholesale quantities and administration expenses would be much lessened. It is high time for ranchers to realize what this means and to get together."

Few will argue the soundness of the writers and contentions, few will dispute the fact that efficient organization and extensive operations mean lower expenses and greater possibilities for good profits.

Fur Producers, Limited, is the only ranch in Prince Edward Island with one hundred foxes. It is also claimed that it is the only ranch with a five foot "dead line" between each of the pens, making the spread of contagious disease practically impossible. The "dead line" idea was adopted upon recommendation by Dr. Higgins, chief pathologist of the Dominion government at Ottawa.

Fur Producers, Limited, ranch is located within four miles of Charlottetown, and is up-to-date in every respect, embodying the most improved features for protection. Mr. Frank Tuplin, one of the most successful pioneer ranchers in Prince Edward Island, is supervisor of the ranch. Still the directors are determined that the

INTERESTING COURT CASE IN P. E. ISLAND

Sheriff defendant in suit that has attention of all Fox owners.

Charlottetown, P. E. I., July 17—The case of Stewart versus Horne, which came up in the Supreme Court last week, was one of unusual interest to the legal fraternity owing to the fact that it was the first of the kind that was experienced in this province, and to the general public because it is connected with a black fox transaction. It appears that John A. Stewart brought suit against John Horne for a writ of attachment against P. H. Horne, sheriff of Queens county and a brother of the latter, for failing to execute a writ of replevin. This writ was delivered to the sheriff to obtain possession of the defendant. It seems that a fox was captured by a man named Birt in Mount Stewart. This fox was claimed by Mr. Horne to be that he had lost, and Stewart also intended that the fox was his.

The sheriff received a writ with instructions to immediately replevy or take possession of the fox, and a bond for double the sworn value of the fox was delivered to him and accepted by him. On the advice of the coroner, however, the sheriff declined to execute the writ unless he received an indemnity from $25,000 to $30,000 and alleged by Mr. Horne to be the demand for an indemnity of $50,000. The sheriff was directed to go to the premises of the defendant, Horne, and replevy the goods. It was not brought out in the evidence that he was requested to break into or invade any ranch, and the court held that it was the duty of the sheriff to act upon the king's writ and make some effort to replevy the goods.

The sheriff in his defense claimed that the fox sought to be replevied was not properly described in the writ of replevin. The court held, however, that the sheriff was not the judge or tribunal to decide the validity or the accuracy of the writ. It was a matter for the court. The judgment of the court, delivered by the chief justice, was that the sheriff was guilty of contempt in refusing in his official capacity to act upon the writ. Accordingly he ordered that the rule be made absolute for a writ of attachment against the sheriff for refusing to do his duty in the premises. It was contended that Horne, the defendant, who claimed the fox to be his, gave Birt a reward of $200.

The next chapter in the legal drama took place in the court room on Friday, when the coroner, Dr. Johnson, returned a writ of attachment which he had received against the sheriff, which return stated that he had the body of P. H. Horne, as therein he was commanded. The counsel for the prosecution, Mr. Johnson, K. C., moved a return for a writ of habeas corpus directing the coroner to produce the body of the sheriff before the court immediately. The writ was issued and the coroner returned that he has the body of the said sheriff. Mr. Johnson, K. C., moved that the sheriff, who was in court, should be sworn to answer certain interrogatives to be administered to him within four days. The question of bail was then noted, but the counsel for the defendant declined to answer any question as to whether the sheriff could be bailed or not.

The court then adjourned later, intimating that the question of bail was one between the coroner and sheriff. It is understood that Mr. Horne has declined to put in bail for his appearance and is now supposed to be in the custody of the coroner. The coroner must have him before the court. If he sends him to jail it may be possible that the sheriff could walk out as he has the power to discharge him, as in his own bail. The coroner has now the sheriff on his hands and it is understood the sheriff is willing to go wherever he is taken.

THE SITUATION IN P. E. ISLAND

Reports from Prince Edward Island indicate that the safety of the young foxes born this year is now assured. They have passed over the most trying period of their lives and have shown their ability to care for themselves to a great extent.

The little foxes born in April have grown well and now have developed to the size of an ordinary house cat. Those that arrived in May have grown well and appear to be healthy and vigorous.

Worms have again been the cause of much trouble to the ranchers, but the losses this year from this cause have been slight compared to other years, still there is room for improvement in this connection. The ranchers are devoting much of their time in searching for a cure for this disease.

The new ranches have had good success this year and in nearly every case large dividends will be paid. The ranches are being visited daily by people holding options and their desire is that the first day of September will come along as speedily as possible, for on that date the foxes are to be delivered and the final payments for the stock made.

During the last few weeks the demand for options has increased and the prices have also advanced slightly. The best stock is now selling at the highest price so far realized.

The Canada Fox Exchange has made contracts for the sale of forty pairs of cross foxes and five pairs of silver black foxes within the last few days. They are all Ontario stock and come from the same locality that the foxes that produced litters of black foxes last year.

The exchanges have found the demand for 1914 shares good, but the supply is limited. Next year's stock is being well taken up abroad and so far the companies are quite optimistic in regard to meeting their obligations on September 1. The exchange report great activity in all lines of shares, options and in live foxes, both cross and silver blacks.

London reports for the June fur sales give encouragement to all shareholders in fox companies. The excellent advance which was secured by the silver and cross fur has been well maintained in face of the decline in other furs. With the return or normal conditions in fur values it will be safe to assume that the silver black fox show at least another twenty-five per cent. increase.
