

N

Narrative, tragical, 34—42
 Nasmith, David, his birth and parentage, 3 his aversion to the study of languages, 3 is bound an apprentice, 3
 an awful temptation, 4, 5
 a dreadful dream, 5
 attends a Sunday-school, 6 becomes secretary to a Bible Association, 6 his conversion, 7
 his profession of the faith, 7 desires to become a missionary, 10 desires to enter the ministry, 13 applies for admission to the Theological Institution, 13 is rejected, 13
 his qualifications for a missionary, 14 changes his situation, 15 becomes a Sunday-school teacher, 15
 a mysterious bodily affection, 18 becomes secretary to the Bridewell Association, 21 forms an imprudent attachment, 44
 his emotions under a sermon, 48
 an inward struggle, 44—51 forms a second attachment, 57—69 becomes secretary to the Institution Rooms, 73 his efficiency as a Sunday-school teacher, 92 his anxiety about his brother John, 103 mode of dealing with applicants for church-membership, 119
 his marriage, 138
 his health fails, 140
 resigns his office in the Institution Rooms, 141 removes to Dublin, 145
 introduction to Miss Oswald, 142 introduction to Mr. Parnell (now Lord Congleton), 145 leaves Dublin for Glasgow, 156 is led to London by an accident at sea, 156 visits East Farleigh, 154

Nasmith, David's, pecuniary sacrifices, 167 returns to Dublin, 168
 his journey to the South of Ireland, 195 his journey to the North of Ireland, 201 his journey to the West of Ireland, 203 his return to Scotland, 205 his voyage to New York, 207 forms a City Mission there, 217 forms a City Mission at Philadelphia, 253 proceeds to Canada, 259 reaches Montreal, 259
 resolves to settle in London, 261
 his design frustrated, 275 returns to Scotland, 275
 his journey to Paris, 278 visits Havre, 284
 returns to Glasgow, 284
 Mrs. Nasmith's illness, 285 opens the Charitable and Philanthropic Agency House, 287 his expectation disappointed, 290 engages to travel for the Continental Society, 290
 returns to Glasgow, 298
 proceeds to London, 299 his formation of the City Mission, 310
 the bishop's opposition, 325
 his interview with the bishop, 325 his movements create alarm, 330 his perplexities in regard to the Female and other Missions, 329—343 his conduct defended, 343—350 his magnanimity exemplified, 354 resigns the secretaryship of the London City Mission, 355 his resignation regretted by the Committee, 355 travels for the British and Foreign Town Mission, 358 goes to Scotland, 368
 his own defence of his course, 371
 his journey to Wales, 389 proceeds to Dublin, 394
 his tours in England, 400—405 pecuniary difficulties, 406
 first symptom of disease, 410