The project has been in abeyance for some months, owing to the absence of Mrs. (Rev.) A. J. Broughall, who has been abroad for some fime. Ladies interested in the movement are asked to attend a meeting to be held in St. James' Cathedral school house to-morrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. While the undertaking is being promoted by the Church of England ladies of any other denomination who are willing to assist will be gladly welcomed.

A petition of the Suffrage Association is being very widely circulated just now among the more liberal-minded of our citizens. It is intended for presentation at the parliament buildings at no very distant date. Its wording runs as follows:

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario in parliament assembled.

The petition of the undersigned of the "Canadian Suffrage Association" humbly showeth:

That whereas all just government derives its power from the consent of the laws of the land, being punished for crime, paying taxes on property and taking her part in the commercial and economic structure,

Therefore, resolved that woman should have the full franchise extending the resolution of the undersigned of the governed.

Therefore, resolved that woman should have the full franchise extending the resolution of the undersigned of the governed.

Therefore your petitioners humbly pray that your honorable house may be pleased to pass an act fully entranchising all women, whether marriced, widowed or spinster (on the same terms as man) and as in duty bound your petitioners will ever pray.

The following clever little letter by Ian Darling won last week's pin. It shows considerable observation and the power to tell a story connectedly. Ian's idea about the "bad friend" and the "good friend" is rather amusing, but undoubtedly not the most critical grown-up will venture to assert that such a thing doesn't exist as a "bad friend," even in the sense in which our little correspondent uses it. The letter is as follows:

CATS.

Cats are very intelligent animals, and can be taught to do many tricks. My aunt once had a cat, and whenever she gave it a piece of meat she threw it into a boot or box for fun, and the cat would pounce on it as if it was pouncing on a mouse. So one day when she was going to put on her boots, she found a dead mouse in one of them. At another time my grandfather had a cat, and every night it went into the cow stable and got on a big bull's back, and there it slept till morning. The cat and the bull became great friends. Now, cats know a bad friend from a good friend. Anyone that treats a cat cruelly is cruel, and the cat knows it, and will keep out of the cruel person's way. Cats are also very playful when a month or six weeks old. Yours sincerely,

The subject for next week's competition is "What I Know About Rabbits." Letters must not be more than 200 words in length, and must be written plainly, and signed with the name and address of the writer. The competition closes Oct. 12. The prize is an enamel pin, with the letters. "T. W. H. I."

I wish to become a member of The Toronto World Humane League.

I believe in doing good as we have opportunity, and this is an opportunity that may result in great good. I have been asked to conduct Sunday evening services in one of the theatres this winter. I said to a friend not four weeks ago that I would like to hold Sunday evening service in all of these puopular 5-cent theatres. This opportunity may open the door to religious services being held in every theatre in Toronto on Sunday night."

Miss Cecil Spooner, New York's favorite comedienne, will make her initial appearance at the Grand next week in "The Girl Raffles" and "The Dancer and the King," in which she made such a pronounced hit in New York last spring. The character of Lola, the dancer, was inspired by incidents in the career of Lola Montez. The authors have idealized the character and Lola is a mirth-provoking child of impulse. Miss Spooner is said to have a role well suited to her varied accomplishments and versatility. New and original musical numbers and dancing specialties will be introduced by Miss Spooner and chorus.

It is no news now that the new economic movement in Ireland is the result of Sir Horace Plunkett's devotion to the cause of industrial co-operation. He has himself said that he feels as tho he were making resti-tution in his efforts, and those who know Ireland are not surprised to find that his work is received in some quarters with extraordinary rancour, and has even been described as "helland has even been described as "hellish." The movement has gone too far now to be affected by mere opinion of a fanatical sort, and a perusal of Sir Horace's book, 'published at a shilling, "Ireland in the New Century," will be sufficient to convince the intelligent reader that the new lines of action are reader that the new lines of action are superior to all the old lines of talk. "There has been no period within the memory of man," says Secretary Anderson, "when the industrial spirit of the people has been so thoroly awakened."

The work of co-operation in Ireland has begun at the roots of society, among the people themselves.
