

senger sent to tell people to get ready for the coming of this great one."

John's work was to prepare the people for the coming of Jesus. He had to clear away their old thoughts about God's laws, and tell them of God's new way of taking away their sins through Jesus, the great one from heaven.

The next day, when John was again baptizing in the river Jordan, he saw Jesus coming towards him. John pointed to him and said the words of our Golden Text: "Behold, the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world!"

When Jesus is called the lamb of God, it is meant that he is pure and gentle, and that it is because he died that our sins can be forgiven and we can have our hearts changed so that we shall be like him in all things.

The people said, "How do you know that this is Jesus?" John told them that one day Jesus came to him and asked to be baptized, for Jesus always did what he wished his followers to do. John had baptized him, and, when Jesus was coming up out of the water, John saw a pure white dove coming down from heaven and resting upon Jesus, and God told John that the one upon whom the dove rested was the one who would baptize people with the Holy Spirit. This was Jesus who came down from heaven.
