

NATIONAL HOME FOR TEACHERS IN U. S. PROPOSED

Agitation Is Begun to Ensure Care in Old Days

CASES IN POINT ARE CITED IN ARTICLE

Questionnaire From Teachers Reveals Many Looking Favorably on Proposal.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—(United Press).—In poorhouses, poverty-stricken homes and charity institutions, hundreds—perhaps thousands—of aged, worn out school teachers are dying every year. Most of them couldn't save enough from their meager salaries to support them in the last years of life.

How to handle the problem of the aged and infirm teachers is laid before the profession in an article in the May Education Association, which will appear in a few days.

Proposes Homes.

A home especially for retired teachers is proposed by Olive M. Jones, New York City school principal and vice-president of the association.

The school pension and retirement-fund laws, which provide competence for retired veteran teachers in a few states, help some, Miss Jones points out, but they do not provide the companionship, which a special home for the profession would provide.

Describing some of her experiences and observations in outlining her ideas, she says: "At a meeting where teachers were receiving their assignments for the next school year, I saw two women of over 60 years left without contracts.

Both had given more than 40 years of satisfactory service. Both told me they were without home or funds, except the charity of unconvicted relatives. That state has no pension law. One of them had provided for an invalid father, and had brought up and educated his two children by a second marriage.

"The president of the board of education in a southern city told me that a large number of aged teachers had been discovered in poorhouses and insane asylums of her state.

"The problem of a home in old age is particularly the problem of the unmarried woman teacher. The unmarried woman teacher can have no future hope of the grateful care of sons and daughters. In addition, her opportunities for making extra money have been few and she usually has the support and care of her own parents and aged relatives, being the last one left in the family home.

National Institution.

Miss Jones is heading an advisory council to investigate the chances of developing a national home for teachers, along similar lines to those already established in this country by actors, shipbuilders, sailors, and by various lodges and fraternities.

A survey of a limited number of teachers in the Chicago district by a teaching organization revealed that 2,545 teachers out of 5,154 who answered a questionnaire declared they might in the future need the facilities which a colony or residence for retired teachers could offer. Nearly 2,500 answered that if such a project were successfully undertaken they would like to become residents, granting that the conditions were conducive to comfort and happiness.

The same teachers in answer to the question: "How many retired teachers do you know who need companionship and care at present?" listed a total of 1,268.

W. C. T. U. OBJECTS TO MOVING FOUNTAIN

Saint John Union Takes Vote on Matter now in Controversy.

A new turn was given the question of location for the Soldiers' Memorial yesterday afternoon when the Saint John W. C. T. U. passed a resolution objecting to the removal of the fountain from its present site.

The vote was taken at the regular meeting of the Saint John W. C. T. U. when Mrs. Hope Thomson, president, was in the chair. As president, Mrs. Thomson did not vote but she expressed her desire to carry out the wishes of the organization. She had previously stated there would be no objection to removing the monument.

It was contended by those present that there could be no more authority for moving the monument to the Loyalist women than for moving the monument to Sir Leonard Tilley. The members felt that had there been no other adjacent site where the monument could be conveniently and suitably be erected, there might have been more cause for consideration being given the removal of the fountain.

In the short opening devotional period prayer was offered by Mrs. Mary Seymour, Mrs. W. H. Humphrey and Mrs. Hope Thomson. All three remembered in their prayers the former president, Mrs. David Hipwell, who is quite ill at her home in British Columbia, and also remembered Mrs. R. D. Christie, who is a patient in the private hospital in Saint John. Mrs. Christie's condition is giving serious concern to her many friends.

LECTURES ON CATHEDRAL.

The A. Y. P. A. of St. Luke's church last night heard an illustrated lecture by Ven. Archdeacon H. H. Crowfoot on the Liverpool Cathedral. Members of the congregation were special guests. A vote of thanks was moved by Miss Elsie Dunlop, seconded by Miss Roberta Craft and tendered the speaker by R. Edgar Adams, president of the society. It was decided to invite the congregation to a congregational social next Tuesday.

Other Site Available.

In the discussion it was stated that there could be no more authority for moving the monument to the Loyalist women than for moving the monument to Sir Leonard Tilley. The members felt that had there been no other adjacent site where the monument could be conveniently and suitably be erected, there might have been more cause for consideration being given the removal of the fountain.

In the short opening devotional period prayer was offered by Mrs. Mary Seymour, Mrs. W. H. Humphrey and Mrs. Hope Thomson. All three remembered in their prayers the former president, Mrs. David Hipwell, who is quite ill at her home in British Columbia, and also remembered Mrs. R. D. Christie, who is a patient in the private hospital in Saint John. Mrs. Christie's condition is giving serious concern to her many friends.

LECTURES ON CATHEDRAL.

The A. Y. P. A. of St. Luke's church last night heard an illustrated lecture by Ven. Archdeacon H. H. Crowfoot on the Liverpool Cathedral. Members of the congregation were special guests. A vote of thanks was moved by Miss Elsie Dunlop, seconded by Miss Roberta Craft and tendered the speaker by R. Edgar Adams, president of the society. It was decided to invite the congregation to a congregational social next Tuesday.

Other Site Available.

In the discussion it was stated that there could be no more authority for moving the monument to the Loyalist women than for moving the monument to Sir Leonard Tilley. The members felt that had there been no other adjacent site where the monument could be conveniently and suitably be erected, there might have been more cause for consideration being given the removal of the fountain.

In the short opening devotional period prayer was offered by Mrs. Mary Seymour, Mrs. W. H. Humphrey and Mrs. Hope Thomson. All three remembered in their prayers the former president, Mrs. David Hipwell, who is quite ill at her home in British Columbia, and also remembered Mrs. R. D. Christie, who is a patient in the private hospital in Saint John. Mrs. Christie's condition is giving serious concern to her many friends.

LECTURES ON CATHEDRAL.

The A. Y. P. A. of St. Luke's church last night heard an illustrated lecture by Ven. Archdeacon H. H. Crowfoot on the Liverpool Cathedral. Members of the congregation were special guests. A vote of thanks was moved by Miss Elsie Dunlop, seconded by Miss Roberta Craft and tendered the speaker by R. Edgar Adams, president of the society. It was decided to invite the congregation to a congregational social next Tuesday.

Other Site Available.

In the discussion it was stated that there could be no more authority for moving the monument to the Loyalist women than for moving the monument to Sir Leonard Tilley. The members felt that had there been no other adjacent site where the monument could be conveniently and suitably be erected, there might have been more cause for consideration being given the removal of the fountain.

In the short opening devotional period prayer was offered by Mrs. Mary Seymour, Mrs. W. H. Humphrey and Mrs. Hope Thomson. All three remembered in their prayers the former president, Mrs. David Hipwell, who is quite ill at her home in British Columbia, and also remembered Mrs. R. D. Christie, who is a patient in the private hospital in Saint John. Mrs. Christie's condition is giving serious concern to her many friends.

LECTURES ON CATHEDRAL.

The A. Y. P. A. of St. Luke's church last night heard an illustrated lecture by Ven. Archdeacon H. H. Crowfoot on the Liverpool Cathedral. Members of the congregation were special guests. A vote of thanks was moved by Miss Elsie Dunlop, seconded by Miss Roberta Craft and tendered the speaker by R. Edgar Adams, president of the society. It was decided to invite the congregation to a congregational social next Tuesday.

Other Site Available.

In the discussion it was stated that there could be no more authority for moving the monument to the Loyalist women than for moving the monument to Sir Leonard Tilley. The members felt that had there been no other adjacent site where the monument could be conveniently and suitably be erected, there might have been more cause for consideration being given the removal of the fountain.

In the short opening devotional period prayer was offered by Mrs. Mary Seymour, Mrs. W. H. Humphrey and Mrs. Hope Thomson. All three remembered in their prayers the former president, Mrs. David Hipwell, who is quite ill at her home in British Columbia, and also remembered Mrs. R. D. Christie, who is a patient in the private hospital in Saint John. Mrs. Christie's condition is giving serious concern to her many friends.

LECTURES ON CATHEDRAL.

The A. Y. P. A. of St. Luke's church last night heard an illustrated lecture by Ven. Archdeacon H. H. Crowfoot on the Liverpool Cathedral. Members of the congregation were special guests. A vote of thanks was moved by Miss Elsie Dunlop, seconded by Miss Roberta Craft and tendered the speaker by R. Edgar Adams, president of the society. It was decided to invite the congregation to a congregational social next Tuesday.

Other Site Available.

In the discussion it was stated that there could be no more authority for moving the monument to the Loyalist women than for moving the monument to Sir Leonard Tilley. The members felt that had there been no other adjacent site where the monument could be conveniently and suitably be erected, there might have been more cause for consideration being given the removal of the fountain.

In the short opening devotional period prayer was offered by Mrs. Mary Seymour, Mrs. W. H. Humphrey and Mrs. Hope Thomson. All three remembered in their prayers the former president, Mrs. David Hipwell, who is quite ill at her home in British Columbia, and also remembered Mrs. R. D. Christie, who is a patient in the private hospital in Saint John. Mrs. Christie's condition is giving serious concern to her many friends.

LECTURES ON CATHEDRAL.

500 GALLONS OF RUM THROWN INTO THE OCEAN

Runners Get Rid of Alcohol as Coast Guard Open Fire

CARGO PICKED UP BY CUSTOMS MEN

Thrilling Chase Off Maine Coast Precedes Escape of Liquor Men.

ROCKLAND, April 15.—After firing several shots at a rum runner, which was chased 12 miles off the coast of Rockland, the Coast Guard made it so hot for the smugglers that they threw the cargo of 500 gallons of Belgian alcohol overboard.

The craft was seen passing in front of the Burnt Island Station, and word telegraphed to the White Head station. In the meantime a crew from the Burnt Island station gave chase to the sloop. As the pursued and the pursuer passed the White House Station, Captain L. R. Dunn of that station joined in the case and fired several shots at the sloop. The race continued for about a mile and one-half beyond the White Head Station before the rum runners threw overboard their cargo.

This is one of the most thrilling instances of rum running in Penobscot Bay for some time and while the operator was not caught, the incident showed that it is getting more difficult to land the stuff in this harbor.

The craft was seen passing in front of the Burnt Island Station, and word telegraphed to the White Head station. In the meantime a crew from the Burnt Island station gave chase to the sloop. As the pursued and the pursuer passed the White House Station, Captain L. R. Dunn of that station joined in the case and fired several shots at the sloop. The race continued for about a mile and one-half beyond the White Head Station before the rum runners threw overboard their cargo.

This is one of the most thrilling instances of rum running in Penobscot Bay for some time and while the operator was not caught, the incident showed that it is getting more difficult to land the stuff in this harbor.

The craft was seen passing in front of the Burnt Island Station, and word telegraphed to the White Head station. In the meantime a crew from the Burnt Island station gave chase to the sloop. As the pursued and the pursuer passed the White House Station, Captain L. R. Dunn of that station joined in the case and fired several shots at the sloop. The race continued for about a mile and one-half beyond the White Head Station before the rum runners threw overboard their cargo.

This is one of the most thrilling instances of rum running in Penobscot Bay for some time and while the operator was not caught, the incident showed that it is getting more difficult to land the stuff in this harbor.

The craft was seen passing in front of the Burnt Island Station, and word telegraphed to the White Head station. In the meantime a crew from the Burnt Island station gave chase to the sloop. As the pursued and the pursuer passed the White House Station, Captain L. R. Dunn of that station joined in the case and fired several shots at the sloop. The race continued for about a mile and one-half beyond the White Head Station before the rum runners threw overboard their cargo.

This is one of the most thrilling instances of rum running in Penobscot Bay for some time and while the operator was not caught, the incident showed that it is getting more difficult to land the stuff in this harbor.

The craft was seen passing in front of the Burnt Island Station, and word telegraphed to the White Head station. In the meantime a crew from the Burnt Island station gave chase to the sloop. As the pursued and the pursuer passed the White House Station, Captain L. R. Dunn of that station joined in the case and fired several shots at the sloop. The race continued for about a mile and one-half beyond the White Head Station before the rum runners threw overboard their cargo.

This is one of the most thrilling instances of rum running in Penobscot Bay for some time and while the operator was not caught, the incident showed that it is getting more difficult to land the stuff in this harbor.

The craft was seen passing in front of the Burnt Island Station, and word telegraphed to the White Head station. In the meantime a crew from the Burnt Island station gave chase to the sloop. As the pursued and the pursuer passed the White House Station, Captain L. R. Dunn of that station joined in the case and fired several shots at the sloop. The race continued for about a mile and one-half beyond the White Head Station before the rum runners threw overboard their cargo.

This is one of the most thrilling instances of rum running in Penobscot Bay for some time and while the operator was not caught, the incident showed that it is getting more difficult to land the stuff in this harbor.

The craft was seen passing in front of the Burnt Island Station, and word telegraphed to the White Head station. In the meantime a crew from the Burnt Island station gave chase to the sloop. As the pursued and the pursuer passed the White House Station, Captain L. R. Dunn of that station joined in the case and fired several shots at the sloop. The race continued for about a mile and one-half beyond the White Head Station before the rum runners threw overboard their cargo.

This is one of the most thrilling instances of rum running in Penobscot Bay for some time and while the operator was not caught, the incident showed that it is getting more difficult to land the stuff in this harbor.

The craft was seen passing in front of the Burnt Island Station, and word telegraphed to the White Head station. In the meantime a crew from the Burnt Island station gave chase to the sloop. As the pursued and the pursuer passed the White House Station, Captain L. R. Dunn of that station joined in the case and fired several shots at the sloop. The race continued for about a mile and one-half beyond the White Head Station before the rum runners threw overboard their cargo.

This is one of the most thrilling instances of rum running in Penobscot Bay for some time and while the operator was not caught, the incident showed that it is getting more difficult to land the stuff in this harbor.

The craft was seen passing in front of the Burnt Island Station, and word telegraphed to the White Head station. In the meantime a crew from the Burnt Island station gave chase to the sloop. As the pursued and the pursuer passed the White House Station, Captain L. R. Dunn of that station joined in the case and fired several shots at the sloop. The race continued for about a mile and one-half beyond the White Head Station before the rum runners threw overboard their cargo.

This is one of the most thrilling instances of rum running in Penobscot Bay for some time and while the operator was not caught, the incident showed that it is getting more difficult to land the stuff in this harbor.

The craft was seen passing in front of the Burnt Island Station, and word telegraphed to the White Head station. In the meantime a crew from the Burnt Island station gave chase to the sloop. As the pursued and the pursuer passed the White House Station, Captain L. R. Dunn of that station joined in the case and fired several shots at the sloop. The race continued for about a mile and one-half beyond the White Head Station before the rum runners threw overboard their cargo.

This is one of the most thrilling instances of rum running in Penobscot Bay for some time and while the operator was not caught, the incident showed that it is getting more difficult to land the stuff in this harbor.

The craft was seen passing in front of the Burnt Island Station, and word telegraphed to the White Head station. In the meantime a crew from the Burnt Island station gave chase to the sloop. As the pursued and the pursuer passed the White House Station, Captain L. R. Dunn of that station joined in the case and fired several shots at the sloop. The race continued for about a mile and one-half beyond the White Head Station before the rum runners threw overboard their cargo.

This is one of the most thrilling instances of rum running in Penobscot Bay for some time and while the operator was not caught, the incident showed that it is getting more difficult to land the stuff in this harbor.

The craft was seen passing in front of the Burnt Island Station, and word telegraphed to the White Head station. In the meantime a crew from the Burnt Island station gave chase to the sloop. As the pursued and the pursuer passed the White House Station, Captain L. R. Dunn of that station joined in the case and fired several shots at the sloop. The race continued for about a mile and one-half beyond the White Head Station before the rum runners threw overboard their cargo.

This is one of the most thrilling instances of rum running in Penobscot Bay for some time and while the operator was not caught, the incident showed that it is getting more difficult to land the stuff in this harbor.

The craft was seen passing in front of the Burnt Island Station, and word telegraphed to the White Head station. In the meantime a crew from the Burnt Island station gave chase to the sloop. As the pursued and the pursuer passed the White House Station, Captain L. R. Dunn of that station joined in the case and fired several shots at the sloop. The race continued for about a mile and one-half beyond the White Head Station before the rum runners threw overboard their cargo.

This is one of the most thrilling instances of rum running in Penobscot Bay for some time and while the operator was not caught, the incident showed that it is getting more difficult to land the stuff in this harbor.

The craft was seen passing in front of the Burnt Island Station, and word telegraphed to the White Head station. In the meantime a crew from the Burnt Island station gave chase to the sloop. As the pursued and the pursuer passed the White House Station, Captain L. R. Dunn of that station joined in the case and fired several shots at the sloop. The race continued for about a mile and one-half beyond the White Head Station before the rum runners threw overboard their cargo.

This is one of the most thrilling instances of rum running in Penobscot Bay for some time and while the operator was not caught, the incident showed that it is getting more difficult to land the stuff in this harbor.

The craft was seen passing in front of the Burnt Island Station, and word telegraphed to the White Head station. In the meantime a crew from the Burnt Island station gave chase to the sloop. As the pursued and the pursuer passed the White House Station, Captain L. R. Dunn of that station joined in the case and fired several shots at the sloop. The race continued for about a mile and one-half beyond the White Head Station before the rum runners threw overboard their cargo.

This is one of the most thrilling instances of rum running in Penobscot Bay for some time and while the operator was not caught, the incident showed that it is getting more difficult to land the stuff in this harbor.

CHINESE MISSION WORK DISCUSSED

United Women's Missionary Societies Take up Matter—Appeal For Home.

A committee to report on conditions among the Chinese residents of Saint John with the idea of undertaking more active mission work among them, was appointed at a meeting of the United Women's Missionary Societies, yesterday afternoon in the Germain street Baptist Institute when Mrs. R. A. Jamieson, the president, was in the chair.

An appeal was also presented in behalf of the interprovincial Home for Women, being erected in Moncton, the opening of which has been delayed on account of lack of funds.

Rev. Walter Small, missionary on furlough from China, gave an address on the convention held in Washington. Mrs. Blake Ferris was the soloist with Mrs. S. S. Poole, accompanist. The scripture was read by Mrs. P. T. Bertman and Mrs. W. J. Johnston and Mrs. R. A. Jamieson offered prayer.

Mrs. J. J. Gilles gave her report as secretary. Mrs. Jamieson reported on the missionary work which had been done for the Chinese up to the present in Saint John. Anglican missionary work had commenced in 1900 through the interest of Rev. A. D. Dewdney, then rector of St. James church, now Bishop Dewdney, of Keewatin.

The Baptist work was reported on the committee appointed by the meeting to look into the situation and submit a report consisted of Mrs. Woodman and Mrs. Regan, Anglicans, Miss N. Keith, Mrs. I. Hoare and Miss Daniel, Baptists; Mrs. A. S. Allan and Mrs. Robert Reed, Presbyterians, Mrs. C. F. Sanford and Mrs. W. H. Barker, Methodists, and Mrs. Ralph Pugh and Mrs. H. H. Gilles, Christian church. The committee has power to add to its members.

TO SEW FOR POOR

Mrs. Norman P. MacLeod entertained the Doorkeepers' Circle at the King's Daughters yesterday afternoon at her home in West Saint John. A fair attendance heard with interest the talk on the Life of Jeremiah by Mrs. C. F. Sanford. Mrs. J. William Hart, president, was in the chair. It was decided that each member would sew on at least two garments to be brought in for the autumn contribution to the poor of the city. Mrs. MacLeod served tea informally.

Mrs. Norman P. MacLeod entertained the Doorkeepers' Circle at the King's Daughters yesterday afternoon at her home in West Saint John. A fair attendance heard with interest the talk on the Life of Jeremiah by Mrs. C. F. Sanford. Mrs. J. William Hart, president, was in the chair. It was decided that each member would sew on at least two garments to be brought in for the autumn contribution to the poor of the city. Mrs. MacLeod served tea informally.

Mrs. Norman P. MacLeod entertained the Doorkeepers' Circle at the King's Daughters yesterday afternoon at her home in West Saint John. A fair attendance heard with interest the talk on the Life of Jeremiah by Mrs. C. F. Sanford. Mrs. J. William Hart, president, was in the chair. It was decided that each member would sew on at least two garments to be brought in for the autumn contribution to the poor of the city. Mrs. MacLeod served tea informally.

Mrs. Norman P. MacLeod entertained the Doorkeepers' Circle at the King's Daughters yesterday afternoon at her home in West Saint John. A fair attendance heard with interest the talk on the Life of Jeremiah by Mrs. C. F. Sanford. Mrs. J. William Hart, president, was in the chair. It was decided that each member would sew on at least two garments to be brought in for the autumn contribution to the poor of the city. Mrs. MacLeod served tea informally.

Mrs. Norman P. MacLeod entertained the Doorkeepers' Circle at the King's Daughters yesterday afternoon at her home in West Saint John. A fair attendance heard with interest the talk on the Life of Jeremiah by Mrs. C. F. Sanford. Mrs. J. William Hart, president, was in the chair. It was decided that each member would sew on at least two garments to be brought in for the autumn contribution to the poor of the city. Mrs. MacLeod served tea informally.

Mrs. Norman P. MacLeod entertained the Doorkeepers' Circle at the King's Daughters yesterday afternoon at her home in West Saint John. A fair attendance heard with interest the talk on the Life of Jeremiah by Mrs. C. F. Sanford. Mrs. J. William Hart, president, was in the chair. It was decided that each member would sew on at least two garments to be brought in for the autumn contribution to the poor of the city. Mrs. MacLeod served tea informally.

Mrs. Norman P. MacLeod entertained the Doorkeepers' Circle at the King's Daughters yesterday afternoon at her home in West Saint John. A fair attendance heard with interest the talk on the Life of Jeremiah by Mrs. C. F. Sanford. Mrs. J. William Hart, president, was in the chair. It was decided that each member would sew on at least two garments to be brought in for the autumn contribution to the poor of the city. Mrs. MacLeod served tea informally.

Mrs. Norman P. MacLeod entertained the Doorkeepers' Circle at the King's Daughters yesterday afternoon at her home in West Saint John. A fair attendance heard with interest the talk on the Life of Jeremiah by Mrs. C. F. Sanford. Mrs. J. William Hart, president, was in the chair. It was decided that each member would sew on at least two garments to be brought in for the autumn contribution to the poor of the city. Mrs. MacLeod served tea informally.

Mrs. Norman P. MacLeod entertained the Doorkeepers' Circle at the King's Daughters yesterday afternoon at her home in West Saint John. A fair attendance heard with interest the talk on the Life of Jeremiah by Mrs. C. F. Sanford. Mrs. J. William Hart, president, was in the chair. It was decided that each member would sew on at least two garments to be brought in for the autumn contribution to the poor of the city. Mrs. MacLeod served tea informally.

Mrs. Norman P. MacLeod entertained the Doorkeepers' Circle at the King's Daughters yesterday afternoon at her home in West Saint John. A fair attendance heard with interest the talk on the Life of Jeremiah by Mrs. C. F. Sanford. Mrs. J. William Hart, president, was in the chair. It was decided that each member would sew on at least two garments to be brought in for the autumn contribution to the poor of the city. Mrs. MacLeod served tea informally.

Mrs. Norman P. MacLeod entertained the Doorkeepers' Circle at the King's Daughters yesterday afternoon at her home in West Saint John. A fair attendance heard with interest the talk on the Life of Jeremiah by Mrs. C. F. Sanford. Mrs. J. William Hart, president, was in the chair. It was decided that each member would sew on at least two garments to be brought in for the autumn contribution to the poor of the city. Mrs. MacLeod served tea informally.

Mrs. Norman P. MacLeod entertained the Doorkeepers' Circle at the King's Daughters yesterday afternoon at her home in West Saint John. A fair attendance heard with interest the talk on the Life of Jeremiah by Mrs. C. F. Sanford. Mrs. J. William Hart, president, was in the chair. It was decided that each member would sew on at least two garments to be brought in for the autumn contribution to the poor of the city. Mrs. MacLeod served tea informally.

Mrs. Norman P. MacLeod entertained the Doorkeepers' Circle at the King's Daughters yesterday afternoon at her home in West Saint John. A fair attendance heard with interest the talk on the Life of Jeremiah by Mrs. C. F. Sanford. Mrs. J. William Hart, president, was in the chair. It was decided that each member would sew on at least two garments to be brought in for the autumn contribution to the poor of the city. Mrs. MacLeod served tea informally.

Mrs. Norman P. MacLeod entertained the Doorkeepers' Circle at the King's Daughters yesterday afternoon at her home in West Saint John. A fair attendance heard with interest the talk on the Life of Jeremiah by Mrs. C. F. Sanford. Mrs. J. William Hart, president, was in the chair. It was decided that each member would sew on at least two garments to be brought in for the autumn contribution to the poor of the city. Mrs. MacLeod served tea informally.

Mrs. Norman P. MacLeod entertained the Doorkeepers' Circle at the King's Daughters yesterday afternoon at her home in West Saint John. A fair attendance heard with interest the talk on the Life of Jeremiah by Mrs. C. F. Sanford. Mrs. J. William Hart, president, was in the chair. It was decided that each member would sew on at least two garments to be brought in for the autumn contribution to the poor of the city. Mrs. MacLeod served tea informally.

Mrs. Norman P. MacLeod entertained the Doorkeepers' Circle at the King's Daughters yesterday afternoon at her home in West Saint John. A fair attendance heard with interest the talk on the Life of Jeremiah by Mrs. C. F. Sanford. Mrs. J. William Hart, president, was in the chair. It was decided that each member would sew on at least two garments to be brought in for the autumn contribution to the poor of the city. Mrs. MacLeod served tea informally.

Mrs. Norman P. MacLeod entertained the Doorkeepers' Circle at the King's Daughters yesterday afternoon at her home in West Saint John. A fair attendance heard with interest the talk on the Life of Jeremiah by Mrs. C. F. Sanford. Mrs. J. William Hart, president, was in the chair. It was decided that each member would sew on at least two garments to be brought in for the autumn contribution to the poor of the city. Mrs. MacLeod served tea informally.

Mrs. Norman P. MacLeod entertained the Doorkeepers' Circle at the King's Daughters yesterday afternoon at her home in West Saint John. A fair attendance heard with interest the talk on the Life of Jeremiah by Mrs. C. F. Sanford. Mrs. J. William Hart, president, was in the chair. It was decided that each member would sew on at least two garments to be brought in for the autumn contribution to the poor of the city. Mrs. MacLeod served tea informally.

Mrs. Norman P. MacLeod entertained the Doorkeepers' Circle at the King's Daughters yesterday afternoon at her home in West Saint John. A fair attendance heard with interest the talk on the Life of Jeremiah by Mrs. C. F. Sanford. Mrs. J. William Hart, president, was in the chair. It was decided that each member would sew on at least two garments to be brought in for the autumn contribution to the poor of the city. Mrs. MacLeod served tea informally.

Mrs. Norman P. MacLeod entertained the Doorkeepers' Circle at the King's Daughters yesterday afternoon at her home in West Saint John. A fair attendance heard with interest the talk on the Life of Jeremiah by Mrs. C. F. Sanford. Mrs. J. William Hart, president, was in the chair. It was decided that each member would sew on at least two garments to be brought in for the autumn contribution to the poor of the city. Mrs. MacLeod served tea informally.

Mrs. Norman P. MacLeod entertained the Doorkeepers' Circle at the King's Daughters yesterday afternoon at her home in West Saint John. A fair attendance heard with interest the talk on the Life of Jeremiah by Mrs. C. F. Sanford. Mrs. J. William Hart, president, was in the chair. It was decided that each member would sew on at least two garments to be brought in for the autumn contribution to the poor of the city. Mrs. MacLeod served tea informally.

Mrs. Norman P. MacLeod entertained the Doorkeepers' Circle at the King's Daughters yesterday afternoon at her home in West Saint John. A fair attendance heard with interest the talk on the Life of Jeremiah by Mrs. C. F. Sanford. Mrs. J. William Hart, president, was in the chair. It was decided that each member would sew on at least two garments to be brought in for the autumn contribution to the poor of the city. Mrs. MacLeod served tea informally.

Mrs. Norman P. MacLeod entertained the Doorkeepers' Circle at the King's Daughters yesterday afternoon at her home in West Saint John. A fair attendance heard with interest the talk on the Life of Jeremiah by Mrs. C. F. Sanford. Mrs. J. William Hart, president, was in the chair. It was decided that each member would sew on at least two garments to be brought in for the autumn contribution to the poor of the city. Mrs. MacLeod served tea informally.

Mrs. Norman P. MacLeod entertained the Doorkeepers' Circle at the King's Daughters yesterday afternoon at her home in West Saint John. A fair attendance heard with interest the talk on the Life of Jeremiah by Mrs. C. F. Sanford. Mrs. J. William Hart, president, was in the chair. It was decided that each member would sew on at least two garments to be brought in for the autumn contribution to the poor of the city. Mrs. MacLeod served tea informally.

Mrs. Norman P. MacLeod entertained the Doorkeepers' Circle at the King's Daughters yesterday afternoon at her home in West Saint John. A fair attendance heard with interest the talk on the Life of Jeremiah by Mrs. C. F. Sanford. Mrs. J. William Hart, president, was in the chair. It was decided that each member would sew on at least two garments to be brought in for the autumn contribution to the poor of the city. Mrs. MacLeod served tea informally.

Mrs. Norman P. MacLeod entertained the Doorkeepers' Circle at the King's Daughters yesterday afternoon at her home in West Saint John. A fair attendance heard with interest the talk on the Life of Jeremiah by Mrs. C. F. Sanford. Mrs. J. William Hart, president, was in the chair. It was decided that each member would sew on at least two garments to be brought in for the autumn contribution to the poor of the city. Mrs. MacLeod served tea informally.

Mrs. Norman P. MacLeod entertained the Doorkeepers' Circle at the King's Daughters yesterday afternoon at her home in West Saint John. A fair attendance heard with interest the talk on the Life of Jeremiah by Mrs. C. F. Sanford. Mrs. J. William Hart, president, was in the chair. It was decided that each member would sew on at least two garments to be brought in for the autumn contribution to the poor of the city. Mrs. MacLeod served tea informally.

In Parliament Today

IN THE HOUSE.—The budget debate will be resumed by L. W. Humphrey, independent member for Kootenay West.

Naval Commander Is Coming To Dominion

OTTAWA, April 14.—Commander H. B. Taylor, of the British Admiralty, is expected to arrive in Ottawa on April 27 to assume the duties of director of naval intelligence, succeeding Commander Cosmo Hastings, who is returning to England.

ADDRESSES TRINITY CLUB

An interesting address was given by Rev. A. H. Moore, president of Kings College, at the meeting of the Trinity Men's Club. William Donovan gave a vocal solo and Ronald Shaw recitations. E. A. Schofield presided. At the close of the programme refreshments were served. This was the last meeting of the club for this season.

ADDRESSES TRINITY CLUB

An interesting address was given by Rev. A. H. Moore, president of Kings College, at the meeting of the Trinity Men's