PRESENT RATES INADEQUATE TO PAY CLAIMS AND EXPENSES

New York, March 18.—The hearing on the question of general liability rates in this city, before State Superintendent of Insurance Frank Hasbrouck, developed some interesting points and resulted in the suggestion that the present system be revised by the substitution of a method that will eliminate all unfair discrimination.

The hearing was based upon several complaints made to the Insurance Department, charging that the present system of dividing the city into several territories with arbitrary high minimum rates in certain localities worked an injustice to the property owners.

The suggestion was made by one of the department officials that a system of rating could be formulated which, based on facts revealed by inspection, would take into consideration the actual congestion of the individual risk and the congestion of the street as factors in determining the rate.

The Superintendent did not issue any formal order regarding general liability rates, but advised the Workmen's Compensation Service Bureau and the companies which had attended the hearing to submit to the Insurance Department within the next sixty days some more equitable method of rating this class of hazard which would be free from criticism as to unfair discrimination.
