A BRAVE ACT

Christie McKenzie Cleverly Handles Runaway Team in Union Street.

A regular movie scene was enacted in Union street yesterday afternoon. A span of horses attached to a large wagon took fright in Smythe street and dashed up the hill and across the street to Union. Some women, who were crossing from Dock to Mill street, had a narrow escape, and had it not been for the prompt action of Christie McKenzie, two would have been knocked down and probably seriously injured. Calling out a warning to the women he leaped to the horse's head and momentarily stopping them, but before he could secure a firm hold on the bridle he was knocked to one side. Seizing hold of the side of the wagon he climbed on and then worked his way out the pole and succeeded in bringing the frightened animals to a stop at the head of the hill before any damage had been done. He had one of his hands slightly injured and one of his elbows cut. He was highly complimented for his daring deed by people who witnessed the scene.
