

ARTILLERY SHELLING THE ENEMY AT THE BATTLE OF FISH CREEK.

(From a Sketch by Mr. E. W. Morrison.)

"In the meantime the guns were being moved from point to point so as to obtain the most advantageous positions for shelling the rebels in the ravine. They drove the enemy out of one of the two log houses they occupied, and bowled over and set on fire three adjacent stacks of straw."—Special to the Mail.