

10 THE BATTLE OF THE STRONG

his way homeward. "Goodbye, sir—Philip"—the child's arrangement of words was odd and amusing, and at the same time suggested something more. "Goodbye, Sir Philip," had a different meaning, though the words were the same.

"Sir Philip—eh?" he said to himself, with a jerk of the head—"I'll be more than that some day!"