No one need have any hesitation in stempting to hatch chickens with an incubator. They are now in general unit of fact, large poultry plants could use in fact, large poultry plants could not be in the control one, in hatching by machine as we as naturally, and that is, the eggs to be right that are put in the machine as the country of fill the machine the first time with store or market eggs justifying such a course with the argument that the loss will be less if the hatch goes wrong. The use of eggs of that class wrong the such eigenstates of the con-wrong that the such constants of the experience of the control of the operator. The chances are the hatch will be poor under such circumstances and the machine sometime gets the blame. Then again, suppose the and the machine sometimes gets the blame. Then again, suppose the hatch is a good one of mongrel chicks.

In market quotations the term 'As-paragus' chicken is often used and not understood. It refers to chickens large ength to broil with early as-paragus. They are usually hatched in late Just Agust, pushed along ill November, then killed and put in cold storage for the winter. They are taken out and eaten in spring.
