LIVE HOGS AT $6.75 PER CWT.

No Buying Tomorrow, But Monday's Price Is Set.

MARKET TODAY WAS A SMALL ONE

Owing to the Very Bad Weather-The Quotations of Offerings.

The market square had a very narrow escape from being deserted this morning, owing to the cold rain. One de load of hay was offered. The fodder, being coated with ice, and well saturated with rain, brought a figure somewhat lower than usual, after the farmer had waited for a few hours.

Oats are still high, and brought $1 30 per cwt.

Hides, wool and tallow prices are unchanged, while dressed pork has dropped a notch, and is now bringing $8 75, as a rule. It was expected that there would be a shipment of live hogs on Wednesday, but it has been cancelled, and the buyers will be on the market, as usual, Monday morning. The price has not as yct been fixed, but it will probably be $6 75 per cwt.

One grower said that there was no | F encouragement to grow apples in this Exporters, bulls district, as the buyers "have nerve enough to offer $1 a barrel for No. 1 fruit," whereas $2 can be procured in other sections. The 'expenses of looking after an orchard, picking, sorting, Bulls, packing, and delivering the fruit, o over $1 a barrel, he claimed.

The Tent Worm. tent worm is also attacking practically every orchard in this dis- Milch cows, choice, each. trict, and as the farmers are too busy with other duties to inspect the trees regularly, the crop fails in the majorty of cases. In the Welland district, Sheep, bucks is said that the farmers are urged look after their trees, as there is n excellent market for all classes of fruit. Better prices can be procured there, and there is as much profit in that line of farming as in any other.

Several loads of these were export cattle that had been bought in the country and forwarded for shipment east, so that there were but very few butcher cattle on sale. It is thought that Liverpool will come lower today, as they expected that there would be considerable less wheat in the farmers' hands. This will probably cause a further drop in prices here unless Patten supports the market. Prices of Manitoba wheat on last night's close were as follows: No. 1 Northern, $1 18½; No. 2 Northern, $1 15½, track, Goderich. No. 1 Northern, $1 101/2, and No. 2 Northern, $1 074, track Fort William. If the Government estimate is accurate many are wondering will Patten be able to maintain the price for May; that is, if he has not already unloaded much of it. There are many reports that he has, however. There will not be as great an export demand, as the quantity of wheat in the interior elevators is not represented by the visible supply, and many believe it to be less than a year ago.
