

WILLIE SCOTT. A.D. 1881.

A little boy who had always been inclined to good, although never taught to love God. One time a Christian gentleman had dinner with the family, and before the meal asked a blessing on the food, which greatly impressed the child. Afterward he asked his father why he did this, and was told that the gentleman was asking God to bless them in partaking of the food. After this he would never eat without first saying grace. Shortly after, God called him home, and as he was passing away, he raised his hands and exclaimed, "Oh, mamma, I'm in my glory!"

MRS. E. DEARN. A.D. 1904.

We heard not a murmur escape her lips during her illness. She remarked to some who visited her, "What would I do if I had neglected seeking the Lord until now?" Some of her last words were: "I thank God that I am here in Ireland to help on the work, and tell the story of Jesus and His love to dying humanity. I am gloriously saved and cleansed through the precious blood of Jesus."
