The Voice of UNB

Un... Deux... Trois... Rideau!

The rideau goes up on Oct. 14, at 8:30 p.m. in Memorial Hall Theatre for the first dramatic offering of the season. Brought directly from a most successful tour of La Belle Province, the Theatre Universitaire Canadien is being sponsored by UNB's Creative Arts Committee, Le Cercle Francais of Fredericton, and the Canada Council.

The play, "Le Legataire Universel" by J. F. Regnard, is one of greed, and of the hazards of the love game. A little bit of love never hurt anyone but when Geronte, a 70 year old man on his death bed decides to take a wife, his doctor pronounces it as sure suicide. But what a way to go! There is also the matter of the will. Who's going to get the dough when the old mar-kicks the bucket? And how are they to speed up the process of his departure?

M. Geronte's nephew Eraste and the nephew's servant Crispin each try to become the heir to the rich Gerante. Each is aided and abetted by his lady love, and inevitable complications ensue. The doctor and the lawyer join in plotting and are reinforced by the appearance on the scene of a niece from Maine (France) about as genuine as Charlie's Aunt (from Brazil).

The effect can only be described as mildly side-splitting. And we can be sure of a top-notch show from this dynamic young theatre. The Theatre Universitaire Canadien has been cheered wherever they have performed with everything from "Les Femmes Savantes" by Moliere to "Le Journal d'Anne Frank." We can also be assured of the finest costumes and scenery UNB has ever seen. The Theatre Universitaire Canadien is no amateur dramatic club. Its members are highly trained professionals having appeared on radio and television and in the greatest theatres of Montreal including the Theatre Club, The Theatre du Rideau Vert, and the greatest of all Canadian theatres. The Theatre du Nouveau Monde which has played across Canada and in Europe.

"Le Legataire Universel" is not to be missed! It is highly unlikely that such an opportunity will arise again in the near future, and furthermore TICKETS ARE FREE! at the Student Centre on Thurs. from 1 to 4 and 6 to 8 p.m.

BRUNSWICKAN LATE

Due to the holiday week-end this week's edition of the Brunswickan is being published on Thursday.

RECORD REGISTRATION

The University of New Brunswick has a record 2,314 students going 'up the hill' this year which exceeds last year's total by 144.

Of the total this year 2,173 are undergraduates and 141 are graduates. Freshmen students number 739. For the first time UNB limited enrolment, setting 2,200 as an approximate cut-off point.

Registration figures were released Monday, October 1, by Registrar Miss Edith G. McLeod. Miss McLeod pointed out that late arrivals, withdrawals and failures later in the year would keep the total figures in flux.

Of those now enrolled at UNB, she said, 469 are women and 1,845 are men. The faculty of Arts has the most students with engineering, forestry, science, Teachers' College, nursing, law and education following in that order.

As in the past this year's group is a cosmopolitan one, Miss McLeod said. There are 15 from Great Britain, 32 from the U.S.A., 22 from China, 19

West Indians, two Bermuda Africa, one South Africa, seven India, three Pakistan, 10 West Europe and 2,176 from provinces across Canada.

There are 1,301 or about 59 percent from New Brunswick. A breakdown by province follows: N.S., 140; P.E.I., 27; Que., 336; Ont., 298; Man., six; Alberta, five; Nfld., 30; and B.C., two.

A breakdown by faculty is Arts, 900 (includes Arts, business administration, physical education and teaching); science, 201; engineering 617 (includes civil, electrical, mechanical, chemical, surveying, mining); forestry 202; nursing, 61; bachelor of education, 19; law, 46; graduate school, 141; special, one; and Teachers' College, 126.

The registrar said that enrolment in the graduate school was still going up. This is because of late arrivals or the nature of graduate study itself which enables the student to have a more flexible academic calendar than the undergraduate.

IT'S UP TO US

Fredericton publisher, and now Doctor of Laws, John Michael Stewart Wardell was the speaker at Convocation last Thursday. In his address he expressed gratitude to both Lord Beaverbrook, whose absence he regretted, and to Lady Dunn.

He had emphasized the loss of young people from the province, after they had graduated from New Brunswick universities, and felt that this was caused by the lack of opportunity in the Maritimes. He is convinced that this could be corrected by a growth in the economic prosperity of the Maritimes. In line with his ideas of economic growth, Dr. Wardell cited current meetings concerning the Atlantic Council, the Chignecto Canal and the Corridor Road through Maine, as examples of a strong movement for economic strength which has sprung up during the last decade.

Dr. Wardell commended the Colombo Plan for the aid it gave to foreign underdeveloped countries, but felt that Canada's first concern must be for its own people, as parts of New Brunswick are poorer than Asia.

Turning to the Survival theme, he said that all nuclear testing should stop by January 1, 1963. The only alternative is destruction, as today there are sufficient nuclear weapons to destroy the world. If we could only turn from the path of war to the path of life so that the best creative faculties of east and west could be joined together, a better and happier world would be in the making.

This is a glorious opportunity for the youth of today, declared Dr. Wardell. Young people, before the age of complacency sets in, should strive for betterment so that man can live in the image of God, that of peace and happiness.

S. R. C. REPORT

by Bob Cooper

At the SRC meeting last week Pete Snowball said that the Student Directories should be available sometime around November 15. It was estimated that the total cost of printing would reach the $1200.00 mark. They will sell for twenty-five cents each.

Barry Savage requested that one person, himself, be sent to a conference in Maine this weekend. Topics to be discussed at the meeting will include personnel and administration of Student Unions. Mr. Savage hopes to gain some information on how other universities use their Union buildings and how they go about raising funds. This trip is in connection with the proposed Student Union Building here at UNB.

It was revealed that some damage and considerable disruption have occurred in the offices of the SRC, Yearbook and Brunswickan. Some of the more intelligent intellectuals on campus have somehow obtained master keys to these offices, and are using them for their coffee breaks. Anyone found coffeeing in someone else's office will probably be paying a fine shortly thereafter.

A new financial system is being investigated by the SRC. Under this new system it will be the SRC that signs the checks concerning the various clubs on campus. Records will be kept of all SRC funds used by the clubs, and the portion not used will remain in the SRC funds. Also, a list of the articles bought by the clubs will be retained, and these records will be used in deciding in future years, whether goods to be purchased are really needed. This new system will be revealed sometime before October 17, when the first preliminary budget meeting will be held. Don't miss it.

An informal report was given by the President and Vice President on their reactions to the NFCUS conference held in Sherbrooke a short while ago. The main purpose of this off-the-cuff report, and the somewhat heated discussions which followed, was to acquaint members with the delegates' feelings on whether UNB should remain in this organization or get out. The general feeling on the Council was that the students at UNB were not getting what they should out of this organization, although there are many valuable assets to membership. What is to be gained in the future from the Federation? The delegates were of the opinion that students should be able to obtain a greater maturity, more interest in community affairs, and a more educated outlook on world life. However, the proposed Charter of the Federation leaves a lot to be desired. The Federation should be able to create a better position for Canadian students. For example, it wants a reduction in interest on loans which are used to build university buildings. What has it done? It has obtained for you income tax exemptions, promoted student discounts, travel services and loans, life insurance and railway reductions. Don't be surprised if you hear more of NFCUS in the future.
