keep his
arther, nor
same time
orbearance
nem to go
uch a kind
iles of the alry being dispersed
ne nearest
the camp
.

having set
men were
lfth legion
liers being
e to them-
rth cohort
ving been
ll the cen-
ounded or
s, a most nd severe
that the rear being the battle
not cease
and were
were in a ent which soldier in
a shield),
the cen-
st of the n out the use their

185. Before commencing his sermon the preacher explained the working of the itinerancy of the Methodist Church, stating that he fully endorsed and believed in the system, giving these reasons : —After a preacher having been in a station for three years, some may wish for a change, as the preacher did not fully meet their desires, while others were fed abundantly in spiritual things, and that other stations had a just right to share in the good things, showing that it was right and proper and best that these changes should be made, although it was a laborious task on the preachers to have to pack up every three years and move, just when they had become attached to the members of the church, and the members attached to the preacher.—Report.

186. I will just give you a piece of advice, if you dont want people to know who you are just keep your head cool, for every time you stir the mud you dirty the water, and people knows too much about you now for you to make such an appearance, but of course we know that cheek has a great deal to do with carrying people through this world of ours, and before I stop I will tell you that Mr. V. paid for that bed and has witness for the same, so please come down with your cash and pay two dollars and fifty cents and drop this matter just for your own good, as we know that pride has got to fall, and we pity you on account of your family as you should be showing them a better example, as they might have you on their hands yet and have to apply to the council for keep or to the poor house as we dont know our future.—Extract from a Letter.

187. Last Wednesday evening as we were quietly sauntering down the west side of Queen street, and when just in front of the Central hotel, we were accosted in a very ungentlemanly manner by the notorious George R., who being fully primed with wrath, and conceived the idea that he could lick the publisher of this journal, was bent upon our destruction.   He accosted us roughly, and at the same time swinging the lower ends of his arms in close proximity to