Campbellton, Aug. 10th, 1915.
Mr. Editor:—
Regarding machine guns for our Canadian Overseas Contingent. Why are the people called upon to supply these guns for our troops by popular subscription?
When the government decided to send troops to the front in this war, it was stated in Parliament, that they would be equipped in every particular for this service.

Members of our Dominion government have been to Great Britain ostensibly to obtain information as to ways and means for the most efficient manner in which Canada could contribute to the success of the allies. Our Minister of Militia has been in consultation with the imperial authorities in regard to the equipment of our troops. Sir Robt. Borden has just lately been on the field of battle in consultation with the military leaders of France and Great Britain.

Surely the government must now be in possession of sufficient information to enable them to determine exactly what equipment our troops should possess.
In view of these facts why are these machine guns not being furnished by the militia department along with their other equipment?
Does our military authorities not see the importance of these guns? If with all the information the department is supposed to possess as to the requirements of our troops, and they do not see the necessity of furnishing these guns, what warrant have private parties got that they should provide them?

That there is a real need for them there is no question and the military authorities must be aware of it.
No one can minimise the importance of this arm in the present conflict, as well as every other invention that will aid our men to meet the enemy on anything like even ground.
Why then, since the Dominion Parliament without practically a dissenting vote authorized the government to provide all requirements needed for our forces, do they not provide these guns?

If the government want more money for war purposes, why not call Parliament together and our representatives no doubt will sanction a loan for all that is needed for every purpose in connection with the war.
There are many objects now and more will develop as the war progresses, for the use of all the voluntary subscriptions that can be raised, such as the Patriotic, Red Cross, Hospital, Belgian and other Funds.

We know our soldiers need the machine guns as well as other equipment, all of which should be the very best that can be procured, but let there be some system of supplying these necessary requirements to our troops.
Public voluntary contributions as a rule are spasmodic at best, and liable to drop off at the time when most needed.
This business of furnishing our soldiers with guns and ammunition is far too serious a matter to be left to popular enthusiasm and should be taken in hand by the authorities, whose business it is, with a determined resolution to prosecute it to a successful issue.

They now have the authority from Parliament. Let the people insist that they do it. Yours respectfully
PATRIOTIC.

THE SLACKER'S HYMN
I love to lie and dream upon
Deeds of the mighty dead,
And picture forth the famous field
Where bold Boutrass bled.

The pen is mightier than the sword,
And safer, too, I think,
'Twas not his life's red stream that flowed,
But merely printer's ink.

Among all the men giving themselves in behalf of others and for "The Christ" we can truly say, there will be none more heroic, faithful and self-sacrificing, than Oscar D. Irwin.

We first met Mr. Irwin in Old Knox College, Toronto, where he was preparing himself for the Christian ministry. We beheld him still, as straight as an arrow. His fair face lighted up with a quaint smile, a touch of humor over-spreading all. Though he had just entered college halls at Toronto University and Knox, he was already making good. Rev. J. A. Crouston (his pastor) then of Collingwood, had spoken to me regarding this intrepid youth. By nature he was of a scientific and mechanical bent. Railroad engineering attracted him, but he had to begin on the bottom rung. Thither he had climbed and climbed step by step. When he came to his last exams he was not twenty-one years of age. He was at once given his engine and immediately broke all previous records for speed upon that special line of road.

His run was near his home. One day he took Mr. Crouston with him in his cab and it was then he whispered a longing that had been growing, to study for the Christian ministry. That same enthusiasm soon upon his engine, characterized Mr. Irwin as a student and in one year at Collingwood Collegiate Institute he matriculated for Toronto University. His first student summer days were spent in running a threshing engine upon the prairie—pretty lame work when compared with a railroad engine.
The next time I met the subject of this sketch, was when the Knox Col-

FROM A BELGIAN REFUGEE,
Holy Land of England,
Blessed be your soil,
Noble Land of England,
Safe from all turmoil!

England! Land of Freedom,
Land of Love and Hope,
Where schemes of coward enemies
Cannot find a scope.

Noble Land of Charity,
Whose goodness, love and care
Cheer the homeless refugee,
Bid him banish fear.

England! Land of Honour

The gentle but sure laxative for children is Rexall Orderlies

The intestinal organs of children are so delicate that only the most gentle, mild and natural bowel regulator should ever be used.
On account of their healthy, mild and natural action, and freedom from harsh or injurious drugs, Rexall Orderlies are a safe, gentle and most desirable bowel regulator for children, and they are as easy to give as candy.

They do not weaken nor depress the system even by continued use. On the contrary, they tone up the bowels and tend to keep them in a healthy condition.
Incidentally, they are as good for grown-up people as they are for children.
Rexall Stores everywhere recommend Rexall Orderlies, and refund your money if for any reason they fail to satisfy.

Made in Canada and sold in metal boxes at 10c, 25c and 50c each, at Rexall Stores only. Get a Box Today from
