CHARGED WITH ATTEMPTING TO OBSTRUCT JUSTICE

W. H. Sharpe Before Magistrate Ritchie This Morning—Man Collapses in Court

One of the first cases of its kind to be brought before the police court was heard this morning when William H. Sharpe was charged with attempting to obstruct the course of justice by removing from the jurisdiction of the supreme court of New Brunswick certain children by taking them to McAdam Junction and sending them to the United States. Cyrus F. Innes said in the matter of habeas corpus, issued at the instance of William H. Sharpe, the issue was for the custody of three children. Up to May 26 Cora Mabel Sharpe, for whom Mr. Innes appeared at a suit in the supreme court before Mr. Justice Barry in chambers in this city, had the custody of the children. The case was postponed and an interim order that the custody of the three children be given to the accused, William H. Sharpe, until the final adjudication of the case determined whether the wife or the accused should have the custody of the children. This was done on the representation by counsel for the accused that the children would be taken to the States and they were not allowed to go to court during the month of June in the city of St. John. The full order was not produced, but would be at the next hearing. The names of the children are George Lingley Sharpe, aged ten; Doris Elise Sharpe, aged eight; and Joan Anita Sharpe, aged six. From enquiries made, the witness said he ascertained that the children were not in the city of St. John and that the accused had admitted that he had sent the children to the United States, accompanying them as far as McAdam Junction. K. J. Macrae objected to this evidence. Witness said that before he laid information he took the matter up with Mr. Justice Barry at these proceedings are initiated with his approval. This was also objected to by Mr. Macrae, counsel for the accused. The accused was arrested on a warrant by Sergeant Detective Power and Detective Bidcombe. The case was postponed until Wednesday morning. Bail conditions such that he ought not to be asked for, as the accused's physician kept in jail, and the magistrate said after receiving a satisfactory medical certificate he would consider bail. Cyrus F. Innes appeared for the prosecution, and K. J. Macrae and W. R. Scott appeared for the defense.

By-law Cases.
Roy Stanley was reported for exceeding the speed limit in Charlotte street, and also for falling to sound his horn. Policeman Dykeman, Patrol Officer Godwin and Inspector Merryfield gave evidence. The case was postponed until next day, when the father of the accused gave evidence. Thomas Murphy and Fred Belzer were reported for dipping ashes in rear of St. Luke's church, off Main street. This was a licensed dump. They pleaded guilty. A fine was imposed, but it was allowed to stand for a week. Daniel Doherty, a siren horn, contrary to law, said he was in the course of taking the horn off. Policeman Linton gave evidence. Eldon Wilson and Harry Wetmore were reported by C. N. R. Policeman Price for acting in an improper manner as coachmen's stand, Union Station, on the arrival of the Boston train yesterday. Wilson was fined $5 and Wetmore was fined $10. Wilson was leaving his automobile in Union street without having her front lights. Daniel Munroe, charged with driving in public on Long wharf, was remanded to jail. ### Children of Europe Need Help of The World

No One Nation Can Cope With Problem Alone, But it Must be Dealt With by Concerted Effort—Workers are Needed.

(Special to The Christian Science Monitor.)
London, England.—Since the armistice was signed, the truth about economic conditions in Europe has gradually been revealed through the channels of relief workers among the children. Mr. Hoover, the American director of relief after his work in Belgium and France set out for Poland and the eastern European states in order to satisfy official opinion that great distress existed in Central Europe. In June, 1919, he stated that over 1,000,000 children in Austria, Hungary and Slovakia were in need of food. In Poland, where he stated that in Central Europe there were three and a half million children in need of food. This appeal stirred workers to action.

Children of Europe.
In England and America committees were set on foot to take over certain countries and today America is giving 2,000,000 children one meal a day. In England some 1,000,000 children are being fed. The relief until raw materials set the work in motion. This relief movement has culminated in an international movement which held a conference at Geneva recently with representatives from every European country.

Children of Europe.
The American relief effort reported that in Austria alone 78.8 per cent of the child population were undernourished. 29 per cent of whom only were getting one meal a day under the relief scheme. In Vienna 97.8 per cent of the children were under-nourished, of whom 44 per cent were receiving the American High Price of Clothes.

Children of Europe.
In their 500 London monthly estimates, there is no allowance made for clothes, or other necessities. Most of them are wearing the clothes they had in 1914, mended and remended. A new coat and shoes, too, are scarce. The cost of a new coat is at least 4,000 kronen (more than a year's salary), and shoes are in proportion. There exists a "mensa" or student restaurant, but the food there is so bad that many students go to view, expensive; dinner five kronen, supper four kronen. Most of the women who live in Vienna are in a state of starvation.

Children of Europe.
The Argentine Ambassador, Dr. R. P. Steeves, who is in London, is equally obvious that no one nation can cope with the problem alone, that it must be dealt with by concerted effort. The recovery of European life depends upon it, and equally the continuance of human civilization. Until the raw materials necessary to the existence of Europe as a productive and happy continent are available in fair and just distribution, the only way to meet the needs of the continent is to bring the relief bodies existing in all countries at present, and working primarily for the children. Workers in all countries are still urgently needed.

GERMAN ELECTIONS LOCAL NEWS

Considerable Interest in Tests Which Terminate Tomorrow.
Great interest in the German elections which terminate tomorrow is manifested in Europe and America. The New York Times says: "If there is any virtue in the political forecasts from London, Paris and Berlin to be held next Sunday, the present coalition will retain its preponderance, but with heavy losses both to the Left and to the right. The government which has ruled Germany since the armistice is far from satisfactory either to Germans or to the rest of the world. Its intentions, perhaps, are good, but it has done neither one thing nor the other; too moderate for the bourgeois groups, it has lived in obvious terror of the reactionaries, yet for a long time it has truckled with them for protection against the proletarian danger of a Spartacist rising. Lately its credit has somewhat improved, it withdrew the Kapp conspiracy and it finally got rid of Noske; it compelled a nominal disbanding of the mercenary corps of the reactionaries and has made some attempt to get a praetorian guard which will obey the government against any adversary. It is still far too much under reactionary influences. It is painfully incompetent and, of course, it is blamed by the Germans for the mistakes consequent upon defeat after an exhausting war which no government could do much to ameliorate. Yet with all its faults it probably the best that can be obtained."
