The President's Address.

The "Wordy" President of the Fishermen's Protective Union has made his annual address; has issued his periodical fulmination against all and sundry who oppose him, either politically or otherwise. The adjective which we have used to qualify his office was not bestowed upon him by his political opponents, but by the very men with whom he is at present associated, and we do not know of any title that becomes him more worthily. He is "wordy" from start to finish. He draws on the English language very extensively in order to back up his usual bluffing of the simple fishermen of the North, who yet hang upon his every word, because each sentence that falls from his lips has cost them the sum of the shares they possess in the commercial ramifications of the President's numerous ventures.

Newfoundland at large can well imagine, or can visualise the spectacle of sundry paid servants of a commercial undertaking, meeting in solemn conclave and adjudicating upon the whole problem of the island's trade, whether at home or abroad. The whole thing, when it narrows down to an examination of the personnel of the men thus engaged, becomes a burlesque, and an expensive one at that. The North, at the instance of Mr. Coaker, presumes to dictate to the South and West, no matter how much the South Western section will suffer. The whole proceeding is that of a man gone mad, because he has been accepted for the nonce by his comperees. He has filled them up with such verbiage as they easily swallow, and his figures have never yet been analysed by the men to whom he quotes them. Were they to compare the events of 1919-1920, as they were actually experienced, with the professions of the Prester John of the Fishermen's Protective Union to-day, we believe that the consensus of opinion of the fishermen would be that they have been betrayed by words.

The "Wordy" President has the happy knack of deluding his following in certain directions. He uses the English language without regard to truth or consistency, that he may make an impression upon his ultra susceptible followers: those men who hang upon him because of the huge salaries they are able to draw from the Treasury, without giving any apparent equivalent service in return. The people will readily comprehend the bribe of riches; yet it is not the Fishermen's Protective Union that is paying those executive salaries, but the whole population of the country, who have been taxed up to the hilt to render financial solatiums to those who, if they were put on probation could not actually earn one-quarter of the sum which they are bleeding from an oversweated people. Mr. Coaker is a big man, in an imaginary way. His address to the F.P.U. Convention contains many points which are open to criticism. As such we shall treat them, and when he introduces his resolutions of condemnation of certain individuals who have dared to express sentiments in opposition to his desires, we will also consider these from the viewpoint of the populace, and not through the glass of a subservient convention, called at the behest of Mr. Coaker, and ordered to boost him to the zenith of both commerce and politics. Coaker is hoodwinking the fishermen, and they had better be quick to notice it.

Unveiling Memorial.

SPECIAL SERVICE AT COCHRANE STREET CHURCH.

Prime Minister Makes Additional Statement

CORRESPONDENCE IN CONNECTION WITH G.W.V.A. DEMAND.

Sir Richard Squires told the Telegram this morning that he had read the interview in connection with the demands of a deputation of returned soldiers, published in this paper on Thursday, and had found it to be absolutely correct. The Telegram called upon the Prime Minister this morning to find what he had to say concerning the statement made yesterday by Mr. Purcell, a returned soldier and leader of the deputation. This statement declared that the facts given by the Prime Minister to the Telegram in an interview on the previous day were exaggerated in some cases, and also false in others. "The Telegram's" report of the interview with me," said Sir Richard, "was substantially correct, and was an accurate digest of what I had stated." He then proceeded to tell briefly what occurred when the deputation of returned men called upon Mr. Jennings on Tuesday and upon himself on the following day. The deputation waited upon Mr. Jennings, Minister of Public Works, on Tuesday morning, and had also some correspondence with him which will be found appended. As the statement made by Mr. Purcell in yesterday's Telegram suggested that the interview with the Prime Minister was misrepresented, Sir Richard gave our reporter a copy of the correspondence. This consists of:

(a) Formal communication from Mr. Jennings to the Prime Minister setting forth his position as a Minister of the Crown.
(b) Letter from the G.W.V.A. to Mr. Jennings and signed by Capt. Whitty, the Dominion Secretary.
(c) Reply to same.

THE SOLDIER'S DEMAND.

"I wrote down the demands of the deputation as made," said Sir Richard, "and as I regarded them as preposterous and unbelievable, I repeated them over to the members as they were written. Moreover, before the interview ended I went over the whole thing again to make absolutely sure that the demands made had been properly noted. The deputation said the demands were as made." Sir Richard to prove his statement, showed the Telegram the original notes made by him at the time. The demands were as follows:—

From the Public Works Department, the deputation demanded that 25 per cent of the present officials, not including ex-service men who held jobs there, should be dismissed. The men named were Mr. Joyce, Road Accountant, who they said, was old and should be pensioned; Mr. R. Netten, Assistant Road Accountant, Mr. Manning, third clerk, and two other clerks, whose names the deputation did not know. They also asked for the dismissal of Mr. Woods, the fireman. These, according to Sir Richard, were specific demands for immediate dismissal, either summarily or with pensions.

The dismissal of the fireman at Government House was asked for. They also wanted five men to be dismissed from the Controller's Department out of a staff of eight. Other demands were the dismissal of one of the six civilians employed at the General Hospital; two of the four civilians employed at the Fever Hospital, and so on. Asked by the Prime Minister who should decide what civil servants should be dismissed, the deputation said it would be the duty of the various Departmental Heads. The correspondence referred to above is here appended.

OFFICIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

Department of Public Works, St. John's, Nfld., Nov. 29th, 1921.

Dear Sir:—I beg to enclose copy of letter received from the Secretary of the Great War Veterans' Association, and wish to call your attention to the request contained therein. Of course as far as I am concerned, while I remain in this office, I shall never consent to such an outrage. I said to the deputation of about fifteen or twenty who waited on me with this request:—

"You want me then to put these men with their families on the street, and appoint you in their places, and they said YES that is what we want."

I also enclose copies of my reply to Capt. Whitty. Comment on the actions of these men I consider unnecessary, as the request carries its own condemnation with it.

Yours faithfully,

W. B. JENNINGS,
Minister Public Works
Sir Richard A. Squires, K.C.M.G.,
Prime Minister.

W. B. Jennings, Esq.,
Minister Public Works,
City.

Dear Sir:—The bearers are representatives of 200 unemployed sailors and soldiers who are walking the streets of St. John's in search of employment. 90% of the men whom they are representing are married and are underbrought up against it.

They are authorized by us to ascertain the number of men who are holding Government positions and who never served. It is only reasonable to expect that at least 25% of those employed in Government jobs should be discharged and their places occupied by eligible returned men.

We should be glad if you would give the information required to those gentlemen. We ask for your urgent consideration, as the employment situation is very serious. We registered 200 bona fide returned soldiers and sailors, who are unemployed and have been so for many months.

Yours truly,
(Sgd.) GERALD T. WHITTY,
Dominion Secretary.

Dear Sir:—Replying to yours of today's date, I beg to inform you that only two holding official positions in this Department, at the present time were eligible for service during the war, viz:—Reginald Manning, who applied and failed to pass examination, and Reginald Netten, whom I understand, was exempted through domestic obligations. The other officials were ineligible owing to age and other disqualifications.

Yours truly,

Department of Public Works, St. John's, Nfld., Nov. 29th, 1921.

Dear Sir:—I beg to give you the following information in connection with the appointment of returned men to institutions under control of this Department:—

Sanatorium.—Returned men appointed: Mr. Bartlett, Tom Brian, J. Carter, Pearce White (Naval). This man was discharged on account of misbehaviour.

Lunatic Asylum.—Returned men appointed: Dr. Parsons (Superintendent), Cooper and Walsh (Attendants), Dolaney (Fireman). Three other returned men appointed were discharged by the Doctor, because of inefficiency.

Poor Asylum.—Only one new appointment made during my term of office, this was offered a returned soldier, who refused the appointment. It was then given to an elderly man, for which the work there was more suited.

Public Works Department.—Lately appointed:—Capt. Hector McNeil. Government House.—A returned soldier was Fireman at Government House when I took office. We received complaints that his work was very unsatisfactory; we then appointed another returned soldier, whose services were still more than unsatisfactory. At the Governor's request a man was then appointed to take the position, who had been in service at the Government House for a number of years in connection with other duties. As this man gave perfect satisfaction, there has been no further appointments made there. Those are the only permanent appointments over which the Department of Public Works has had any control, whatever. During the operation of the work at Badger and Deer Lake, which was handled through this Department, the preference was given to returned men in every case for work which they were qualified to do. As far as this Department is concerned, we are quite satisfied that we have fulfilled our duty in this respect.

Yours truly,
W. B. JENNINGS,
Minister Public Works
Capt. Gerald T. Whitty,

A man who had stowed away on S. S. Sachem on her last trip to this port, appeared before Judge Morris this morning. When ordered to go back to the ship, he protested, stating that he was in danger of his life whilst aboard. Judge Morris told him if this were true, he could make a deposit. In the meantime, if the captain of the ship refused to take accused aboard, he was to be summoned.

The Right Time for Christmas Shopping.

There is a story to the effect that Napoleon lost the Battle of Waterloo because one of his Generals had a new uniform. This General was ordered to have reinforcements at a certain point at a definite time. When the time of starting came, it was raining and the General, not wishing to get his new uniform wet, delayed fifteen minutes in starting. When he arrived, the battle was over, and Napoleon lost his opportunity of becoming a world ruler, all because one man was late. Doing a thing at the right time is often more important than the actual doing of the thing itself.

Putting off a task often means that someone else reaps the advantages that might well have been yours. Take Christmas shopping for instance. It is something of a shock to realize that Christmas Day is only three weeks away. Most people have a lot of preparations to make in order that the holiday may be fittingly celebrated, and everyone takes advantage of this season of goodwill to show their appreciation, in a tangible way, of kindnesses received.

Many can recall instances of past years when several important things were not done, through leaving too short a time for their accomplishment.

The selection of suitable gifts requires a considerable amount of time and thought. There is absolutely no advantage to be gained by putting purchases off until the last frenzied hours. Indeed, everything points to the advantages of early shopping. Then you have leisure for wise selection and greater variety to choose from.

At the Royal Stores you may revel in a wealth of gift goods, giveable things, to suit all tastes. Don't let trivial matters hinder you from doing things at the right time, and undoubtedly NOW is the right time to do Christmas shopping.
