Irish Wrath Aroused by the Utterances of an English Tory.

London, July 11 .- Th house of commons, sitting in committee, continued this evening the discussion of clause 9 of the Home Rule bill. This clause conat Westminster.

Henry Seton-Karr, Conservative, St. Helen's, moved that the Irish members of the Imperial parliament be elected by ment, so that the best opportunity might | the constituencies which would elect the be given for the smooth working of the Irish in the house of commons. They would then number forty-eight instead of eighty, as proposed by the bill. Rt. Hon. John Morley, chief secretary for Ireland, replied that the proposal was based on no principle of government but was the result merely of a desire to curtail Irish representation in the house, and could not be accepted by the government.

Sir Richard Temple, Conservative, Kingston division of Surrey, said that even 48 Irish members would be too many.

Bróderick, Conservative, William Guildford division of Surrey, agreed with Sir Richard Temple. The Irish were both impecunious and garrulous, and therein lay two reasons for reducing their representation in the house to a minimum.

Thomas Sexton, anti-Parnellite, North Kerry, interrupted Mr. Broderick to say that such language was grossly impertinent, and ought not to be permitted in the house.

The Unionists shouted "withdraw" and the Irish cheered.

Lord Randolph Churchill suggested that Mr. Sexton withdraw his words, as Mr. Broderick's were not intended for him personally. The chairman told Mr. Sexton that he was out of order and must withdraw bis expressions concerning Mr. Broderick's speech. Mr. Sexton expressed his willingness to obey the chairman in case Mr. Broderick would first express regret for his language.

In the house of commons last night Edward Heneage, Unionist for Great Grimsby, moved an amendment to the effect that the Irish be excluded entirely from the house of commons.

Rt. Hon. Mr. Gladstone replied that the retention of the Irish members would prove the means of reassuring the doubters as to the experiment of Home Rule. Rt. Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, leader of the Liberal Unionists, said in favor of the amendment that the retention of the Irish members would render it possible that at any time they might support a vote of want of confidence,, and thus cause the fall of the existing government. Mr. Chamberlain referred to the bill as a complete fraud. Rt. Hon. Mr. Balfour, leader of the Unionists, warned the government that the retention of the Irish members would cerns the question of Irish representation result probably in the endless discussion of affairs in the house. From Rideau Hall they were escorted by a detachment of the Princess Louise dragoon guards, and a guard of honor was drawn up st the Canadian Pacific depot to receive them there. There was also a salute fired from Nepean Point to mark the occasion of their departure. As the train pulled out at the depot the vice-regal party were cheered. Ottawa, July 13.-Professor Wiggins says that in two or three weeks a very brilliant comet will be seen in the 1 orthern sky. He has been watching for some Gemma in 1570 in the constellation of comet at its perihelion, when its halo surrounding it gave it the appearance of a star of the first magnitude. He considers that history has been proved now, for on the night of the 8th instant, he and near the pole of the heavens, a star of the sixth magnitude, moving rapidly sunwards, which he pronounced a comet and which is seeking a closer perihelion than in 1570. On its return from the sun it will be very brilliant.

Elliott's Sealing Report.

Elliott's Sealing Report. Paris, July 7.-Before the Behring Sea tribunal to-day Hon. E. J. Phelps con-tinued his closing address. He reviewed the report made to the American government by Mr. Elliott, who had been appointed to investigate the facts in connection with seal herds, and while so doing, he was asked by Sir Charles Russell, counsel for Great Britain, why this report had not been printed at Washington. Why this re-port had not been printed, he did not know. The animus of the report had been explained by the fact that Elliott was con-nected with a lessee company whose inter-est he had been supporting during the con-test between the old and new companies for a new lease. In fairness to Elliott, Phelps said he ought to state that the driv-ing of seals that he, Mr. Elliott, saw on the Pribyloff Islands in 1830 was objectionable to him and the treasury agent stopped it.
