WOODSTOCK COLLEGE.

Nor long since we had the pleasure of listening to a description of the World's Fair grounds, by Mr. R. W. Sawtelle. Mr. Sawtelle visited the scene of the Fair before it was opened, and being a very close observer he was able to give a glowing account, not only of the Fair grounds, but also of the City of Chicago.

MAY 24th, with its attendant sports, has come, and now is numbered with the days that are past. Of course it was a holiday, and of course everyone had a most enjoyable time. We fear some of the students wish it came more frequently. The day was begun at the College by "Three cheers for the Queen," led by Principal Bates, who took breakfast with us. The trades procession, in which the leading manufacturing establishments were represented, was an interesting spectacle and one of the best of the kind ever witnessed in Woodstock.

THE Orchestra and some of the other students held a concert in the church at Bond's Corners, for the benefit of the student who is to go on that field for the summer. We were pleased to learn that they were quite successful in their efforts.

On Thursday, May 18th, at our regular Judson Missionary Society meeting, Rev, Mr. McGregor, of the Congregational Church (town) addressed us on "The Church of Jesus Christ as the grand missionary agent for spreading the Gospel." He spoke of the liberty that everyone now possesses of studying theology for himself, that equality is the watchword of to-day, and all may be informed on the Bible irrespective of a minister. He said all that is best and dearest on this earth we owe to Christians, and that more good work has been done in the past eighty years than ever had been done before.

We had the pleasure, a few weeks since, of listening to some remarks from Mr. Kennedy, of Norwich, and Mr. Richmond, both old students. Their words were very interesting.

On the 8th of May, Mr. Hector, the "Black Knight," addressed the students in the "dining-room," chiefly on the subject of temperance. He handled his subject well, and made some very interesting and highly amusing remarks.

WE are sorry that neither of the societies for which Woodstock has long been famed, could be kept running. Those who were chiefly instrumental in having them started this term seem to have been the first to desert, presumably through press of work. Be the cause what it may, the next meeting of the societies will be in the College year '93-94.

A VERY interesting game of football was played on the College grounds, June 5th, after supper, between the College team and the Y.M.C.A. team from the town. At first the College ran the ball well up to their opponents' goal, but soon they retaliated and put up a good game for the remainder of the first half, scoring twice. In the second half the College seemed to realize that they had "foemen worthy of
