

SALVATIONISTS SHOW TRIUMPH OF CROSS

Two Thousand Army Members Join in Imposing Parade From Queen's Park to Massey Hall, Where Impressive Services Were Held—Work of Great Organization in Many Lands Is Demonstrated—Children Take Prominent Part.

Very beautifully arranged, the two tableaux of the cross, the first, portraying renunciation, the second, the triumph over adversity, presented yesterday morning at the great mass meeting of the Salvation Army at Massey Hall, formed the keynote of the inspiring celebrations held by the Army in Toronto yesterday. At least two thousand members of the Army lined the parade from Queen's Park to Massey Hall along Yonge street, and Massey Hall was filled to capacity during the impressive services conducted by Commissioner Richards and other chieftains of the Army in Ontario. All the sections of the two divisions in Toronto were well represented, and every band of the Army was present in full strength. Many impressive and well-chosen hymns were interspersed with tableaux of the work of the Salvation Army in various lands from the far east to the nearest west. Children with their parents, girl and boy guides, and the songsters and choruses with the bands featured the occasion, and it would be difficult to say which proved most impressive, the service at Queen's Park with its atmosphere of the paralytic Army, or the services at Massey Hall. All were emblematic of the occasion.

The Service.
The prayer at Massey Hall was given by Brigadier McEwan, and responsive readings were carried out by Colonel Gaskin, Mrs. Lieut.-Col. Adby, Lieut.-Col. Noble, Lieut.-Col. Miller and Lieut.-Col. Rawling while the address was delivered by the commissioner himself. He emphasized the great self-sacrifice which the Master Jesus, exemplified in his life, work and death, which all workers in the Salvation Army and in all great helpful and religious movements exemplified to a greater or lesser degree. This was the keynote of the cross, he said, and it was a life and work in which one traveled through the valley of the shadow of death, that of poverty, complete self-abnegation, Brigadier Adby sang the solo, "Out of Love," and Ensign Bose and Captain Robertson rendered an instrumental accompaniment to the tableaux, The Cross.

Spectacular Parade.
The services, both at Queen's Park and at Massey Hall, and the parade itself were spectacular. The line of the parade was along College street to Yonge street and down Yonge street to Massey Hall. Along this line of route there must have been 50 two and three-ton auto trucks, all of them filled with little children and happy mothers. In some of these trucks there were apparently only children and these were of all ages, all nationalities. Seats were provided for all of the little ones, and they were a happy lot of boys and girls. Most of the auto trucks were emblazoned with mottoes and messages. Among these were many which went straight to the heart of things. As for instance, "Here's a place for you, laddie, and a place for you, lassie," or "Suffer little children to come unto Me," and still another, "None is so vile but he may enter here." It was rather a commentary upon this act, that its occupants were among the most beautiful and the cleanest looking of all the children noted along the line of march. The parade was easily three-quarters of a mile long, and the order was as follows: First came the marshals, then the mounted police, and following them the training college band and staff. Following these again came Commissioner and Mrs. Richards, and Colonel and Mrs. McMillan. Then came all the colonels, brigadiers, majors and their wives, after which the bands, life-saving guards, scouts and sisters of the various sections of the two Toronto divisions followed. Finally the social, industrial, rescue home, League of Mercy and other staffs passed by the intersection at Yonge street and Shuter street, down to the hall. The parade with its galaxy of red, white and blue pennants and its girls in navy blue costumes with the red-banded hats proved an inspiring and memorable spectacle.

Wonderful Tableaux.
The two tableaux of The Cross formed, as has been noted, the centerpiece of the celebrations at Massey Hall. The first of these represented the crucifixion of the Master, Jesus, the great white cross being surrounded by green ferns. Between this and the second tableau of the Cross several tableaux were represented, showing the work of the Army in Africa, in India, in Japan and in Java. When that upon India was displayed, Mrs. Thorne gave an interesting description of the work, and stated that at the rate of conversion had progressed among the natives to date it would take 500,000 Salvationists ten years to convert India. Finally, the second presentation of the tableau of the cross was rendered. This was a grand tableau representing the triumphal psalm of praise accorded to the symbol of self-sacrifice (the great white cross in the center) by a great gathering of natives of all countries, among them being lepers and others who have been wonderfully helped by the work of the Army.

ANSWERS HOUSING COMPANY ARGUMENT

Writer States Excellent Profits Have Been Made From Apartment Rents.

The following letter is a reply to the directors of the Toronto Housing Company, who, on Thursday, made a statement to the effect that if the proposed fair rent legislation went into effect, it would be necessary for the company to hand over to the city the management of the group of apartment houses on Bain avenue and Spruce street:

Editor World: Many more than half the families in Toronto are renters and if they wish to get relief from the present outrageous profiteering they should get together and support the Drury governments fair rent legislation.

The Toronto Housing Company states it would have to pay back $25,000 and hand its property over to the city to be run at a loss if the fair rent bill becomes law. Consider this statement in the light of the company's official statement for the year ending September 30, 1920:

The net profit, after paying the carrying charges on nearly a thousand feet of vacant land and providing for depreciation on its heating plant, was $8,242.70. The capital, aside from the bond issue, provided to earn this profit, was $56,985, on which therefore the net earnings were nearly 11 per cent. In the face of this the company advanced its rental $2.00 on operating costs were not increasing, the profit this year will be 50 per cent. of the capital, in addition to the bond issue.

The company's assets are given in this last annual statement as $627,327.96. The money put into the undertaking was: Bonds, $500,000; private capital, $101,700. Total, $601,700. The difference, $26,627.96, has been put in by the tenants.

But the assets include mortgages and sale agreements of $65,342.74, which are not covered by the mortgage securing the bonds and do not represent capital invested in housing. This means that of the $101,700 of private capital put up by the company it has got back $65,342.74, and has now actually invested in housing only $36,357.26. So that the return last year on the private capital invested in conjunction with the bond money was 16 per cent. And the rents being collected this year will give a return of 70 per cent.

Thieves Also Make Haul at Spadina Avenue Clothing Store.

Burglars were active over Thursday night, when two houses and a shop were entered. The hauls were not large, however, except at 431 Spadina avenue, where a number of ready-made suits and several bales of lining were stolen.

Entry to this place, which is known as the Young Men's Tailor Shop, was made by forcing a rear door. It was made sometime between ten o'clock p. Thursday night and 7.30 yesterday morning.

Forcing a rear kitchen window, thieves broke into the home of Robert Emrie, 54 Windermere avenue, and stole a gold chain, a pendant set with pearls, and a pair of gold cuff links. Three and a half gallons of Seagram's whiskey, a quantity of pop, sardines and groceries comprised the loot of burglars who broke into the house of M. H. Heppets, 122 Huron street. Entry to this place was gained by forcing a cellar window.

T. W. Lemon, 854 West Queen street, reported to the police of Claremont street station last night that his pocket had been picked of $37 while traveling on a Queen street car between Gladstone avenue and Niagara street.
