THE FISHERIES OF THE ST. JOHN; EFFECT OF THE PRESENT TREATY

On March 31, the House of Commons in supply discussed salaries in the Marine Department, including the increase to $4,000 of the salary of the principal fishery officer. The following is a summary of the report of the Fisheries Commission, which is of interest to Standard readers:

Mr. Crockett.—The minister spoke of the differences between the American and the British constitution. I assume that all the members of this House were aware of the differences pointed out by the minister, but I do not think that anything the suggestion I made that the British plenipotentiaries representing the British Government on the principal waters of the Dominion of Canada might have proposed the insertion of a clause in this treaty requiring ratification by the Parliament of Canada. I assume that the British plenipotentiaries would not have made any objection to such a clause if it had been proposed by the Canadian Government. I assume that the Canadian Government would not have objected to such a clause if it had been proposed by the British Government.

Mr. Broder.—I will not discuss the question of the River St. John, because I will have an opportunity of dealing with it when the motion of my hon. friend from New Westminister (Mr. D. Taylor) is made, and I understand that it will be within a few days. The hon. gentleman (Mr. Crockett) says that this treaty does away with the present regulations. Let him wait until the regulations have been passed by the Commission, and he will find, probably, that the present regulations have not been done away with.
