I promise, I promise,

JANSSEN

Janssen

The distinguishing factor of the Janssen Slate is that we work and operate as a team. While each of our people are fully competent in their own field, I honestly believe that as a team, we have more to offer than any other Slate.

And I certainly hope that our sincere and honest committment to work for and not above the students of this campus is reflected by our own campaign. We have no need for any high-powered campaign promises and political slickness.

Our campaign promises are simple and very basic. We will turn the attention of the Students' Union back onto campus and focus on its social life.

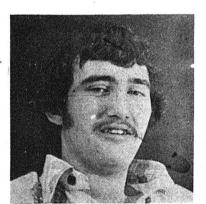

But more important yet is the one promise underlying our entire campaign ... that we will sincerely work to the utmost of our abilities for the stut hits of the University of Alberta.

Dale Janssen president I hardly think there's a student on campus who is not aware of the financial squeeze being put on students these days.

We of the Janssen Team are concerned that students seem to be singled out to bear the brunt of the University's financial problems. As well, we are concerned about the rent increases that Michener and Lister residents are facing and would like to work closely with their respective students' associations to insure that they receive a fair deal.

As a third year Commerce student and Treasurer of the Lister Hall Students' Association in the 1974-75 term, I believe that I hold the qualifications necessary to work towards these ends as vice-president Finance and Administration.

Gary Harwardt vp finance & administration The Janssen Team

Harwardt

Muszynsk

I'm sure most would agree that every student has, at one point or another, found himself in some sort of academic bind. (Perhaps the credibility of this speculation is reflected in that the U of A has the highest suicide rate of all Canadian universities!)

Too often students forget they do have some say in what happens to them academically but rather than using their Students' Union as a resource, they book the High Level Bridge instead.

This of course is an exaggeration, but one which is not all that far removed from reality. It's time for the SU to focus on the student, but the flow must not remain one-way. Students also must demonstrate concern about their own academic futures. They can do this by voting. If anyone is to begin taking the Students' Union seriously, it should be the students.

Wanda Muszynski vp academic The Janssen Team I honestly believe that all the candidates running in this year's election are qualified, and all the promises made were with the sincere desire to be kept. As the polling date grows nearer, I find it hard to give you more promises except one - if elected I promise to do my "damned" best.

I'd like to see S.U. expenditures injected into the core of university life. I'd like to see a decrease of spending on political issues not directly concerned with the students. Let us increase the social functions that bring our students together.

Let's leave this university with more than an education under out hats, lets leave with some fine and beautiful memories. This is the time of our lives. We together can "Do It".

Doug Robinson vp services The Janssen Team

I won't bore you with more political fooferah than you've already heard and seen. Rather, I'll try to convey my determination to represent your views effectively, should you elect me. Student Union government must become relevant to those whose affairs it manages; it must become credible in the eyes of the student before it can expect to carry real influence in its dealings with institutions external to the university.

If elected, I would do all could to encourage and provoke the SU Executive and Council to work with and forthe students. I would work for improved inter-faculty communication, rebirth of Friday afternoon socials, an improved and streamlined academic grievance system - things that relate directly to you.

It's vital that the S.U. executive come down from its pinnacle and start to really communicate with the people for whom it acts.

Bill McIntosh executive vp Janssen Team

Robinson

MASON

atte

nors that

I feel this position is concerned with balancing financial and administrative responsibilities with your needs as students. Decisions involving your money must be looked at from a viewpoint tempered by realistic experiences and expectations. Good administration is based on practical financial planning.

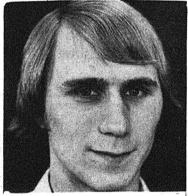

It's your turn for someone who can do just that. I am an accounting major in the Faculty of Commerce. After two years of classroom study, I took a break to apply what I had learned to the actual business world. My work experience here involved dealing with an already developed accounting system and also tailoring a new system to meet the demands of an individual firm. Communicating with all types of people was very important here.

As a member of the Mason Slate, I want the chance to prove my qualifications. On Friday, vote Patti Stevens for vp finance and administration.

Patti Stevens vp finance & administration Mason Slate

Steven

Klimchuk

The vp academic position entails working with many individuals and groups in an attempt to maintain, improve & implement existing and new programs, services and bodies related to academics as well as working in conjunction with the faculty associations in their activities. This requires a person who can keep in touch with and act with a very diversified range of topics and people.

As President of the Engineering Students' Society in the current year and active involvement in previous years, my duties have led me to work with professionals, students, professors and many people outside the university. These duties included positions on several committees as well as keeping in touch with a multitude of others and dealing with academics, finance, socials, public relations, etc.

I have also been a delegate to regional and national conferences and have made a significant contribution in areas ranging from education to natural resources. Hence, I feel that I have a good background in academic problems and faculty associations, and I have shown the diversity required to be a competent candidate for this position.

> Ken Klimchuk vp academic Mason Slate

My basic philosophy is that of facing the reality of our situation as students next year and using the resources available to us to ease that strain.

To do this you need:

from these

 an accurate assessment of available services to acquire maximum benefit

3) to integrate innovative ser-

Having directed HELP, lived in residence, worked with F.O.S., Chaplains association and the Housing Registry, I have a cquired the needed organizational skills for such direction. Strengthening our services i.e. housing registry, an International Student center, a co-op bookstore, a coffee house can be a reality.

It's your turn. Vote Kim McKenzie vp services.

Kim McKenzie vp services Mason Slate

McKenzie

3, 60

Osee

I am a student in Physiotherapy in the Faculty of Rehabilitation Medicine. On campus I have been integrally involved with the operation of the Women's Program Center. I have been a member of the U of A Dance Club and the U of A Mixed Chorus.

As executive vice-president I will attempt to improve the potency of the Students' Union representation on behalf of the student in obtaining student loans. Pressure will be brought on the University to expand the inadequate daycare. A fund will be re-instituted for the expansion of SUB, as the present facilities will soon be overtaxed.

However, financial responsibility requires that any expansion plan be carefully evaluated. The Mason Slate will not undertake any expansion of SUB without expressed approval of the students in a referendum.

Marg Oseen executive vp Mason Slate Students face a difficul year in 1976-77. The Mason Slate believes that the Students Union can help in two ways First, we can represent studen interests to the Board of Governors, the Student Finance Board, and the Provincia Government.

Secondly, the Mason Slat will use the extra resource released by the transfer of HUI to develop practical services transist students through the financial squeeze. As the present executive vice-president, have the experience needed to get right down to work on the problems of students.

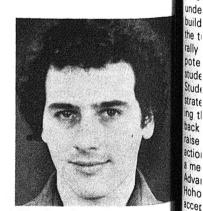

On Friday, vote for experience and direction: Voteth Mason Slate.

Brian Maso presiden must work

ceilir

neet

Maso