

FOR WOMEN

One's Health Breaks Down Like the Old One-Horse Chaise

You can get along in life far better by building up your strength than by throwing it away through carelessness and neglect. Strength comes from the blood, and strong blood comes only when it is not neglected. The best and safest way to be strong and well is to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery Tablets. These readily overcome anemia, or thin blood. They put a feeling of vim, vigor, strength and renewed ambition into those who take them. Most people would feel better, stronger and happier if they took a few of these Tablets. You can't afford to be sick when it costs so little to get well. Men "with a wallop," men with vim, vigor, are those who take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, composed of herbal extracts, without alcohol, and found to be a wonderful tonic for the manufacture of red blood within the body. For sale by druggists in tablet or liquid form; or send ten cents to Doctor Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., or branch Laboratory in Bridgeburg, Ont.

BRAMPTON, Ont., May 26.—"A couple of years ago I was in a nervous and run-down condition, and felt greatly in need of a tonic. A friend who was being helped by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery advised me to try it, too. It helped me from the very start, and eventually restored me to perfect health. I feel in a position to praise the 'Golden Medical Discovery' very highly, and take pleasure in recommending it to all those who are at all nervous, weak or run-down."—Miss ESTHER PEATSON.

Princess Mary Planted A Tree

Visited Home for Incurables and Charmed All Who Met Her—Chatted With Patients—Looked Very Pretty

Princess Mary won the hearts of all the incurables when she visited their hospital and home on Putney-hill yesterday, says the London Daily Express, looking very pretty in a black crepe de chine frock, daisied with a white collar and a black straw hat. Most of the invalids lay in the porch and watched the royal guest as she walked through the grounds carrying a bouquet of pink roses tied with pink tulle, which had previously been presented to her on her way to plant a little Hawthorn tree with a silver trowel.

I thought the Princess worked very energetically in her efforts really to cover up the roots of the tree, and the head gardener of the hospital grounds, with whom the child met, or some time nodded approvingly while she worked. Before the tree-planting ceremony Princess Mary received many purses of money from subscribers to assist the upkeep of the hospital, and after tea with the Duchess of Wellington, Lady Stamfordham, and Miss York, who was in attendance, she walked through the wards chatting with all the patients, who afterwards told her many tales of our King's daughter.

Girl Scouts from Clapham formed a guard of honor, and long lines of people filed past the Princess as she walked through the grounds to catch a glimpse of the Princess as she drove away. Before her visit to the hospital, Princess Mary visited the Wandsworth Infant Centre, in which she is interested.

I. O. O. E. TO FIGHT CLASS DISTINCTION

Appeal Made for a More Democratic Spirit Among the Members.

Calgary, Alta., May 26.—The National Independent Order of the Daughters of the Empire convention passed an amendment to its constitution at the morning session, today, eliminating individual members, Miss Doyle and Miss Gooderham made an appeal for a more democratic spirit among the members of the Order, which, it was reported has enlarged its membership to include chapters for shop employees and for those women who go out to work by the day. Several speakers emphasized the need of leveling down the general opinion that Daughters of the Empire are like society women, who have no other aim in life than to loiter around, dress up and attend social functions. Close touch with all classes toward the final elimination of class distinction was strongly urged.

Degrees For Women At Oxford

Members of Women's Faculties Will Sit With Equal Rights Upon Boards and Committees at Ancient Seat of Learning.

Cross-Atlantic News Service. (Copyright.)

Oxford, May 26.—Another signal victory has been won by forward-moving women; and that, too, at Oxford. This time of conservatism has been taken by storm, and the voice of woman will be lifted up in the Sanctuary of the Colleges. Oxford has decided to award degrees to women students exactly the same as to men.

For some years the University has been attended by women students, but they were never technically admitted to membership, and came without the right of obtaining degrees. Their curriculum was modified almost exactly upon that of the Honors Schools which had Oxford men to the degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Master of Arts. Now, the University declares that women degrees will apply equally to both sexes; and members of the women's faculties will sit with equal rights upon examination boards and committees.

Witanstede School At The Y.M.C.A. Gym

Physical Demonstration Given Last Evening Proved Delightful Entertainment—Programme Divided Into Two Parts—T. C. Armour the Director.

Youth, grace and skill combined to make the Physical Demonstration given by the Witanstede School at the Y.M.C.A. Gymnasium last evening a very delightful entertainment. The demonstration marked the close of the season, and was given under the direction of T. C. Armour who, with his pupils, met with great success in the excellent results of the season's training.

The programme was divided into two parts opening with Figure March in which the entire class took part, and which was followed by precision, the girls looking neat and precise in their gym suits of navy blue with white middie. A very pretty drill followed, after which group games were played consisting of basketball, head and tail tag, and dodge ball. Two squads then did not wait while parents and friends gazed with surprise at the accomplishments of the girls who could with such apparent ease repeat the "stunts" done by the instructor.

The next item was an exhibition of very creditable running high jump given by the four girls who have the best records of the season in athletic work—Margaret Page and Margaret Stevenson jumped 4 feet 1 inch, and Marion Currie and Edith Ellis 4 feet. A Folk Dance was both graceful and well done by all those taking part. Next followed apparatus squads who used the parallel bars and flying rings and splendid work was done on both these, the girls being heartily applauded in several instances.

A Highland Fling in which each girl added to her costume a gay tie of plaid clothed this part of the programme. It was well danced with lightness of foot and easy motions.

Musical for the physical drills was supplied by Miss Valde Fenton and Miss Audrey Rankine a pupil of Witanstede who presided at the piano and played in excellent time.

In The Pool. The audience adjourned to the swimming pool for the second half of the programme which consisted of a very fine exhibition of speed swimming, back stroke, floating, diving and four manners of life saving. Those taking part in this were Misses Margaret Page, Daphne Patterson, Margaret Hayes, Marion Currie, Viola McAvoy, Constance Murray and Lois Fairweather.

Daphne Patterson fell into the pool fully dressed and was rescued by

Johnny (eagerly): "Before or after dinner, father?"

There is a tendency among ill-bred-earning women to think that the "plums" in all professional, commercial and industrial careers are gained through influence rather than merit, claims a writer in the London Standard.

This outlook has a very detrimental effect upon the prospects. In thinking that influence is the surest stepping-stone to success they subconsciously prevent merit from having the chance to assert itself. They set up a bogey to let their own standards, and to the benefit of the destroyer of the incentive to work at the highest level.

Merit is a safer door than influence by which to enter and compete in the walk of life. Influence may, and often does, turn the key to the possibilities of coveted positions or untold wealth, but if a girl has not the ability, resources and strength necessary to stand alone and surmount the difficulties awaiting her on the inside—well, it generally means a tragic failure involving loss of dignity.

When merit is recognized that is sometimes the fault of its possessor, the writer continues. She may have the insight to realize her worth to an employer, be too fearful for a rebuff to demand the recognition she feels entitled to, or too nervous of being drawn out of a berth to stick up for her rights—all signs of a lack of self-confidence. But when merit is built on a bedrock of either technical knowledge, ability to grasp detail, or conscientious work, it is unusual for it to let her owner down. Mr. Right sees to that, although he often raises mysterious barriers to test our skill in surmounting them.

We must not confuse merit with experience. Experience is a great teacher only so long as we are eager to learn, anxious to expand mentally, and determined to acquire knowledge. If we want success we must chain our thoughts on the word merit and drive the word influence out of our subconsciousness. The girl who harbors hope in her mind is merely asking for failure.

Refreshments were served by the pupils and Miss Lavina was congratulated by the school which includes not only training for the mind, but such beautiful exercise for the body in its curriculum.

The St. Rose's Dramatic Club

Large Attendance Last Night Enjoyed Production of "A Man From Old Virginia"—Conclusion of Season's Productions.

A large audience attended St. Rose's Hall last evening and greatly enjoyed the last production of the season of the Dramatic Club, when they presented "A Man From Old Virginia."

The hall was taxed to capacity and those who witnessed the play were most enthusiastic in their praise for the members of the cast who displayed their efficiency in the handling of the various roles. The play least centred around a New England village of the old homestead about to be sold at auction and only the timely arrival of Darius Dobbs the Man from West Virginia saved the trying situation in which Rose Raleigh was placed.

In the leading role of "The Man from Old Virginia," J. J. O'Toole the old favorite of amateur productions, handled his part in a most capable manner and won his audience from the start. He received a most enthusiastic ovation on his appearance and until the last curtain dropped he was the creator of many hearty laughs.

Miss Kathleen Crawford in the leading feminine role gave a pleasing portrayal which was most refined to a degree. This is Miss Crawford's first appearance in "A Man From Old Virginia" and her acting in this role is worthy of much favorable comment.

J. J. McGrath, J. Morrissey and Joseph Fitzgerald pleased all with their acting and received a goodly share of the numerous plaudits.

Miss Alma O'Toole and Leslie Rogers in the character parts of "Yennie Yensen" and "Deuteronomy Jones" were the recipients of much hearty applause.

HOW NEW YORK IS OBTAINING ITS BOOZE SUPPLY

Claimed That Most of it is Shipped from Canada as Luggage—St. Lawrence River Comes in Handy.

DILUTED WOOD ALCOHOL USED

Found in Cheap Joints, Price Per Drink Ranging from Thirty Cents to One Dollar.

New York, May 26.—When is a law not a law? Is a question that is being freshly asked in this city, by those who favor prohibition and by those who oppose it. Investigations just completed by several leading newspapers of New York purport to reveal the fact that "more intoxicating liquors are being sold in this city in saloons, restaurants, hotels, dives, speakeasies and kitchen barrooms than at any previous time since national prohibition went into effect January 1st last."

The enterprising newspapermen, carrying on what has no doubt a popular quest, claim to have discovered that in New York at least the dry laws are being openly disobeyed, and that it is not at all difficult for a stranger to obtain his favorite drink at an exorbitant price. In most of the saloons, it is said, 100 proof bonded whiskey is being sold at 75 cents a drink, and, when watered, the price paid by the drinker ranges from 40 cents to 60 cents a drink. In first class restaurants as high as $2 is charged for a gin and tonic highball which contains about 40 cents worth of whiskey, even at present prices.

Colored "hooch," which is better known as diluted wood alcohol, is still being sold in large quantities in corner saloons in the poorer neighborhoods, and is also being peddled in newly-opened dives commonly called kitchen barrooms. The price per drink ranges from 30 cents to $1.

The question naturally arises: Where does the supply come from, since manufacture of liquor in the United States is forbidden? This question the investigator of the New York Times answers as follows:

"They say that our neighbors up north are the most kindly disposed to us when it comes to letting us have some of their sparkling spirits. For a sum of course. Geographers tell us that the St. Lawrence is a long beautiful river, whose banks are dotted with charming little hamlets and cities. It is true. The St. Lawrence is a long, beautiful river. And at points it is quite narrow.

"In circles true and tried they tell a story of adventure and romance such as might make the brigades on the coast of Spain blush with shame at the tameness of the tale. Off in the still night, the story begins, when the moon is hidden behind the heavy clouds of darkness, there are little boats that go to and from the North coast of the St. Lawrence to the South. Each of these little boats is filled with luggage. Much luggage, most of which is packed in trunks. The trunks are handled carefully, lovingly, gently. The boats silently make their moorings on the South side of the St. Lawrence, where the trunks are unloaded. From there they are carefully shipped to points South. New York is one of the points of the South. There are others. A good many of these trunks, it is said, go to hotels. Where else should a trunk be sent? Others are sent to private residences. Still others go to private rooms above saloons. There are many places to which a trunk can be sent.

It is generally admitted that whether the liquor comes from Canada, from warehouses, or from stills, commercial and private. The United States government has not provided sufficient funds for the enforcement of prohibition in places where the people do not want it enforced. The same Congress that headed the prohibition crusaders in passing the enforcement law now decline to set aside the necessary funds which would be required to stop smuggling across the borders of illicit traffic in the cities. Conditions in New York are so parallel in many other parts of the United States. Albany for instance is famed for its wetness, and similar reputations are borne by various cities of East and West.

The newspaper investigators declare that drinking in the home has grown to enormous proportions in those of European countries. Many a family has its private stock. If it has not, it gets it or makes it. The introduction of private stills into the home is said to have spread fast. Formulas for whiskey, beer and wine are given as freely as in days long past when
