Sydney Fisher, then minister of agriculture, and certain Liberal members of the house at that time had unloaded upon the govern-ment the land now occupied by the Farnham camp in the eastern townships. Col, Hughes went on to say that these gentlemen had loaned loaned money upon land supposed to be suitable for growing tobacco, that th land, which was a mere morass, turned out to have no value, and that they had procured a rake-off to the extent at least of saving their investment by inducing the militia department to buy the land for the purpose of a avalry camp.

Speaker Sproule interrupted Mr. Devlin to rule that no question of privilege was involved.

False and Columnious.

Mr. Devlin submitted that he was quite in order. He proceeded to read from the published denial of Hon. Sydney Fisher, and said that the minister of militia and defense had given false information to the house.

CHANGES IN LAWS Mr. Speaker Sproule again called Ir. Devlin to order. He pointed out that Mr. Fisher was not a member of the house, and that the remarks of the minister of militia were not directed against any member of parliament. Moreover, if the statements made by the minister of militia were untrue that fact could only be shown by the evidence of people outside the house which would be clearly inadmissible.

Laurier's Protest. Mr. Devlin said it was customary for a judge to hear a case before deciding it, but Mr. Speaker was evidenting it, but Mr. Speaker was evi-dently ruling in advance. Mr. Speaker: "I know what you are getting at, because I heard the debate last Monday and I hold that it is not pro-per for you to go on." Sir Wilfrid Laurier rose to protest.
